best interests of the Province to make FIVE OR SIX FREIGHT TRIPS, LEADED TO CAPACITY, which is very different from making a second passenger trip with a half dozen people as we often do in the fall, but here again I do not expect "An Old Sea Dog" to realize the difference between running several freight trips when the weather is favorable and a second passenger trip which has to be run on a schedule, no matter what the weather conditions are like.

When speaking of the five or six trips, he said: "When three years ago, one was in the Captain's estimation, the only sufficient and safe course to pursue—for the money."

The above is a lie, and if "Sea Dog" has a spark of manhood left in him he will retract it or come out over his own name and repeat it. I do not say the lie is intentional, it may be caused by his loss of memory but it is a lie never the less, and now that it has been pointed out to him he has a duty to verify his statement and retract it or give his reasons for making the statement.

Unless he will do either I will pay no more attention to his whining.

I have answered his letters and questions fully and if he wants to continue the controversy I would ask that he do likewise, for his mere statement that there is nothing in my "letters needing a reply" is too much like giving because as a reason for doing anything.

Here are some of the questions I put to him in my different letters he cannot answer them without damaging his argument and admits his inability to do so by his silence on these points.

Does he believe what he wrote when he said: "Read's prime reason for not wanting a second boat, is because he cannot be master of them both at the same time?"

What are the "absolute obligations" he says the C. N. R. has to P. E. I.?

Has he any reason to believe that the C. N. R. would build a second car ferry if they were operating this route?

Did they have a second boat standing by to take up the St. John's Digby run when the Empress got ashore last year?

Because there is a deficit in some other part of Canada is that an argument for or against the need of a second ferry?

So long as this boat can handle the freight and passengers as well as she has been doing in the past, is there an absolute necessity for a second boat?

If so why?

These are questions I have asked him before that I would like to see him answer.

I am, Sir, etc.,

DR. FREDERICK WILLIAM JARDINE

Dr. Frederick William Jardine died at his home in Kensington on March 29, having suddenly succumbed to heart failure. During the month previous to his lamented death he had sustained the burden of a very extensive and laborious practice, yet disclosing no evidence, whatever of any weakness, but on the contrary, displaying every mark of robust health. Hence his very sudden death was a positively severe shock to his devoted family and numerous friends.

The family who are thus so sorely stricken are his widow, nee Ella Walker, a native of Freetown, and four sons, Ingram W. in his final year in medicine in McGill University, Wylie J. D. Masters, Fred and Eric W. at home and Jennie N. teacher, Margate; also his mother, Mrs. Adelaide Jardine, Freetown and sisters Mrs. Annie Humphrey, Kensington an Miss Etta with her mother at Freetown and his brothers Andrew, Control Belouque, Dr. John Scott, Sask. Benjamin, Wilnot; James, Kelvin; George, Freetown, Robert, S. P. Can. Bank Commerce, Kensington.

Dr. Jardine was born at Freetown, September 12, 1877, the son of the late David Jardine and Adelaide Campbell his wife. In boyhood he attended the public school at Freetown. He entered Prince of Wales College and qualified for the profession of teaching in the First Class, For some years he taught at Clifton, New London, then entered Dalhousie University, pursuing the medical course and graduating in 1904. He then entered upon the practice of his profession at Kensington when he successfully continued up to the time of his death.

Although he efficiently discharged the duties of his profession in an extended field, yet he pressed time to discharge duties in various avocations. He firmly pressed the demands that were made to secure for Kensington the Act of Incorporation. He had served faithfully at the Council Board and at the time of his death, was Mayor, serving a third term. In whatever capacity he served he aimed at advancement. He was several times elected to a position on the cause of education along consistently strove to advance the School Board, and here he persevered lines. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and was a valued factor on the Board of management, serving on the committee that supervised the building of the new manse.

He, with his family, was seated at supper at 5.00 p. m. on March 29, in his normal health and naturally buoyant spirits and had almost finished, when he exclaimed that he was taking a weak spell. These were his last words, then he expired. Miss E. Dymant, a nurse, who was visiting the family at the time attempted resuscitation and as soon as possible, Dr. Gillis was called, but Dr. Jardine had already passed away before medical skill could be secured. During the days immediately preceding his death, no evidence whatever was disclosed of any abnormal conditions. His many admiring friends and his anxious of the fact that he lived a useful, busy life, and earnestly and honestly endeavored to discharge the duties of his profession with all the skill that talent, education and record lives can command, in high esteem by the medical profession, and the evidence of his extensive practice bears proof of this. His life was full of action and his acts proceeded from everything that he maintained a keen interest in and strove to a distance its interests since its inception. He was a member of Regal Lodge No. 124, I. O. O. F., and Eclectic Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F.

His funeral services were held on Monday, April 2, from his late residence, to the Presbyterian church, the services being conducted by Rev. A. M. Robertson, assisted by Rev. Geo. Ayres, Rev. J. M. Murchison and Rev. D. K. Ross, Mr. T. W. Bentley most effectively sang "Will the Circle be Unbroken?" in the service at the house.

Rev. Mr. Robertson preached most impressively from the text Luke 22:27: "I am among you as he that serveth." It was an eloquent panegyric on the import of the sad event that must, sooner or later, enter into the life of all mortals. Messrs. G. W. Bentley, Geo. Brown, Harry Brown and Herald Leard sang a quartette, "Shall We Meet Beyond the River."

The member of Regal Lodge 124, I. O. O. F., marched to the church, and also the members of Eclectic Rebekah, the former conducting a service at the grave. The members of the medical profession were representative of the whole province, and they, together with a number of nurses of the Prince County Hospital, members of Town Council and of the School Board, formed the procession as mourners with the members of the family.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. W. G. Simpson, J. M. Leard, James B. Proffit, J. H. Walker, B. R. McFadyen and Dr. A. A. Lockhart. The floral tributes were notably appropriate, being an emphatic testimony of the respect in which the deceased was held. In conclusion, it may be said that he sacrificed his own health to preserve the health of his many patients, never sparing his own physical or mental powers when the needs of suffering humanity appealed to him. It is sad to realize that he has passed away forever, and that his widow and family are thus so acutely afflicted, but his name and his inimitable good works still endure.

"Have you a Twenty Pay Life Policy?"

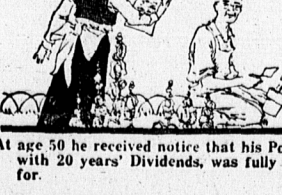

A true story of a Canada Life Policy issued over forty years ago.

At age 30 he secured a $5,000 Twenty Pay Life Policy

At age 35 he received his first Dividend, which was added to the Policy

At age 50 he received notice that his Policy, with 20 years' Dividends, was fully paid for.

At age 70 he withdrew the cash value for his personal use. For years he had $5,000 protection, and the cash value with dividends now amounted to $6,140. He had paid only $2,830 in premiums.

A Policy on your life will do much towards carrying out your intentions—whether you live or die.

Nothing can absolutely replace your life—but a policy will in some measure offset the financial loss which will come to those who now look to you for support

It may pay off the mortgage, supply food and clothing for your family, keep the children at school.

It may be all that is left of your life work—to keep you in comfort in your old age.

But—your Policy must be large enough.

The Twenty Payment Life

policy is selected by many for the following reasons.

Premiums cease in twenty years—therefore your policy will be fully paid for before you reach later life—when your earning power will have declined.

Cash values increase year by year, and after the third annual premium the policy cannot lapse as long as sufficient value exists.

Dividends are paid during the twenty years and as long as the policy remains in force thereafter.

After one year the policy is indisputable, and you may reside or travel in any part of the world, or engage in any occupation (except aviation) without affecting your insurance.

A twenty pay life policy will provide an amount in event of death equal to twenty or thirty times the annual premium, and produce an estate of $2,000, $5,000, $10,000, or more as arranged.

An Easy Savings Plan

These active progressive years of life in which you are earning the most money are the years in which premiums can be most easily met.

Twenty years is a convenient period and premiums spread over that length of time are moderate and easy to handle.

If You Are Insurable

—do not delay decision on this important matter—delays are dangerous.
