SANDRA THE JEALOUS
By Jane Phelps

SANDRA GOES OVER THE HOUSE

CHAPTER XV.
I was terribly uncomfortable all through dinner. Hetty served us and every little while she would cast a sympathizing glance in my direction. It comforted me, but I knew it would anger Everett if he caught her, so I tried to avoid looking at her as much as possible.
"Now go and take down that ridiculous towel effect," Everett said, as we rose from the table. "You have altogether too much hair to do it that way."
"I'll finish my unpacking, if you will excuse me," I returned. He had told me to take my hair down before the housekeeper. "One would think a child instead of a married woman to hear him talk!" I thought as I climbed the stairs to my room. But as soon as I opened the door I forgot my annoyance, everything but the exquisite room which was to be mine.
"Won't lose Grandon stare when she sees this?" I said aloud. "I will ask her to come during vacation. That settled to my satisfaction, I proceeded to unpack. It was a perfect delight to lay my clothes away in the padded bureau-drawers scented with lavender, and to hang my wraps and gowns in the big closets. I lingered over so long that Everett called to know if I were coming down again.

Shelter from the BURNING SUN
MENNEN'S TALCUM POWDERS
Introduced 40 years ago - still the best!
If you want me, I'd like some music if you are not too tired.
"No, indeed," I called back. "I'm right down."
I had quite a talent for music, the only one I possessed. Mother was a good musician and I had been well taught. I played an hour for him, then he sent me to bed.
"Are you coming too?"
"Not for a while."
As I mounted the stairs, he spoke to the housekeeper. I heard the word "library," and then something about him doing as he always had done.

The entire house was richly furnished. But of all the rooms, my own room in the soft gray and rose, was the best. It didn't look as if it had been used very much, while the rest of the house showed some wear.
Tenders in writing in sealed envelopes will be received by the undersigned for the purchase of the following properties, in Charlottetown, being parts of the Estate of the late John H. Gates, Esq.
1. Double Tenement house and land having a front of 52 feet on the North side of Alley Street and running back 65 feet 7 inches, now let to John McInnis and John O'Neill.
2. Lot with Cooper Shop adjoining No. 1, and having a front of 26 feet on Alley Street.
3. Double Tenement and land in Ward 5, having a front of 39 feet 8 inches on the East side of Weymouth Street and running back 84 feet, 4 inches, now let to John McAleer and Hedley Anderson.
4. Brick house and brick building at rear fronting 43 feet 3 inches on North side of Queen Square, running back 160 feet 11 inches. Front building leased for $240.00 a year (3 1/2 years to run.) rear building let for $50.00 a month.
5. Lot 86 by 99 feet on Longworth Street part of old woolen factory property.
Tenders received at our office, Prowse Block, up to Friday 25th July at 12 o'clock, noon.
Separate tenders to be put in for each of the 5 lots. Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque for 10 per cent of the amount of tender.
The executors and the undersigned are not bound to accept highest or any tender.

At breakfast the next morning, Everett said:
"Mrs. Gray will show you over the house today. You will want to know where things are kept."
Mrs. Gray didn't look a bit pleased, but said nothing.
After Everett had left for the office she came to my door and I knew by the jangling of a bunch of keys that she had come for me. And I knew by the expression on her face, that she did not relish her job--although I couldn't understand why she felt unkindly towards me.
I jumped up immediately.
"Perhaps we better commence with the linen, Mrs. Graham," she said coldly, preceding me down the stairs.
"Just as you say," I returned carelessly. I really thought it was going to be an awful bore to spend my morning going through closets, and neither could I see the necessity for it when we had a housekeeper. But it was Everett's wish--rather, his command--so I must do as he had told me.
I answered her politely when she showed me the piles of neatly stacked sheets and pillow cases, or the table linen and towels. I was more impatient when she insisted upon opening drawer, and closets. By the time we were half through I was bored to death, and yawning. I wanted to go back to my own room and write to Rose and to Mother.
"Your don't seem interested," Mrs. Gray finally said.
"Forgive me, but really I am not! I don't see why you should be bothered to show me all these things. I am going to live here. There will be time enough to see them, I guess."
"Then you don't intend to take charge?"
"Me! In this big house? Why I couldn't save my life. Aren't you going to stay? Oh, please do!" My first dislike was forgotten in the fear that I was to be left to manage the house. "Mother never let me do but the simplest things to help. She said I was too young."
