Capt. McMillan recently arrived from Vancouver to take charge of the B. C. T. & Timber Co.'s tug Nona, and while making his first trip on her met with the accident. While the Nona, which has been carrying passengers between Prince Rupert and Port Essington, was moored at the wharf at Essington, Capt. McMillan attempted to walk the plank which did service as a gangway from the wharf to the hurricane deck. When half-way across, the board slipped sideways, throwing him heavily to the lower deck and breaking his leg just below the hip. —Provincial Daily, Vancouver. Capt. McMillan has many friends in this Province.

The many friends of Angus and Mrs. Matheson, Springfield, will regret to hear of the untimely death of their eldest son, James Bigge. Matheson, which occurred Aug. 12th, at his home in Springfield, from typhoid fever. The fever developed about three weeks ago (it is supposed from a drink of water taken from an unused well), and in spite of the best medical skill and careful nursing proved fatal. The deceased was a young lad of splendid physique and had always enjoyed the best of health. He was much thought of, being a general favorite and much beloved by all who knew him. He was a member of Union Division, S. O. T. and had of late expressed a desire to join the Church, which he attended regularly. His funeral, which was largely attended, was conducted by Rev. John Murray of Clinton, his minister, assisted by Rev. Dr. Cumming of Nova Scotia. His remains were laid to rest in the family plot in the Summerfield Cemetery. The pall-bearers being, E. W. E. Haslam, Ernest Haslam, Edward McDonald, Geo. McKenna, Alex. McDonald and Fred J. Saslam.
