Average Span of Life Longer by Four Years

(Special to The Guardian)
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 31.—The average life of man has lengthened four years in the last quarter century, despite the crime wave, war, automobile and other hazards. Within another generation the allotted three score years and ten will be a thing of the past. Dr. George W. Hoagland declared today, basing his claims on mortality statistics of the American Insurance Union of which he is secretary. Improvements brought about in sanitation, the nation-wide anti-smoking fight and other steps have contributed toward man's longevity. Dr. Hoagland said severe epidemics of typhoid and malaria, which formerly took such huge toll of life is no longer known.

WHITE WOMAN RETURNS FROM TRIP TO ARCTIC

Mrs. R. Lewis is the First Living White Woman to Accomplish Trip to the Oil Fields of the Far North.

CALGARY, Aug. 30.—Completing a trip to the Arctic circle that other living white woman has ever accomplished, Mrs. R. Lewis of Great Falls, Montana, reached this city Saturday afternoon from the oil fields of Fort Norman in the far North. Mrs. Lewis made the arduous and often extremely hazardous trip in company with her fifteen year old son. Mrs. Lewis bears the unique and worthy distinction of being the first white woman ever to complete the round trip to the oil fields of Fort Norman. She is a robust, healthy American woman, one of the very finest type on the Continent and the terrible journey laden with great hardships at every point, held no terrors what ever for her. She reached the Norman oil field on June 15, and returning by way of Fort McMurray reached Edmonton last week. Enthusiasm is an adequate word to express the feeling of Mrs. Lewis on such a trip to the Arctic circle early in the season, now she found every foot of the journey packed with intense interest, with new adventure and new experience every mile of the trip. With notebook crammed with dates and with dozens of photographs to her reporter memory brimming over with her thrilling experiences enhance the value of her stories. Mrs. Lewis is planning writing her experiences for the benefit of news paper readers. "The North is a truly amazing and wonderful country," said Mrs. Lewis during the course of an interview with newspapermen. Its possibilities of which its great natural wealth is the mainspring are practically limitless. The men in the north are all so chivalrous, too. They were so glad to see a white woman from the "outside" that they gave me more care and attention than I really needed. In return I visited all their camps and cooked for them the good old fashioned home made biscuits, such as only women know how to make. "What about the oil fields?" Mrs. Lewis was asked. "From what I could learn the officials of the old company and others seemed to be tremendously enthusiastic over the prospect of finding great oil wells there. The oil well at Norman is a wonderful well. Others are being drilled but progress is slow. There did not seem to be much activity in the vicinity of the Great Slave Lake drilling field. Prospectors are paying more attention to Norman. "At Fort Simpson quite a lively little town is growing up. Many people are taking up land there. Mrs. Lewis intends returning to the Far North on the first steamer next year.

G.W.V.A. Alarmed At Women Immigrants

(Special to The Guardian)
OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 31.—Alarm is expressed by G.W.V.A. officials and from other quarters at the steady influx of women immigrants from Continental Europe. It has been set forth that certain restrictions should be made effective to curtail such immigration. It is understood that the intention of the British immigration officials has been to encourage the immigration of unmarried women from England, where the census showed the number of women to be far in excess of the men.

National Housewife's League Opposes High Tariffs

(Special to The Guardian)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—That long-suffering individual, the middle class consumer, has at last made his appearance before the Senate Finance Committee, having under consideration the Fordney Permanent Tariff Bill. He did not appear in person, but was represented by a committee headed by Mrs. Julian Heath, President of the National Housewife's League. Mrs. Heath warned the committee that any law which increased the cost of living would cause something like a revolution among the laboring people in the United States. She particularly addressed herself to the increased duties upon salt and pickled fish, saying that herrings were a staple food among the poor in large cities.

Bullets Fly in Streets of Belfast

BELFAST, Aug. 30.—Street fighting, which has been in progress since yesterday, became particularly violent after one o'clock today, the dinner hour at ninety factories in the side streets radiating from Donegan Gardens and north Queen's Street. One laborer was shot dead and several persons wounded, including one in the eye. Citizens placed sand bags in the middle of the streets and maintained heavy firing against the police and military, who were forced to abandon the streets. Armored cars were summoned. At one time the pattern of bullets resembled a hail storm. Last night's rioting, when two persons were killed and several injured was the most serious the city has experienced for some time, the police and military were engaged throughout the night in subduing gunmen and snipers who were operating from windows and roofs and who continued their fusillade until dawn. Street lamps were extinguished and the only light came from burning houses to which the mob had set fire. William Kennedy was shot dead in Earl Street and Annie Watson, a five year old girl, got into the line of fire in North Queen Street and was shot dead. Forty-eight persons wounded in the rioting were taken to hospitals. Shipyard workers returning from work through York Street tonight were the victims of heavy sniping activities. So intense became the firing that the tram car service was diverted to another route. One unidentified man was shot to death, making a total for the day of four killed and bringing the total deaths since the rioting began yesterday to six.

Premier Meighen Speaks at London Thursday Night

OTTAWA, Aug. 30.—Much interest is being shown in political circles here in the announcements to be made by the Prime Minister, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen at his meeting in London, Ontario, on Sept. 1. The Prime Minister leaves for London tomorrow night and on his way home will spend Friday in Toronto where he is to deliver an address at the exhibition. While definite dates, it is understood, have not yet been arranged, it is expected that shortly after the Prime Minister returns to Ottawa he will announce further meetings to be held in Ontario and that the next few weeks will see an energetic speaking campaign under way with the Prime Minister and other members of the cabinet taking part. Discussion of the possibilities of Premier Meighen's London speech is plentiful. It is generally felt, however, that his announcement will not be that of an immediate election.

SOME IMPRESSIONS OF PARIS IN 1921

PARIS, Aug. 30.—"Paris is gay again; yes, monsieur, but it is not the Paris of before the war," said the wife of the Boulevard des Italiens banker. The crowds flocking to the momentary, and jewelry shops of the Rue de la Paix are not the aristocratic set seen there a few years ago, but are the bourgeois of Lyon, Marseilles and other places in the provinces, new rich, who made tremendous fortunes in the war. And the same old playground of the world that it was in the old days Nothing is permitted officially to jar one seeing Paris on parade. Even the beggar is barred from the boulevards. Out on the Bois in the afternoon the tea places are crowded as never before. A couple reaches a spot on the floor and five minutes later they have not progressed more than a few feet. The women are wonderfully dressed, with the smartest of hats, bracelets and their ankles, and dresses which would make Ziefeld weep with envy. Many of the men dancing are zigzots—professional tango lizards—with spats, sharply-creased trousers, colored waistcoat and Pleadilly morning coats. They are the professional hangerson. A ziglot approaches the wife of the tourist when she skips a dance, and asks if he can have the next. At its finish he expects a few francs. A few months ago a story was printed in the papers that a French government official had decreed that women in French revenues should wear more clothes. Probably he on a vacation, because in two revenues the entire apparel of the chorus could be placed in a tiny pocketbook. In the case of revues, it is, see one, see all. Paris is filled with Russian actors, Russian dancers, Russian singers, Russian noblemen and Russian radicals. The Russia vaude-

Greeks and Turks In Fierce Fighting

(Special to The Guardian)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 31.—The Greek troops in Asia minor have broken through the extreme left of the Turkish Nationalist army, which lost its initiative of the last few days and the Greek army has crossed the Sakarya River. Certain contingents of the Greeks also have crossed the Iljariver and are storming the second Turkish defence line. The Turks, who are giving way at this point, are expected to make a stand on the high ground around Angora. The Greek advance in the last few days was temporarily held up recently due to lack of water has been resumed. The Turks have rushed two cavalry divisions from the desert to the defence of Angor, where violent fighting is still in progress. The Angora Government has issued a call to arms to all able bodied men between the ages of 30 and 45. The call orders them to report Sept. 1.

U. S. POSTMASTER GENERAL PROPOSES NEW BANK SCHEME

To Coax Money Out of Stocking Banks for Safe Deposit With Higher Interest.

(Special to The Guardian)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Postmaster General Hays has completed his draft of a plan to break the old stocking bank and submit it to Chairman Stefferson of the House Post Office and Post Roads Committee, who will take it up when Congress resumes the session. The features of Mr. Hays scheme are, the rate of interest to be paid depositors from 2 to 3 per cent, abolish the minimum age limit of ten years, authorize joint and trust accounts, authorize changes to extend postal savings facilities to as many as possible of the 53,000 post offices. Deposits now are accepted at only about 6,000 offices, the funds collected to be redeposited in local banks and interest paid on deposits held less than one year. A finger print system of identification extended as rapidly as possible. The Postmaster General said, in explaining the plan, that there is a tremendous amount of hoarded wealth in this country which is out of circulation now and which has not been coaxed out of hiding by either the savings banks or postal savings. Nothing can bring it out but faith in the security of the Government and the larger interests return on deposits, also acquainting everyone as to our purpose and their opportunity. This we hope to do.
