REMAINS ARRIVED.—The remains of the late Earnest Lewis who died in Chapeau, Ont., arrived in Charlottetown Tuesday and were met by a delegation of the Knights of Columbus. The remains were forwarded yesterday morning to his late home in Cardigan, for burial.

ANOTHER ISLAND PRISONER IN GERMANY RELEASED.—A cable message from the Canadian Red Cross London, England was received by A. Newbery on New Years Day stating that his nephew Frederick J. Fraser a prisoner of war in Germany for the last three years and nine months was now safe in England.

CALEDONIAN CLUB.—The regular monthly meeting of the Caledonian Club was held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 31, the newly elected president Mr. J. D. Stewart, in the chair. Reports were read from the Financial Secretary and Treasurer which showed that the club is in a good financial standing. During the past four years (the war period) the large sum of $1190.12 was given for charitable and patriotic purposes. The total proceeds of the recent St. Andrews Dinner over $100 were donated to the G. W. V. A. for benefit of returned soldiers.

NEW YEAR'S DAY.—New Year's day was quietly observed in this city. There were few people moving in the forenoon, owing to the disagreeable weather. In the afternoon it cleared up with rising temperature. The sleighing was splendid and quite a number of teams were out enjoying the traditional New Year drive. The usual levee was held at Government House where His Honor was at home to a large number of citizens. He was attended by His Aide-de-Camp, Major Bartlett and Private Secretary Judge McDonald. There were also many callers at the Bishop's Palace to extend New Year's greetings to His Lordship Bishop O'Leary.

A SPENDID FILM SHOW.—Those who had the pleasure of seeing the masterpiece of film production, The Masters of the World, at the Prince Edward on New Years day and evening and yesterday and evening are unanimous in declaring it the greatest picture story they had ever seen here or elsewhere. To describe it would be as impossible as to describe a battle; to see it was to see battles: heroism, suffering and all that is included in the one word, War. But in the story, which began in peace and ran like a golden thread through the war and into the peace beyond it, the whole production was magnificent and it is gratifying to know that full houses greeted every performance. Manager Gallagher is to be congratulated on having secured this splendid treat for his patrons and he deserves and will no doubt be accorded their continued patronage when as it is hoped will occur frequently, he brings on a show that costs more than the ordinary admission fee. The people are always willing to pay a good price for a show and they have learned to accept Manager Gallagher's judgment as to what constitutes a good show. There are more good shows in filmdom and his patrons may rely on Manager Gallagher bringing them when they are available.

Overhead contact planes with observers are watching the progress of the infantry and flying back and dropping little maps showing their location.

Fighting planes are keeping the skies clear of the enemy. Other planes are dropping bombs on the enemy transport which is endeavoring to retreat over the congested roads. Audacious planes sweep down from 50 to 100 feet and machine guns terrify the enemy transport. Our advance is at last stopped by reserves of the infantry and machine guns rushed up from depots by all kinds of conveyances, mostly motor-cories.

HELL LET LOOSE 4.30—"FIRE!" rings out the battery commander's command and thousands of tongues speak forth their flaming message. The noise is terrific and hell is let loose. The shells are illuminated by the thousands of bursting flames from shells on enemy soil. The smoke becomes thick, the rattle of machine guns, and rifle fire are heard.—The enemy have started their defense—all along their front with the first blast of artillery were shot up and green lights—S. O. S. signals to their artillery for help. Their artillery endeavor to respond but they are handicapped by the gas and high explosives which our slogs and heavy batteries are pouring into them. They're brave and they work their guns despite this handicap. Their missiles, if death are falling among our infantry and artillery, and many a brave heart is stilled forever.

The stretcher bearers unperturbed by the din of the conflict are carrying out their humane tasks. The infantry are pressing on the barrage leaping in hundred yard leaps before them. The enemy who has taken refuge in his trench until the barrage has passed over him, jumps up and mans his machine gun or rifle. The fury of hate is on his face and he deals out death and wounds by the score. He is rushed and a bayonet driven through his chest. On press the gallant infantry overcoming obstacle after obstacle.

The battle of Amiens was the first big, successful offensive of the Allies and the blow struck by the Canadians was the outstanding feature of that success.

On the 17th of August which was stocktaking day for the Canadian Corps it was ascertained that 25 German anti-tank gun has scored a direct hit. In the meantime the battle rages onward. The heavier machine guns are being brought on mules and the field artillery are pushing up throwing their guns into position and taking a pot at targets from time to time. Down will go horse and rider. This is quickly disengaged and guns go on—nothing stops the mad rush for a definite task has been set before it.

At 6.30 they have reached the second objective. Here they consolidate and take a breath and wait for the field artillery to get into position and carry them along with another barrage.

The cavalry are also coming forward and in a very short time the tide of battle rolls onward again—tanks, infantry, cavalry, field artillery, etc., are pushing forward to take advantage of the demobilized enemy and keep him on the run.

There are no doubt many in this Province who have been saddened by that great battle. I can only comfort them with the thought that their loved ones lives were given at one of the most critical periods in the world's history. Their sacrifice will be perpetuated through all the ages to come—for the battle of Amiens will stand out when history is written as one of the decisive battles of the war.

At the close of Major McKinnon's able address a hearty vote of thanks was accorded him. Mr. Victor Lord who has recently returned from Birmingham, England where he was employed in turning out munitions for the army gave a short address describing what had been done by the leading firms in that city to supply the army. Other guests present were Mr. J. Stanley Wedlock and Mr. J. E. Bell. Major McKinnon at the request of the chairman said a few words regarding the valuable work of the Salvation Army and commended the forthcoming "drive" to the support of the community.
