Halifax Seeks Extra Revenue

(Canadian Press)
HALIFAX, Dec. 8.—City of Halifax is moving to derive some income from its vast untaxed properties. The Finance Committee today adopted the report of city solicitor G. F. Bethune, suggesting all lands, except property belonging to the Crown, be assessed and taxed accordingly.

The report, pointing out that more than 46 percent of taxable property in the city is exempt from payment, will be presented to City Council tomorrow evening.

Bethune said most of the untaxed lands belonged to the Crown, which he said was "almost impossible to tax." Balance of the properties belong to churches, schools, etc.

Has New Process For Manufacture Of Heavy Water

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—A new process of making heavy water, the world's most precious chemical, was announced tonight by Dr. Harold C. Urey, of Columbia University.

Columbia already has a pint of this stuff, which looks just like natural water, but which freezes at 39 degrees, boils at 215 and kills small plants and animals.

Apart from these spectacular and ominous aspects, the new water is opening to world-wide chemistry a fairland of discovery, which Dr. Urey described tonight. The only difference in this and other water is the weight of the hydrogen atoms.

In heavy water, they are twice the weight of ordinary hydrogen. These heavy atoms exist everywhere in nature, but in amounts so small as to be negligible.

Urey described his new method concentrates them by breaking up the water with an electric current, and catching the heavier atoms while they are momentarily separated from their innumerable, lightweight brothers.

The Columbia pint took for its making an original 4,000 gallons of water.

This 4,000 gallons was not ordinary water but waste water which had already passed through one electrolyzing stage in the plant of the Ohio Chemical Company. Dr. Urey said that it now is possible to make several cubic centimetres of heavy water daily, and that Columbia soon will have a quart.

It will be a quart less than counts being shipped to laboratories all over the world. Chemists everywhere are eagerly using the few available drops to pry new secrets from nature. Hitherto, the water cost an estimated $150 a gram, and upward of $70,000 a quart. Columbia's new process makes it for $15 to $20 a gram, and is expected to go lower.

Refuse To Probe U. S. Relation With League

(Associated Press)
LONDON, Dec. 14.—The government today turned down sharply a suggestion that the United States be asked what its objections were to membership in the League of Nations.

Godfrey Locker-Lampson Conservative suggested in the House of Commons this afternoon the United States Government be approached with the view of ascertaining what its chief objections were to such membership and asked if the Government would make the approach.

Captain Anthony Eden, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, replied:

"The Foreign Secretary regrets that he does not consider such a step either desirable or profitable."

Undiscouraged, Major Locker-Lampson followed with a query as to whether the chief deterrent of America's entry into the League was not the questions of sanctions—whereby members of the League may inflict penalties for violations of international pacts, he asked if it would not be advisable to explore that aspect of the question. Captain Eden did not answer.

May Try Again For Speed Win In Britain III

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(C. P.): Important alterations, expected to increase the speed of "Miss Britain III" will shortly be made. It is confidently expected if the experiments are successful, Hubert Scott-Paine will renew his challenge to Gar Wood, the American speedboat champion, for the Harnsworth trophy.

Hubert Scott-Paine's new world record of 1003 miles an hour on salt water is claimed as a triumph for aeronautical engineering, in the design of his boat as in the motor which provided the power. Much of the boat's design is the fruit of Scott-Paine's long experience of flying boat construction. Working on the basis of that knowledge, he was able to build a craft which transgresses most of the accepted rules of speedboat design, but which nevertheless has proved itself to be the most efficient craft of its kind in the world.

The builder employed light alloys specially developed for use in aircraft construction. The shape of the boat was planned aerodynamically. And for power plant he selected a Napier 1375 h. p. racing engine of the type fitted to some of the racing seaplanes constructed for the 1931 Schneider Trophy contest. Incidentally, about 18 years ago Scott-Paine produced the first flying boat to move at a measured speed of 100 miles an hour. That "record", too, was made over Southampton water.

All other high speeds in motor boats have been accomplished in inland waters. Conditions for Scott-Paine's recent attempt were decidedly bad. A brisk easterly wind followed early morning fog. The water surface was choppy, and the beam wind and beam sea slowed him down.

His best run over the mile course was made against the tide at 102.1 m. p. h.; with the tide, curiously enough, his speed dropped to 98.23 m. p. h., the difference almost exactly coinciding with the rate at which the tide was turning. The reason for this apparently paradoxical happening is that the beam wind and sea affected the run with the tide more than it did in the other direction, obliging him to rudder against the tendency to deviate from the straight line and at the same time slightly to close the engine throttle.

Recognizing the importance of the major agricultural exhibitions and shows as an agency for the improvement of live stock, the Dominion Department of Agriculture has for years made them annual fairs.

Bacon exports to Great Britain for the first ten months of this year showed an increase of 29,815,400 pounds on the 1932 corresponding months.

Civil Servants Will Discuss Problems

OTTAWA, Dec. 13.—Representatives of all civil service organizations in Canada will meet with Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning for a "round table" discussion of their problems and hopes.

It is expected a dozen officials of the various civil service bodies will attend the meeting which is becoming an annual event. The service organization heads are meeting with the minister at the latter's invitation.

The 10 percent salary reduction now in effect nearly two years and the suspension of statutory increases, promotions, retirement funds and annual leave, will form the basis of the conversations.

With the salary deduction came temporary suspension of the statutory salary increases which were previously so ordered that the civil servant could quite accurately forecast the course of his career well in advance. No detail of the proposals that will be made to the government have been given publicly but it is learned that the service organizations will urge the minister to take such steps as will restore "the greatest good to the greatest number."

France Demurs At German Demands

PARIS, Dec. 14.—The subject of direct disarmament negotiations between France and Germany was discussed in detail at a lengthy session of the council of ministers today.

Foreign minister Joseph Paul Boncour reported on the conversation Chancellor Hitler and French Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet. He revealed Germany had asked an army of 300,000 men, tanks, planes, battleships and submarines as a basis of negotiations.

France demurred on the naval demands, it was learned, and specified it was willing to discuss a

German army of 300,000 men if Chancellor Hitler's brown shirts are included or disbanded.

No definite action was taken by the Cabinet.

Inasmuch as Great Britain is attempting to effect a pact of mutual non-aggression between Germany and France, the government prefers to await the return to Paris of Lord Tyrrell, British Ambassador. At that time a decision is expected as to whether France believes a non-aggression pact would satisfy her security demands and whether she is willing to go ahead with direct conversations with Germany.

To what extent France's demand that the Brown Shirts be included in any future German army or dissolved entirely will impede the progress of such negotiations, was a subject for conjecture.

Hitler has always insisted that his Brown Shirts cannot be credited as a military body and are being maintained only to stamp out any Communist renaissance. The French, however, have always declined to admit this and hold that the Brown Shirts are drilled and trained as regular army men.

Hitler guaranteed demilitarization of the left bank of the Rhine, but demanded France renounce the Saar basin plebiscite, scheduled for 1935 under League of Nations auspices and return this territory to Germany forthwith.

The plebiscite was arranged to allow residents of the Saar to choose between French or German sovereignty or continue sponsorship of the League of Nations.

Chancellor Hitler agreed to permanent control and supervision of armaments provided his own demands were granted. In an effort to keep the conversations alive, Britain proposed that France agree to "slight armament reductions" in principle.

The majority of the cabinet opposed Hitler's demands but authorized Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour to continue conversations.

ORIGINATED IN REIGN OF GEORGE II

CHESTER, England, Dec. 14.—(C. P.): The origin of the notice "Trespassers will be prosecuted," was given by Justice Mackinnon at Chester Assizes recently.

An Act was passed in the reign of George II, he said, making it an offence to trespass after a warning had been given. Landowners all over the land put up notices which constituted a warning. The Act had long been repealed, but the notice continued, although it could not be enforced.

England Starting To Clean-up Slums

LONDON, Dec. 14.—England has launched a vigorous offensive against slums, signalled by a stirring speech last night by the Prince of Wales. The Prince, speaking to 6,000 members of the famous Toc H at that organization's 18th birthday party, declared: "Not only are slums a disgrace in these modern times, but rebuilding and rehousing make a slum to almost every industry in the country, meaning an all-round greater measure of prosperity."

Coincidentally with the Prince's speech Sir Hilton Young, Minister of Health in the National Government, told a West Bromwich audience the Government planned to demolish 20,000 houses in various parts of the country. He said the buildings had been condemned as unfit for habitation. He admitted the adequacy of the scheme was open to question.

During this week the Prince of Wales will make another of his extensive tours, going this time to the north of England to inspect various social works undertaken for the benefit of the unemployed. He will spend Wednesday visiting Hull, Dewey, York and Oley; Thursday at Pontefract, Barnsley, Rotherham and Sheffield; Friday in Huddersfield and adjacent towns.
