scriptions, news or advertising ber is 233.

NEW POSITION. — Mr. K. T.
Ellis, for many years manager of the Men's Wear Dept. of Messrs.
R. T. Holman, Ltd., has resigned his position to become associated with his son, Mr. R. E. Ellis in the insurance business.

MODERN CHIVALRY. — in the pleasure grounds of the immortals there was considerable discontent yesterday. The shades of Alexander, Priam, Hector and Perseus, were reported to be decidedly grumpy, and their chagrin was matched by Nelson, Farrut, Sumner, Wellington, Wolfe and Bonaparte, for a new record of darling and a new stage of modern chivalry had been established in the town of Summerside. — A man was seen walking down Water St. with the first straw hat of the season.

WHICH IS IT. — There is considerable doubt in certain sections of Summerside as to the reliability of the current calendar. According to those who consider themselves up-to-date, folks are laboring under the impression that this is the month of May, but other people are feeling that it is the autumn of 1925. The weather tells us so; The roads are of the autumn vintage and two cars have arrived from the mainland — tourists — carrying the 1925 license plates. And according to the men who do not go by the calendar these are the last survivors of the 1925 tourist season.

The "EASY" ELECTRIC WASHER

Champions the cause of the housewife. In these days of labour troubles with its strikes and unrest, there is a real grievance that is not being adjusted as it should, and we cannot for the life of us understand why it has not meant a general strike before this, and that's the laborious drudgery of the weekly washday under old fashioned back breaking methods.

If Men Did the Washing

Serious now men—just stop and consider what it means to the women folk to operate the old fashioned washer and wringer. If you'll stay at home for two Mondays and do the family wash we'll wager a good size bet that you'll find a good excuse the next time or you'll get a Power Washer right away.

The "Easy" does away with hard work—we believe it the most efficient washer on the market today. (You can get cheaper machines but none as good.) But if you don't think as we do, select your favorite machine and get it now—today. You install every labor saving device possible in your office—your store—your factory—your farm—your business—no matter what, but there's no work of yours that carries the drudgery of wash day —Honest is there?

Free Demonstration

Right in your home and see just how it will wash the heaviest Blankets and the finest Blouses or Lace Curtains without wear on the clothes.

Phone 162 and say—"We'd like to try the Easy".
Won't you do it now—today.

Terms arranged if necessary.

The slender stair cushion, an innovation at dances, can be as elaborate as a hostess chooses, or it can be a plain, simple little affair covered with practical material on one side and a delicate silk or satin with due consideration of dance frocks, on the other.

Debutantes at the forthcoming courts at Buckingham Palace will be luckier than their sisters because by a special command of the King an invitation to one of the Garden parties will be issued to every debutante presented this year and also to her parents. The King has observed that these girls are seen at court but once during the year of their presentation, and it is to give them further social opportunities that the innovation was made.

Regimental brooches, so popular during the great war, are being brought into favor again. Society women are wearing them mostly at sporting functions on dresses and pinned into small felt hats which are very popular at race meetings.

Our Great Problem

admirably expressed by Mr. W. J.
Bullman of Winnipeg, the first President of the National Council, at the conference in Toronto in 1925. To the initiative and enlightened zeal of Mr. Bullman more, perhaps than to any other is due the organization of the Council and such measure of success as it has yet attained. "The conviction," he says, "that the forces that make for mutual understanding and good will among men and nations has to be developed and strengthened to preserve civilization grow into a passionate desire which was voiced from pulpit and platform and found expression in the daily press and in periodical literature throughout the English speaking world. At every stage the discussion pointed to organized education as the agency through which the end sought might be reached. It was not surprising that Canadian communities should have reacted to this discussion and that a group of earnest men in Winnipeg should have met to consider what steps might be taken to give practical effect to the desire for strengthening the possibilities of education for the formation of ideals and the development of character."

In confirmation of these ideas Mr. Bullman gives lengthy extracts from two eminent writers. But they need no confirmation. We all know the permanent bent given to the mind and character of young people under the stress and direction of the emotion of ideals and the capacity for sacrifice in the service of these ideals which such education creates in youthful minds.

It was the conviction in the limitless power of organized education and the firm belief in the nat-
