New Brunswick

put the very best stock on the market in order to hold it. New Brunswick's season last year was so dry that when the potatoes were being harvested by mechanical processes they suffered many bruises which worked against them in grading causing a heavy loss in order to keep the grade up to standard. New Brunswick has shipped a great many cargoes of potatoes to the Far West, even to British Columbia, and the product has been very well received. From St. John there have been over 600,000 barrels and sacks of New Brunswick stock shipped to Cuba. The past year has been the heaviest export ever known and the profits to the farmer and shippers have ben practically nil.

The recent threat of an embargo has caused quite a stir in potato circles and the shippers are careful to see that the grade is of the very highest standard as only by this means can the market be held. In this connection it is well to note that farmers shipping potatoes in large quantities for shipment abroad generally are somewhat careless in the pack and the result is that at the wharf where loading is being done the checkers have to lay aside many bags and barrels which are damp. This entails considerable expense and trouble in reconditioning and it could be avoided if the farmers would not try to get their damp stock off.

Mr. C. C. Thompson, is the Manager, of the Canadian Division of the Southgate Import and Export Company and he is looking after the interests of his firm in the shipment of the cargo now being loaded. He informed the Guardian representative that due to the very keen competition and large quantities being shipped to an already overcrowded market, he has had to be very careful in the selection of potatoes to go in the steamer. A thorough cull is being made of the sacks and th eresult is that there are a very large number of bags left in the shed which are considered unfit to be sent to Cuba. Almost every car showed some damage; mostly caused from frozen potatoes, and in some instances whole cars were rejected by the Inspector,—damage being caused by frozen stock, which made it absolutely unfit to ship to a warm climate such as Cuba. Mr. Thompson stated that when the Greta takes her 10,000 bags out there will be about enough for another load left. This will probably go forward in a short time but he is not very hopeful that the price obtained will be anything like the one now quoted.

In connection with the above the following clipping from the St. John Telegraph-Journal will be of Interest:

WOODSTOCK, N. B., May ..— A large number of potato dealers were in session here today. The disposal of the potatoes now on hand was discussed, as the situation is considered serious. Delegates were present from all sections of Carleton and Victoria.

Presentation To Miss Acorn

After the song eucharist on Sunday the friends and well wishers of Miss Gussie Acorn met in St. Peters School Room to make her a presentation on the eve of her departure for Providence, R. I., where she will be married to Mr. Stanley Bryant.

The presentation was made by the Rev. E. Malone who in a short speech spoke of Miss Acorn's faithful and valued service to St. Peters and gave her the hearty and sincere wishes and prayers of her friends at St. Peters for God's blessing on her and Mr. Bryant on their wedding day, and after.

Miss Acorn replied most suitably and the manner in which her remarks were received showed the esteem felt for her by those present. The following is the text of the letter presented to her with a handsome cheque.
