

About Coffee

A pretty good way to test any store is by the coffee it sells. We're willing for you to test us by our coffee any time. We wish you would try some of our 40c. Mocha & Java. We'd be glad to sell it to you and you'd be glad you'd tried it—it's such a fine coffee. Blended skillfully and just roasted enough.

The officers of the company which will be published in the next issue of the Gazette are: Captain, R. H. Campbell; First Lieut., W. P. Rogers; 2nd Lieut., H. M. Baker. Anybody wishing to enlist will find the service roll at Messrs Rogers & Rogers' office.

WINSLOW NOTES.—The farmers of Winslow are very busy cultivating their farms and many of them have all their grain sown, and fields which appeared red but a few weeks ago are now turning green.—We are pleased to note that Mr. Oliver Saunders is going extensively into the poultry industry. He has already hatched over one hundred (100) chickens and expects about fifty more.—This he claims is a profitable industry. Last season, Mr. Saunders fattened a number of chickens which he sold readily to one of the leading hotel keepers of Charlottetown, bringing from 60 to 90 cents per chicken.—The Maple Grove farm owned by Miss Eva Smith has been rented to Ira and Rowe Hughes.

THE death of another old and respected citizen, Mr. David Aiton, occurred on Friday after an illness of nearly two years. He was 77 years of age, and formerly resided in Sussex, N. B., where he engaged extensively in the cattle business and in farming. About 14 years ago he removed to Summerside where he resided till his death. Two sons and two daughters survive him, one of whom Mrs. Booner lives in Stockton, Cal., the others in New Brunswick. Two years ago he was stricken with paralysis, since which time his grand-daughter, Miss Glennie Aiton was his constant companion and faithful nurse, his wife having died some years previously. The funeral took place yesterday at 1.30 to Wilmot Cemetery.

DAHLIAS.—I have a lot of fine Dahlias on show. Fancy Cactus, Decorative, Pompon, and single, forming good collection of over 100 kinds to select. If you want some of them order at once as they are going fast.—G. Herbert Hazard. 27 li

A FEW years ago the merchants of this town agreed to close their places of business at six o'clock in the evening for six months—every alternate three months—out of the year. This in the quiet seasons gave the clerks—and "bosses" also—a chance to rest, or take in any enjoyment which might be offering after the day's work. The plan worked successfully for a year or so until some of them stepped slightly over the mark and soon the system gave way to the most unsystematic rule which perhaps exists in any town. Now it seems that the clerks must wait until the last possible customer has arrived and has been waited on, before the key in the door is turned. This means anywhere from 7.30 to 10 o'clock, which is entirely too much to ask of any clerk, no matter what his wages might be. No man can afford to work in a store from 7 a.m. until 9 or 10 p. m., and sometimes 11 p. m. week in and week out, as some of the clerks in Summerside have to do. Let a clerk "knock off" at 6 or 7 p. m. and next morning he will be in a much better condition to do his day's work, and accomplish more than after a late evening's labor. When the six o'clock system was in vogue the people in town and country knew that they could not do any shopping after that hour. It was everybody's supper hour and all were anxious to get to their homes. The rule was easily kept and it was generally understood. There is no doubt but just a smuch work was done and as much money exchanged hands under the early system as under the present inhuman way. There is only one argument used as against the early closing which calls for consideration and that is that farmers will persist in coming into town after their day's work is done to make purchases. We must consider the fact however that the farmer in his busiest season does not stop working until after dark and during this season he generally makes it a point to do his town business before the late hours of the day. And this he will do when the six or 7 o'clock system is established and strictly adhered to. There should certainly be a regular hour for closing and everyone should lock his door at that hour. The least step in violation of the rule would mean its failure but it would be no trouble to adopt a system and keep it.

TAXES.—The names of those in arrears for Land and Income Tax are being finally checked over at the Provincial Treasury, and placed with the Clerk of the County Court for the issuing of summonses. Those wishing to avoid the costs of such service have no time to lose. Final notices have been sent out, and summonses will follow without further warning. 27 dw 21
