

Barbara Brents BUYS WHYS
A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, July 14th.—Are your youngsters working this summer? ... It's a good idea—in the very best Canadian tradition. And you can help them to help themselves by tactfully advising them to save regularly. Encourage them to set aside a definite part of what they earn during the holidays for something they want badly—and never to spend their own account at "My Bank," they'll find the "Welcome Mat" out at the nearest branch.

BANK OF MONTREAL have found solid satisfaction in making their plans come true through steady saving. If your youngsters haven't yet opened their own account at "My Bank," they'll find the "Welcome Mat" out at the nearest branch.

Seek Up All The Glorious Sun
you want... feast your eyes on the brilliance of a sunny summer's day... But remember that sun-baked skin makes your eyes feel tired and weary. Unless you do this: soothe tired eyes with just a drop or two of MURINE... works refreshingly in a jiffy. Best idea is not to wait for tired eyes to tire you—just two drops of Murine in each eye morning and night will help keep your eyes feeling wonderfully rested and refreshed. You see, Murine's skillful blend of 7 ingredients cleanses and soothes eyes that are tired from overwork or the effects of weather. That's why I urge you to ask your druggist today for Murine.

Meal Planning Is More Important Than Ever... with today's high cost of living, every penny and every calorie count! That's why you need a breakfast habit of smooth, delicious "CREAM OF WHEAT"!
It's so good... and so good for you! Cream of Wheat contains Iron, Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. So quick to eat... and so easy to make... in five minutes of boiling for full digestibility. And, of course, there's that wonderful "Cream of Wheat" flavour you've enjoyed for fifty years! It'll be a favourite with your family... so order soon... and serve for Summer breakfast like this—topped with...
A sprinkle of maple or brown sugar and cream or milk... or a heaping tablespoon of pured apricots.

It's A Gay Time... A Play Time... a time to travel—to meet new people and make new friends—that's your Summer holiday! It's a time to be sure of your popularity or being sure of your popularity... Don't let your skin offend you to perspiration odour... particularly when this calamity is so easy to avoid with regular use of NONSPILL Tuck wonderful Nonspill into your vacation-horror... it's a personal deodorant to help you enjoy carefree days of Summer play and sport! So safe to use—won't harm fabrics—won't irritate your skin—Nonspill has Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval at any drugstore! You'll find it's so very simple to apply with its convenient, completely sanitary applicator!

For Real Refreshment on a hot Summer's day, treat yourself to a Beauty Bath with WOODBURY FACIAL SOAP!
Leaves you beauty complexion all-over! For your face, it's a smoothing beauty-cream ingredient—used in fine face creams. It leaves no dry, taut feeling—no "skin-burn"!! You should use your face soap so soft in your complexion... the little booklet, wrapped with each box of Woodbury Facial Soap, gives special instructions for daily care of dry, normal or oily skin! Yes, Woodbury Facial Soap is truly a bargain in beauty!

We Move Sober About Making Apple Sauce since I've discovered quite frankly, that SCOTIAN GOLD APPLE SAUCE is better than any she has ever made herself! What gives Scotian Gold that extra-good flavour? Well... it's Sauce made from specially selected varieties of the Annapolis Valley's famous flavour-filled apples. With 15% sugar added, they are quick-cooked in a process which retains every bit of the natural flavour and aroma of the fresh fruit. Scotian Gold Apple Sauce is not strained—you'll really appreciate its complete natural goodness! Try it soon—for breakfast—as a dessert—as a "special treat" for your youngsters' lunch—as a tasty side-dish with pork or sausage—or as a delicious topping for ice-cream!

Living And Leisure
(Continued from Page 2)
Story in a faint sweetie pink cotton voile, the straight skirt edged with an acid green taffeta ribbon, which is repeated as a belt. Fastens up to its tiny collar with a scattering of small buttons, this gay little dress can just go anywhere it likes.
Boys needn't worry about stubborn paint spots on a good suit.

Finest Quality Tea
"SARINA" ORANGE PEKOE

Africa Flight
By Val Gleisrud

Even in the greenish flickering shadowed obscurity, there could be no mistaking the grim expression that settled on Rupert Larrimore's face with the realization that his worst suspicions were justified—or almost the worst.

"I told you before we started that we had just enough water for us to make El Fayoum with most careful rationing—if we marched hard enough. We're behind time—and you play the fool like this!"

"That's enough, Larrimore!"

"Of course you hang behind," Larrimore went on angrily, paying no heed to the interruption. "If you persist in weighing yourself down with all that silly armoury of pistols and ammunition!"

"You can't get the weapons—and the whip hand—away from me like that!" sneered Sothem.

"Do you think I want the things? I could have taken the lot from you while you were asleep, our first night out in the desert—if I wanted to. I didn't. What I am going to carry now is your share of the water as well as my own. I can't trust you any more."

He stooped, and swung up Sothem's water bottles by their slings. They came unexpectedly easily, and seemed quite unreasonably light. So there was one more thing to experience after all.

He looked up to find himself facing the levelled muzzle of one of Sothem's pistols.

"Better drop 'em!" said Antony Sothem quietly.

Larrimore let the slings slide from his hands.

"As near empty as doesn't matter!" he muttered blankly. "So that was it—you poor lunatic. Any explanation?" He seemed profoundly unconscious of the menace of the pistol. But now that his secret was out Sothem in his turn managed to achieve a certain dignity.

"I was thirsty," was all he said.

"And you kept lagging behind to take your little nip!" Pierce anger flared suddenly into Larrimore's voice, as he remembered the agony he—and Carol more than he—had endured in the face of their own thirst, resisting the temptation of the weight of their own water-bottles.

"You realize you've probably dished us all—Carol, yourself, and me, and those others waiting out there by the 'plane'?"

"You still think I'm trying some sort of bluff, do you?"

"I know you are, Larrimore!"

"Well, I happen not to be. We're now left with just over six pints—and it's not enough. How even you could be such an idiot!"

"Shut up, Larrimore! You told us yourself, before starting, that we should find a well here."

"I told you there was a well marked on the map. I said it might contain water. It doesn't! It's dry!"

Sothem moistened his lips with his tongue. "That's bad luck," he said hoarsely. "So what?"

INVITATION TO SUICIDE

Larrimore's eyes seemed to bore into his brain. "Better face it," he said. "With the doing out I can do, there's not enough left to carry the three of us to El Fayoum."

"You can't know a thing like that, Larrimore! We can try."

"O I can know—and we can't risk trying. I've other things to think of besides just our skins. There are the others. They're trusting us, Sothem—if you can imagine such a thing! There's also Carol."

"Leave her out of it!"

"I wish I could. We can't."

"It was your idea to bring her, Larrimore."

"Which is why it's my responsibility to bring her safely through," was the retort. "And I don't want her woken."

"For once," said Sothem bitterly, "I can agree with you. I'll settle with you this time without any interference."

But Larrimore was evidently thinking of something else. "Of course," he said slowly, "two might still make it—with luck."

"What?" asked Sothem, uncomprehendingly.

"It'll be the deuce of a narrow squeak at that," Larrimore went on thoughtfully, "but I believe I can do it. I must do it."

"What are you talking about?"

"I said, Sothem—two of us might get through after all, even now."

There was a deadly little pause.

"I see," said Sothem.

And somewhere far away out in the desert a jackal howled like some soul in torment.

"If you see," said Larrimore at last, "that saves us both a lot of trouble and embarrassment."

"Does it? I see a very pretty scheme from your point of view. You certainly run true to form, Larrimore."

"What? Go on?"

"I've every intention of going on. You want me to do the Captain Oates gesture and speed my gallant comrades on their way to El Fayoum. I told you in the plane that you were planning to desert Carol in the desert. Now I'm with you you've got to get me out of the way first. Larrimore, there isn't a name invented to describe you properly for the swine you are!"

And his fingers tightened convulsively round the pistol he held.

But once more Larrimore kept his temper. "Listen," he said quietly. "We don't agree—we never have got on. And I know what you feel about me and Carol. But this situation is beyond and outside all that, Sothem. Leaving our personal quarrel aside—you've put Carol and the rest of the party into the deadliest danger, just because you couldn't keep your hands off that water you were carrying in trust for us all. In the circumstances there's only one thing you can do."

"I should have thought a realist like yourself would have despised heroic gestures!"

"This isn't a gesture, Sothem. It's a problem of elementary arithmetic. Six pints won't go for three people and the miles between here and El Fayoum. That's all."

"You seriously suggest that I—"

Sothem broke off. His face looked suddenly ghastly.

(To be continued)

New Home of Elizabeth and Her Consort

Clarence House, which has been under renovation for quite some time, has now been completed and Princess Elizabeth and her consort, Duke of Edinburgh, have moved in, bag and baggage. Here is a view of their new home—shortly after the princess' personal standard was hoisted from the flagstaff. Sentries from the Welsh Guards are on duty, wearing their great bearskin busbies.

It's here—a year ahead!

NEW 1950 Rinso WITH Solium

Gives the whitest wash SAFELY—QUICKLY

WHITER THAN BRAND NEW

BRIGHTER THAN BRAND NEW

So safe for clothes —so kind to hands!

Yes, New 1950 Rinso with Solium is here now, a year ahead of time—gets out more dirt—faster, easier—with more suds, richer suds! Rinso with Solium is used by more women than any other washday soap. Safe for hands and clothes alike! It's the greatest soap ever produced by the world-famous Lever Laboratories. For the whitest, brightest wash you've ever had—get New 1950 Rinso with Solium today!

Gets Out More Dirt, Faster... Easier with more suds... richer suds!

NEW 1950 Rinso with Solium GIVES THE WHITEST WASH

That Body Of Yours
(Continued from Page 2)
100 mg. daily, began nine years ago no cases of heat exhaustion have occurred. As we study the above figures it is, then good sense during hot weather to eat more of the foods rich in vitamin C—fresh raw fruits, grape fruit and lemons, raw cabbage, lettuce, tomatoes and tomato juice, strawberries.

Dorothy Dix Says —
(Continued from Page 2)
YOUTH have fastidiousness, which I fear would put you in the slow class in this day of high-speed love-making and job-lot sweeties. To each age its own customs. Courtship, as now conducted, is carried on in the hard-boiled manner without any reliance or romance. Kisses are no longer sacred to love. Or saved as a sacrament for the One and Only. Girls' lips are free to every Tom, Dick and Harry and a kiss doesn't mean any more than a hand shake and there is no thrill to it.

VITAMIN CHART
Send today for your vitamin chart containing list of the foods rich in the various vitamins. Just send five cents coin preferred and a three-cent stamp, to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bel Syndicate, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 10, N. Y., and ask for your copy.

Dorothy Dix
DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

Living And Leisure
(Continued from Page 2)
A coat of sheer shellac over the seats of rush or cane-bottom chairs will greatly prolong their lives and keep the need from splinting. Give your garden chairs a coat too.

Enjoy MCLARENS TASTY oil-less MAYONNAISE

Enjoy MCLARENS TASTY oil-less MAYONNAISE

Enjoy MCLARENS TASTY oil-less MAYONNAISE

Enjoy MCLARENS TASTY oil-less MAYONNAISE