REMOVING TRADE OBSTRUCTIONS.

The Guardian has from the first favored the reciprocity agreement because it is a step toward greater freedom of trade in general.

Now if a free market in which to sell in Great Britain, three thousand miles away, is a good thing, it is hard to believe that a free market among twice as many people close at hand can be a very bad thing.

If the McKinley tariff was put on to punish Canada, as is boldly stated, and was regarded as a hostile and injurious thing by Sir John Macdonald, Sir John Thompson, and other leaders and the rank and file of both our political parties, why should it be thought a bad thing to have the hostile duties removed?

We take into consideration both the producer and the consumer, the seller and the buyer and we conclude that the agreement will be a moderately good thing all round.

KING GEORGE AND THE HOUSE OF PEERS.

There are strong reasons why the House of Lords will not persist to the end in rejecting the bill which takes away their veto power.

It is but natural to suppose that the King would be reluctant to create a host of new Peers. His strong desire for a conference between the opposing leaders in the hope that some compromise might be agreed upon between them affords evidence of this.

MR. BORDEN'S RAPID JOURNEY. Some of the excellent Conservative journals are boasting that Mr. Borden travelled 32,000 miles and held 42 meetings in 18 days while in the Northwest.

To the credit of Mr. Borden be it said that this statement of his rapid progress does not appear to be based on any account given by himself.

extremely difficult for him to do otherwise than accept the advice which Premier Asquith shall tender him when the crisis reaches the acute stage.

each farmers' delegation the Conservative leader was desirous of getting away as fast as he could, and hence the rapidity of his flight.

The federal Ministers are apparently preparing to take the Opposition at their word and grant an appeal to the people on the question of reciprocity.

ATTEMPT TO LYNCH ASSAILANT OF GIRL

MASSILLON, O., July 11.—With cries of "Hang him," "Lynch the brute," a mob of several hundred persons gathered in the northern part of Massillon last night and threatened to wreak summary vengeance on Harvey Mickens, accused of having attacked Myrtle Evans, 16 years old.

The county and city officers, anticipating an outbreak had ordered the entire police force on duty at the city prison and a large number of special deputy sheriffs had been sworn in.

GREATEST OF ALL WOMAN HATERS HAS SURRENDERED

LONDON, July 11.—Lord Kitchener is going to be married. At last the grim soldier, "the man of ice and iron," who has always been regarded as a woman hater, has been conquered by the charms of a member of the fair sex.

Society and military circles of London were never more shocked than they were today when it was announced that the famous British soldier is to take a wife.

He is now 61 years old. His future bride is reported to be between 25 and 30. Her father is a man of high social position in London, and she is said to be widely known and very popular in social circles there.

Before Lord Kitchener retired from active service in the British army one of the London papers published this bit of verse:

Of the women you make so little of, Your own is a heart that no woman's art Has availed to make a skittle of.

He has always declared that he had little use for a soldier who loved a woman. In fact he has even been known to refuse to grant promotion to a man who had a sweetheart at home.

Probably that is what the versifier meant by the line, "King of the hearts of the woman you can make so little of."

No wonder, then, that feminine society in Great Britain is now in a flutter of excitement over the latest news. For it is reported that Lord Kitchener's heart of stone has softened, that a woman has found the way to the core of it and that that core is as tender as any woman could wish it to be.
