HOME FROM HALIFAX—Mr. Parquhar MacRae, of Canoe Cove, P. E. I., brother of Doctor MacRae, Dean of Dalhousie University Law School, left Halifax a few days ago for his old home in Prince Edward Island. During his residence here he was employed by the Halifax Shipyards, Ltd., working in the capacity of Foreman Shipwright—building of Launchways, etc. Large steamers have been built and launched very successfully under Mr. MacRae's supervision; and he received great praise for his work before leaving for P. E. I. Island from Superintendent Ross in the following words: "That he was one of the best Launchway builders in Canada today." The fact is quite evident as all boats left the launchways for the sea at the appointed time almost to the minute when Mr. MacRae was directing.

CARVED ON A BEAN A wonderful piece of carving the work of a convict, who was executed twenty-five years ago, has been discovered.

It is a carving of the head of the convicted convict, the head of the convicted convict, the head of the convicted convict.

The name of the sculptor, the name of the sculptor, the name of the sculptor.

Probably, as he went to his death, the unhappy man was asked to carve a message for his family.

Getting Secrets Of Submarines LONDON, Dec. 6.—(By Mail).—A fascinating story of how sunken U-boats were made to yield up their secrets during the war was told at Portsmouth in a lecture for charities by Commodore Sir Frederick Young, R. N. R., the salvaging engineer who was the technical head of our naval salvage service in the war.

Each enemy submarine carried codes, operations, orders and other material of the utmost value to ourselves, which we got hold of by means of the most remarkable auxiliary to war intelligence service ever formed. This was composed of divers and other salvage workers selected from the Admiralty Salvage section which dealt with salvages as a whole, and organized into a special branch.

Whenever an enemy submarine was sunk the salvage branch was told off to overhaul her. In very few cases was the boat raised. The divers used to go down to her as she lay "but their way" into her interior and then search it thoroughly. It was extremely dangerous, difficult and often gruesome work. It often had to be done at great depths and the divers crawled about the sea floor in the inky darkness performing their task as best they could. Much information that proved of the greatest value in conducting the U-boat offensive was obtained.

It was this submarine intelligence branch which also unearthed the secret of the German magnetic torpedo (although Sir Frederick Young did not tell his audience this) and thus let us into the secret of a grave new menace to our shipping.

Scottish Miners Are Now Working Overtime

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Scottish coal mine owners have a rush of orders at present that has not been equalled since pre-war days. Steamers are loading coal day and night, and the miners are working overtime. The situation in South Wales is similar to that at the Scottish mines.

In consequence of the rush of business coal prices are stiffening considerably, the increase in orders for coal being largely due to continental and other foreign orders.

Administration Awaits Mr. King

(Special to The Guardian.) OTTAWA, Dec. 19.—The resignation of the Michigan administration is now expected Tuesday. The Prime Minister is understood to be waiting for Mr. King to resign before he will appoint a new cabinet.

German Toys Back On Market of U. S.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 19.—During the Christmas season the American public will buy fewer toys made in America as during the year 1919, according to Harry C. Ives, President of the Toy Manufacturers' Association of America.

In 1919 more than $88,000,000 worth of American toys were sold at wholesale, but this year German-made toys will be on the market. Ives stated. He pointed out that the German-made doll was especially popular to the buyers.

"The miniature sailing yacht is to be the chief summer toy of the youth in the near future," Ives continued. "Interest in this sport has progressed far in sporting circles, partly because the challenge from Great Britain to America for a race under yachting rules, but with miniature boats, has been accepted and will probably be run off on Long Island Sound next summer."

Ives declared that young men are already seeking small yachts, mechanically steered, from one foot to five feet in length.

Educational toys will be the best sellers in stores for the children this Christmas, Ives stated. The educational toys inspire the boy or girl towards higher development of the mind and the parent is giving more heed to the selection of toys even among the smaller children.

Make Levy On Motorists For Auto Thief Chasers

MONTREAL, Dec. 19.—Declaring that "it is quite evident that an organized gang of automobile thieves is operating in Montreal," Ludger Gravel, speaking at the Chambre de Commerce, urged the desirability of imposing a special $2 tax on the sixty thousand odd automobiles in this Province with a view to providing for an increased police force specially available for auto thefts. The meeting concurred in the views of Mr. Gravel.

OFFERS CRITICISM OF PACIFIC PACT

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—The Berliner Tageblatt today criticizes the Pacific agreement by saying that the Washington conference tackled the disarmament question without settling the political situation. The Tageblatt points out that while the naval problem has been solved, the enormous countries and interests on the western shores of the Pacific have been left out of the picture.

"Nevertheless," continues the Democratic organ, "the new epoch has begun the last bar to an Anglo-American entente has been swept away and there has been effected a common Anglo-American supremacy in world politics also. The way is open for the British, who have just settled the Irish problem, to fresh activities."

The Tageblatt expresses the opinion that the British, in preference to an American-Japanese war, has been more clever than Emperor Wilhelm, and that Japan may reckon on compensations on the Asiatic continent.

His Employee Is Mayor And Boss A Good Sport

BRADFORD, Eng., Dec. 19.—Councillor T. Blythe, the Labor Lord Mayor here, has been granted a year's leave with full pay by his employer, who in politics is a Conservative. Blythe has been associated with the firm for 58 years, and his employer told him to carry round for his wages whenever he found it convenient.

THE MISTLETOE KISS

There never was such a doll. It was the very acme of toy invention, classic of features, graceful of form, unparalleled in material duplications the later modes of fashion. Flexible of joints some inner mechanism moved eyes and lips, and then it talked—talked! Bless you! yes, in the clearest, childish accents. No wonder it did all these things, for when Warren Brill asked the price, the salesman replied: "Seventy-five dollars, sir."

"Whew!" aspirated Roy Burton, who had accompanied Brill on his Christmas shopping tour. "I'll take it," said the latter. "Why, you've gone clear daffy. Seventy-five dollars? You've got no little ones at home."

"N-no, that's so," replied Warren in his diffident, hesitating way, "but you see," and he grew flustered—"Miss Deere"

"Eh? Nellie Deere? Surely you've not thinking of giving that grown up beauty a doll?"

"Oh, dear no!" answered Brill, and he fluttered like a frightened schoolboy. "I wouldn't dare to offer her a gift. I was thinking of presenting the doll to her little niece, Dorothy. I hope Miss Deere won't resent my taking such a liberty. Of course we're quite friendly."

"Friendly!" interrupted Roy. "That's putting it mildly. Why, everybody knows you're in love with Nellie, and the way she favors your company shows how she regards you."

"Oh, do you think so, positive?" gasped Warren. His face was a vast map of longing hope. "You don't know how—how happy you made me. Just put the doll aside," to the salesman. "I shall want some special records made and I'll see you later."

"It's a bold scheme," soliloquized Warren and proceeded straight back to the toy shop. He sought out the salesman. "Now I understand it," he said, "a regular baby photograph is made in the doll makes it stay all those cute things when you operate a button?"

"That's it," acceded the clerk. "And I can have a special record made?"

"Surely. You can attend to that for you."

Warren met Nellie on the street the day before Christmas, and she mentioned the fact that she had been very much disappointed as to the Christmas tree they had received, it being straggly and undersized.

"Why," spoke Warren eagerly. "I saw the finest layout of trees down at Chester only yesterday. Miss Deere, I haven't a thing to do the rest of the day. Won't you deputize me to help give the little ones a good time?"

Warren arrived at the Deere home with the tree and various packages. He helped Nellie trim the tree. He operated the talking doll to even the wonderment of Mr. and Mrs. Deere, who at ten o'clock indulgently retired.

Warren began to act nervous. He had placed the record especially by his side, his finger on the button. Nellie was looping a string made to order inside the doll. He set it on a chair of holly near the doors. She looked at him strangely as he said:

"Miss Deere—Nellie, I have something to say to you, that is, yes something to tell you and can't say it. Won't you please listen to what my little friend here, the doll, will say for me, and then, maybe, maybe you'll say something, too."

"Dear Nellie, I love you, I know that you are star high above me, and the best man in the world unworthy of you; but I can give you every luxury, and add the greatest one of all—love. Say it's not altogether hopeless."

Nellie blushed pearly red. Then she smiled slightly, and rose quickly. She moved four steps. They brought her directly under the mistletoe. Warren arose to his feet.

"Oh, Nellie!" he cried, "you didn't get under that mistletoe on purpose?"

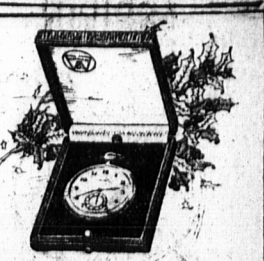

She hung her head embarrassed, yet inviting. He stole to her, brave as a lion. He circled her waist with his arm. She snuggled closer; he pressed his lips to hers.

"Oh a merry Christmas to all the world," he jubilated expansively, and in the accents there was the cheer of a happy, happy man.

MONTREAL, Dec. 17.—Jack "Kid" Thomas, local welterweight, outpointed Eddie Beattie, of Hamilton, in a ten round bout which was the feature of a boxing entertainment at the St. Denis Theatre here tonight. Other events were: Eddie Riccard, local middleweight, and Roddy McDonald, of Glace Bay, fought ten rounds to a draw.

Jimmy Harris, featherweight, Niagara Falls, was knocked out in the first minute of a six-round bout by Young Marshall, Montreal.

The Mickey Delmont, Montreal, and New York, and Charlie Ross, Toronto, bantamweight bout was cancelled.

THE WALTHAM Sentiment and Service

As combining these two attributes, what more expressive gift is there than a fine watch—a Waltham? For example? It is a gift, besides that forms an enduring bond of friendship between the giver and the recipient. In the Riverside—an ideal presentation watch—there is combined unsurpassed accuracy and precision with rare distinction of form. It is a beautiful watch to give a lifetime of perfect service. It comes in five sizes: three for men and two for women. Whom may we have the pleasure of showing it to you?

$160,000 IN SALE OF STARS

The Pacific Coast League did pretty well last week. It sold players for a total of $160,000 and a big squad of major league cast-offs.

Some of these cast-offs may return in a year or two as high-priced acquisitions. Chad Seay, the outfielder sent to San Francisco by the Reds, no doubt will come up again. The sales were as follows:

Table listing player sales: O'Connell, first baseman and outfielder, sold by San Francisco to New York Nationals, $75,000; Cavency, shortstop, sold by San Francisco to Cincinnati Reds, $25,000; Geary and ... $25,000; Pinielli, third baseman, sold by Oakland to Cincinnati for players and ... $20,000; Johnson and Pilleto, pitchers, sold by Portland to Detroit for ... $40,000; Total $160,000.

Promises Investigation

HAMILTON, Dec. 19.—The Minister of Justice has promised the G. W. V. A., that George MeVittie, Hamilton, who was convicted of bank robbery at Montreal and sentenced to seven years and 14 lashes, will not be lashed until there is a further investigation into this case. The veterans say he was employed as their steward on the date of the robbery, August 12, and half a dozen of the members are sure he was in Hamilton on that day. Two Hamilton men swore at his trial that they talked to MeVittie in Hamilton on that date.

SERIOUS REVERSES.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The by-election in the southeast division of Southwark resulted today in the return of Thomas Naylor, the Labor candidate. His vote was 6,761 while Owen Jacobsen, the Coalition Liberal, got 2,636, and Horace Boot the Independent Conservative received 2,307 votes. The seat was formerly held by a Coalition Liberal, who was elected a majority of about 4,000 over Naylor, the winner in the present contest. The Southeast division of Southwark has a Labor majority on the borough council, which makes the result in the present election a distressing for the Government.

CHRISTMAS

Sound over all waters, reach on from all lands, The chorus of voices, the happy of hands;

Sing hymns that were sung by the angels when Jesus was born! With glad jubilation Bring repro to the nations!

The dark night is ending an dawn has begun; The dark night is ending, arise like the sun.

All speech flow to music, all hearts beat as one! Blow, trumpets of battle, the marches of peace!

East, west north and south, let the long quarrel cease; Sing to glory to God, peace to men of good will!

Hark, joining in chorus, The heaven-bent stars are The dark night is ending, and dawn has begun!

Rise, hope of the ages, arise like the sun. And speech flow to music, all hearts beat as one!

John Greenleaf Whittier

Why should you never tell us of a cornfield?—Because there are so many ears about.

What vegetable do you eat most when after taking out of a winnow? Two large squashes.
