Sensational Duels Feature Saturday's Night Racing Programme

With racing thrills skyrocketing to new heights at every meeting and upsets occurring at a like pace, Saturday night's harness racing program lived up to all expectations as a big crowd of fans, well in the vicinity of 3000 saw nerve tingling finishes and bitter neck and neck duels in each and every one of the nine events on the program.

There was a little bit of everything thrown into the spectacular battles of the racing oval. Seven of the nine pre-race favorites failed to make the grade; horses took new marks; one entrant, under the wire first was set back for interference by the alert officials in charge and followers of the pari-mutuels, with win and place betting in vogue for the first time here, in some instances had a field day with the veteran Wilkin producing the biggest jackpot when he paid followers $25.00 for a straight two dollar ticket to win the number eight event.

For the third time this season the tireless Wait N'See, being campaigned on the trot by Len O'Meara, shared some of the spotlight as he trotted off with two dashes; in the first mile he reduced his record on the trot to 2:13 2-5 as he headed a field of seven, and then he came back in the final event of the night to further reduce it to 2:13 1-5 with another outstanding display of trotting ability.

Lucky Number, a fast improving pacer came from very far back to win the fifth race and in so doing took a mark of 2:14 as he headed a field of eight in a densely-packed finish between five horses.

Tiny Budlong, along with Wait N'See, were the only favorites to offset the challenges flung against them in a program of racing that kept the huge crowd in a frenzied state of excitement throughout the three hour program.

Second Win In Three Days

The smooth-gaited pacer, expertly handled by Teddy Weir came through as expected in the opening event of the night. Taking the rail at the first turn she made every post a winning one as she threw off the entire last half challenge of Starlight Direct to win by a length, with Little Millie coming a storm the last quarter to wind up third in the field of eight starters that was pretty well bunched as they hit the wire. Starlight Direct's placing paid bettors $14.90 for a two dollar ticket.

But the monopoly the favorite held in the first race ended quickly. In the very next dash Eleanor G., pacing to the front right from the start was never headed in a mile that saw the five horses finishing so close together that a blanket could have covered them. Challenges were flung at Eleanor for the entire last half of the mile. Ohio Hal, the favorite, tried twice without success, then Quick Lick and Eva Worthy took up the gauntlet; halfway down the stretch it was still anybody's race but driver Joe Hennessey still had Eleanor's nose to the front as they paced under the wire only inches apart.

The same field met again in the seventh dash but this time it was Quick Lick's turn. Eva Worthy, only trotter in the field, led the pack around to the quarter pole before yielding to Quick Lick's early drive. From there the Lick kept to the front. At the top of the stretch fans witnessed another closely packed field head into payoff dirt but Quick Lick had a little bit too much pace left as he came in a half length to the good over the hard-striving Ohio Hal, with the remaining three but a couple of strides back.

Wilkin Wins Feature

Wilkin, veteran of Maritime racing ovals added to his career's string of victories as he came through in numbers three and eight dashes. In the first mile, a dog-fight between four pacers and Nell Kalmuck, the only trotter, Filbert led the field under the wire but interference at the first turn saw Filbert set back to fifth place with the runner-up Wilkin being awarded the heat, Josedale Hoosier second, Worthy Ermine third, Nell Kalmuck, who made a disastrous break at the first turn, fourth. But Wilkin snatched a clean-cut victory in the field's second trip. Pacing to the front just at the word the North Sydney-owned horse was never headed and paid off $25.00 for each ticket bet on him to win. The field were content to lay back for the first half but things started happening on the last trip. Nell Kalmuck brought the fans to their feet as she started her drive from last place at the three quarters pole and as the field swept down the home stretch to the wire the Kelly-owned mare, trotting very fast on the outside, nipped Josedale Hoosier for the runner-up spot with Filbert ending up fourth and Worthy Ermine fifth.

The thrills were not through by any means. Old Wait N'See had to have his moments of racing glory. In the fourth dash after Molly Bars had got away flying before being overtaken by Ola Budlong, the field, after being strung out, had bunched up as they hit the three quarter pole. Halfway down the stretch Ola still had her head in front but then Wait N'See, trotting beautifully moved up on even terms and there was no denying him in the last 50 yards, with Miss Knox coming very fast on the rail to wind up second. A photo finish ish was necessary to decide fourth and fifth.

Wait N'See after trailing from the start, made his move at the half in the second meeting of the same field. Again at the three quarters the field were all bunched but as in the previous mile Wait N'See came through in the stretch with Jiggy Arbing again taking Miss Knox up into the runner-up spot.

Comes From Far Back

Rhodola D. led a field of eight pacers for the first part of the number five event but in the final part of the mile positions changed rapidly. Going up the backside the second trip the drives began. Bee Budlong, the favorite started moving up followed by the other trailers but it was Lucky Number stole the show. In seventh place at the half, Lucky moved up to fourth on the back stretch; he still had a long way to go but as five of the eight horses came racing to the wire practically abreast Lucky Number far on the outside nipped the heat in the last few strides from the equally fast moving Shy Ann 2nd who placed second to pay her backers $14.20 on a place ticket.

Shirley H. Temple, another outsider added to the list of upsets by pacing off with the sixth event. Hilda Mac, getting away to a fast start, led for most of the mile but was collared in the race from the three-quarters pole home. It was another sensational finish between five horses with young Walter Craig taking Shirley to the front 50 feet from the wire to head the band of pacers under the wire. Lady Worthy 2nd added to the uncertainty of things by finishing second ahead of Miss Cherry Valley and race favorite Barbara S. Lee.

Sgt. Godfrey Kay of Hamilton, Ont., finished 22nd with the same score. Sgt. Kenneth Fox of Verdun, Que., was 27th with 267. Each of them also won $5 and an N.R.A. badge.

Aggregate scores and standings of the other Canadians in the "King's 100" were as follows:

Gilmour Boa, 263, 45th; Capt. George Gamble, Winnipeg, 262, 53rd; S. Sgt. Martin Ostergaard, Calgary, 260, 65th; Capt. Richard Hampton, Ottawa, 258, 74th; Sgt. 95th. Each of the five received £2

Geoffrey Coleman, Toronto, 258, and an N.R.A. badge.

Weather conditions were sultry as the select 100 fired at the 900- and 1,000-yard distances on the Etickledown Range.

Last year an Australian won the King's prize with 263 and a Canadian, Lt.-Col. J.T. Steele, was second with 281.

S. Sgt. Ostergaard topped the Canadians in the service rifle (Class B) event with 145 out of a possible 150.

He scored 47 at 300 yards, a perfect 50 at 500 and 48 at 600.
