A correspondent writes: "Much dissatisfaction is given expression to in Western Prince County over the belated trains. The present system which brings even the first train into Tignish at dark and when late as it always is, after dark, is poor accommodation to that great extent of country, which gives the railroad its paying traffic. It is expected that when the next change is made the first of the two trains afforded will get to its destination nearer noon than night."

THE MONTAGUE GUARDIAN

Office—Main Street—Capt. W. A. Johnstone, Mgr.

The sick in Montague are improving slowly.

W. B. McKenzie, Chief Engineer, and H. J. McGrath came to Montague Wednesday by special train.

The first freight train by the Montague Branch Railway arrived Wednesday with lumber for the Montague Skating Rink from Klondyke Mills, Belfast via Charlottetown a distance of 80 miles. On return she took 7 cars loaded with portable snow fences for the Murray Harbor Railway. This instance shows the necessity of a branch to connect with the Murray Harbor Railway, a distance of 8 or 10 miles, without going around such a distance.

Ewen Lamont who for over 60 years was a resident of Orwell Head and whose death at Stanchel at the age of 88 years was referred to at some length in The Guardian several days ago was the school teacher of your correspondent, and his neighbor for thirty years.

Shipping was dull Wednesday and yesterday, vessels in port being about loaded, and no arrivals. The schooner Dictator, Capt. Bonnell, will sail this week for St. Pierre with a general cargo, consisting of potatoes, turnips, pork, beef, hay, poultry, vegetables of all kinds, loaded by D. G. Cameron. Several other vessels are about to leave which will be reported later.
