LOBSTER SEASON OPENS—The lobster season opened on the north shore this morning. Fishermen from Tignish and vicinity report that the ice is nearly all out of the Straits now and that it was expected that the men would be able to get out their gear. A very high wind prevailed all day yesterday which would hinder the fishermen from making a good start. There have been no catches of herring on the south shore so far.—S.

ALBERTON

The operetta "Little Red Riding Hood" is being eagerly looked forward to by citizens of Alberton. This delightful musical presentation of our childhood story is greatly enhanced by the addition of attractive scenery and dances of various kinds. The "Dutch Dance" (wooden shoes and all) is a fascinating feature, as is the bunnet dancing in the operetta; the ten age girls in the minutes; and two very tiny tots doing the Rye Waltz will all be worth seeing. The operetta is under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Gordon and Miss Elizabeth Ross. The dancing is being supervised by Miss Marion Wilson and Mrs. R. H. Kennedy.

Successful Presentation Of Play

A very charming play was successfully staged in St. Mary's Hall, Summerside, last night under the direction of Mr. E. J. Hollett. The play, "Kempy," was presented in three acts and the audience were keenly appreciative of the many funny situations which arose during the courtship, marriage and re-marriage of the heroine, Kate Bence, whose part was very cleverly acted by Miss Hester Oubling.

The scene of the comedy was laid in the living room of the Bence home, in a quiet country town some distance from New York. Plenty of amusement is caused by the Bence daughters trying to make the old fashioned furniture a little more up-to-date. Kate Bence, who has written a book, "Angle's Temptation," is dissatisfied with her lot and tries to put on airs and wishes to go on the stage. Duke Merrill, being a lawyer, manages to gather enough evidence to prove that the marriage of Kempy and Kate was illegal and marries the young lady himself and Kempy marries Ruth Bence, who he was in love with from the start.

After marrying Kempy, Kate discovers that it is Duke Merrill she really loves and Duke, being a lawyer, manages to gather enough evidence to prove that the marriage of Kempy and Kate was illegal and marries the young lady himself and Kempy marries Ruth Bence, who he was in love with from the start.

The stage scenery was very artistic and was enhanced by the lighting effects which were skilfully carried out by Arthur C. Brennan.

Between the acts Mr. Lowell Hancock gave some delightful vocal numbers accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Lee Mutart. Mrs. James Millman also played some selections.

GERMAN POLICY DEFENDED

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) LONDON, May 1—(By Cable)—Defence of German policy was voiced in the House of Lords today by the Marquess of Lothian and Viscount Escher in the course of a debate on treaty revision.

Lord Davies moved that the government should take steps to implement article 19 of the covenant of the League of Nations by the establishment of a satisfactory procedure for effecting a peaceful change in the relationship of the states and for revision of treaties.

Most people recognized the Treaty of Versailles as "somewhat severe" said Lord Lothian. Germany in the last 20 years had endured "terrible things" if there was to be peace, she must be given an appropriate place in the world.

Four questions must be decided, he declared—demilitarization of the Rhine area which could not last, definitely, the question of Austria; the Polish Corridor and the former German colonies. It appeared these issues must sooner or later be settled at a round table conference or modified in some more drastic way, he said.

Germany was not the only power which repudiated treaties, said Lord Escher.

"It is only a casus belli which can say that the sins of omission of which France and Britain were guilty were better than the sins of commission perpetrated by Germany, for Britain and France all along repudiated the Treaty of Versailles in the sense of not having put into force the dynamic pledge to disarm."

Germany and Japan are expanding dynamic nations. We ought surely to understand their viewpoint," he said.

Lord Davies' motion was finally withdrawn after Earl Stanhope, under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, had replied.

Britain had disarmed on land, at sea and in the air to a point which was generally considered unwise, the Earl said. He expressed surprise it should still be contended Britain had failed to fulfil disarmament clauses. Referring to the question of revision of frontiers, Lord Stanhope said:

"You cannot satisfy one nation with regard to frontiers without

Dangers Of Communism Pointed Out

Some of the dangers of communism were pointed out by Right Rev. Monsignor G. J. MacLellan, V.G., rector of St. Paul's Church, in a lecture delivered before a large audience at the Brotherhood of Trades and Labor at their hall on Monday night.

"Communism is scientific socialism," Dr. MacLellan pointed out, as he traced the dangers of socialism and unemployment throughout the world. He also scored the hoarding of capital in the hands of the few.

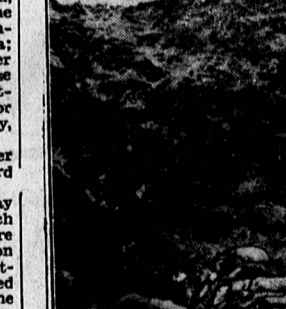

Laboring men, he said, should receive for their labor sufficient to get clothing, food and shelter, that is a living wage. He should live frugally yet receive enough for the necessities of life. He believed in shorter hours and better conditions of labor. The remedy, he claims, can only be brought about by amicable co-operation between the employer and employee. Communism, as they have it in Russia, was only Mass Socialism in practice and could not be the remedy for the evils throughout the world. He warned his audience not to be deceived by such propaganda. It was the duty of the laborer to study the past, behold the present and to look for the future. It was their duty to bring up their children not in idleness, but to the sweat of their brow, and to strive to make their condition better not only for the present but also for the future so that generations to come shall bless them.

Fidelis Perry acted as chairman in a charming manner.

A vote of thanks was moved by the learned lecturer by V. J. Harrington, which was seconded by Samuel Gallant and supported by C. M. Arsenault, Jerome Bernard and others. Mr. Perry acted as chairman in a charming manner.

THE LONELIEST ISLE IN THE WORLD

without benefit of taxation, plumb-line, movies, radio or bread lines. One of the inhabitants, the first to do so, arrived in New York as a member of the crew of the S. S. Empress of Australia. He is Donald Glass, 28 (INSET). The island is visited only once a year by a supply ship. During the four years of the war, the natives had absolutely no outside contact with the world and knew nothing of the conflict.

COULD NOT SEW A BUTTON ON

Her Hands Were Helpless With Rheumatism

At one time she thought she would lose the use of her right hand. But "a blessing"—in the form of Kruschen Salts—put her right again. "I was sure in a bad state," she writes. "In fact, I could not do my housework. I was so bad with rheumatism in my arms and hands, I could not sleep at nights, and I thought I would lose the use of my right hand. I could not hold anything, nor could I sew a button on. My arm would go dead. I was advised to try Kruschen, and inside of three weeks I found such a change. I have kept on taking it, and now I sleep all night—thanks to Kruschen's help and relief."—(Mrs.) J. H.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals, which are responsible for rheumatic agony. Other ingredients of these salts assist Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channels.

Vermilyea Pens Letter To His Son

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) BELLEVILLE, Ont., May 1—A tragic Polonus advising a forlorn Laertes, Harold Vermilyea sat today on the blanketed floor, of his death-bed and wrote a letter of love and counsel to his son in California.

There was little likeness between the station in life of the fictional father in Hamlet and that of this 50-year-old modern condemned to die for his mother's murder. Polonus spoke to a son departing for France. Here it was the father who prepared for departure from life.

But on the eve of the scaffold-drop Vermilyea called for pencil and paper and wrote to 14-year-old Thom in San Bernardino. And there was similarity between the advice of Shakespeare's character and the man who crossed a continent to kill and crossed it again to die.

"Neither a borrower nor a lender be," said Polonus. "Give every man thine ear but few thy voice. Do not dull thy palm with entertainment of newhatched unfeigned comrades." And of friends: "Grapple them to thy soul with hooks of steel."

Vermilyea wrote, "Don't gamble. Go to church regularly. Join a lodge." The latter's text did not come to the ears of friends in full. "My dear son," he wrote, and went on to say whatever he had done had not been with the idea of personal gain, but for his children.

A note to his daughter Aurelia, who bears the name of the 76-year-old woman who was struck down with a hatchet the night of

Large Sum Realized For Cancer Fund

A meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Summerside Branch of the Canadian Legion was held on Tuesday evening, the president, Mrs. T. H. S. Jackson in the chair.

The report of the committee in charge of the bridge in aid of the Lady Bessborough Cancer Fund was received. The committee was congratulated on the amount realized namely $147.95. Mrs. B. W. Robinson, convener of the committee stated that the very large sum which they have been able to send to Lady Bessborough for the Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund was partly due to the generosity of those who assisted in the preparations for the bridge and others who donated prizes. Everything was given absolutely free so that the Auxiliary had no expense whatever. Mrs. Robinson expressed her appreciation of this generosity in very feeling terms.

A vote of thanks moved by Mrs. Basil Kelly and seconded by Mrs. Jackson, was tendered to Mrs. Robinson and the members of her committee for the capable manner in which they had arranged the details of the bridge which was one of the most successful and enjoyable events ever put on in Summerside. The ladies assisting Mrs. Robinson were, Mrs. Travers, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Durant, Mrs. Mollison and Mrs. Ellis.

After other matters connected with the Auxiliary had been disposed of, Mrs. Jackson tendered her resignation as president, as she was leaving on Saturday for her home in England. She expressed regrets that she had severed her connection with the Auxiliary so soon after it had been organized, but she would always be pleased to hear of its activities.

Her resignation was received with regrets by the members present as it was the unanimous opinion that Mrs. Jackson had been the principal factor in organizing the Auxiliary. Mrs. Travers, vice-president, then took the chair and on behalf of those present wished Mrs. Jackson a safe journey and much success and happiness in her native land.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. S. Jackson and their family leave on Saturday morning for Halifax, N. S., and will sail on Tuesday, May 7th, on the S. S. Nova Scotia for Liverpool, England. They intend residing in Ryde, Isle of Wight, their former home.—S.

October 4 was also among the last communications which lay beside Vermilyea when he was brought a final message, scribbled in pencil, from Thom.

"I love you, daddy, and the thing I wanted most was to visit you," the boy wrote.

Harold Vermilyea spent his last May Day quietly and apparently without excitement, though up yesterday, when he learned the Federal Government had refused to interfere with the sentence passed last Feb. 25, he had hoped for clemency.
