CALL TO ORGANIZE AND CO-OPERATE IS IMPERATIVE TODAY

Groups With Co-operative Idea In Active Operation Will Have Advantage, Declares Alfred Hanlon

Following is an appeal to Maritime fishermen and other primary producers and labor groups by Alfred Hanlon of Canso, president of the United Maritime Fishermen: "The Nova Scotia election is over and Nova Scotians are once again becalmed." But now is not the time for any man to take too vehemently to heart the triumph of his party, or the defeat of his party, as the case may be. For things greater and more urgent than politics are upon us.

"The old unrestricted, competitive system of economy has gone on the scrap-heap. Its passing has left the world befuddled and irresolute at the parting of the ways. What is there to replace it? Obviously, there must be some kind of planned economy."

The United States, driven by necessity, has initiated a national planned economy—the only possible way out of social destitution and decay. Roosevelt's National Industrial Recovery Act is his answer to the greed-stricken despair of the openly competitive economy. The eyes of the world are on the N.R.A. It is an experiment on a stupendous scale. If the N.R.A. succeeds, every country in the Western world will follow suit. "If it fails," in the words of Lloyd George, "we all start all over again." The President himself appreciates the gravity of his task. To a White House visitor who suggested that if his plan succeeded he would be the greatest President the United States ever had, and if he failed, the worst, Roosevelt is said to have replied: "Wrong! If it fails, I won't be the worst President; I'll be the last!"

"Canada will be no exception. Premier Bennett, while in London at the World Economic Conference was reported as making the statement that failure of the Conference would mean state-controlled economic systems. That the Conference was a failure in point of actual achievement is no secret. A state-controlled economy is inevitable sooner or later, in Canada.

"The on-coming of the planned economy, now hailed by the best economists and statesmen everywhere, throws a gleaming headlight upon the power and the value of the co-operative idea in rudimentary form. The whole emphasis of the N. R. A. in the United States is directed against unfair competition. The N. R. A. is the first ditch towards co-operation. It differs from our own co-operative movement in that it is being imposed by necessity from above, but it aims at the same objective, and it depends for its success upon the degree to which the idea of true co-operation motivates the relations of employers and workers. How fortunate it would be if the co-operative effort that is being imposed from above could be met with a groundwork of co-operation laid down below, with the co-operative idea already a force among the workers. Then, the planned economy would be an assured success.

"The point is plain, the lesson obvious. These industries and groups, and sections, wherein the co-operative idea is in actual operation, will have a great advantage over the others when the planned economy is put under way. Because of their training and adaptability as co-operators they will necessarily become the safeguards of national stability, the strongholds of national prosperity.

"Fishermen, farmers, all groups: The call to organization and co-operation is an imperative one today! Unite, study, and know the needs and grievances of your own industries. Union and education have always been required for self-preservation. But today they are become, in addition, a patriotic duty. Fishermen, farmers, all workers: Note that the right to collective bargaining has been written large into the National Recovery Act in the United States of America. The codes that are now being rapidly adopted by one industry after another contain provisions under this head. Here is a sample of what is laid down in the electric light and power industries:

"As required by Section 7 (a) of Title I of the National Industrial Act, the following provisions are conditions of this code: "1.—Employees shall have the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing, and shall be free from the interference, restraint, or coercion of employers of labor, or their agents, in the designation of such representatives or in self-organization or in other concerted activities for the purpose of collective bargaining or other mutual aid or protection.

"2.—No employee and no one seeking employment shall be required as a condition of employment to join any company union or to refrain from joining, organizing or assisting a labor organization of his own choosing; and "3.—Employers shall comply with the maximum hours of labor, minimum rates of pay, and other conditions of employment, approved or prescribed by the President."

"The planned economy is under way in the United States. It is bound to come to Canada. Workers in Maritime industries, get ready! ORGANIZE!"

"The way some people drive you'd think they were late for their accident."—Eddie Cantor.

Short speeches were made by several of the guests—among them being a few well chosen remarks by Mr. Gordon Huestis, Wilnot Valley. —HAMMILL AND MURPHY WEDDING — Borden Chapel was the scene of a happy event on the morning of Aug. 15th when Miss Marion Murphy became the bride of Mr. Ausin Hammill of Freetown. The bride looked charming in a sand suit with hat, shoes and stockings and gloves to match, leaning on the arm of her brother Joseph who gave her away in marriage. The wedding march was beautifully played by Mrs. James McAleer of Borden. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Margaret Dawson of Augustine Cove, while the groom was attended by his brother, Mr. J. W. Hammill of Howland. The girl friends of the bride sang some appropriate hymns for the occasion. After the nuptial mass, Mr. and Mrs. Hammill received the congratulations of their friends who showered them with rice. The happy couple and friends motored to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Noonan of Borden, the bride's sister where a very grand breakfast was prepared for the occasion. After all partook of the good things, the bride and groom left on a honeymoon trip. After returning they will reside in Freetown. Prior to her marriage the bride was tendered a shower which was headed by a handsome check from the bride's father, Mr. E. Murphy and the bride also received some beautiful gifts: a china tea set, cut glass, silverware and linen—all very useful for house-keeping. Many friends join in best wishes for bride and groom.

After the address a bountiful lunch was served, picnic style. Mrs. C. E. P. Yeo, President of the Society, in a few well-chosen words welcomed the visiting society and Mrs. McGregor very graciously responded, saying that they of Summerside were a small society, but when they received the invitation to be present, they made a great effort to come and she felt that they were glad they had made the effort. Mrs. Yeo also expressed the thanks of the society to Mr. Lockhart for putting himself out to be present, and Mrs. George Lockhart thanked Mr. and Mrs. Cotton and family for doing everything to make the picnic a great success. On Friday of the same week a number of the members of the said W. M. S. met in the parlor of Kensington United Church, and quitted three quilts for the needy people of Labrador. MRS. JOHN H. MACDONALD

After a brief illness of three days borne with true christian resignation one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of Monticello passed to her eternal reward on Sunday November 6th, 1932, in the person of Mrs. John H.

Macdonald in the seventy sixth year of her age. Up to the time of her final illness she was one of the genuine pioneer type, sturdy in physical as strong in moral fibre. Kindly in nature, hospitable always, and ever ready with a helping hand towards all movements to enhance the welfare of the community in which she lived. Her whole life story constitutes a worthy chapter fitting in all respects to take an honoured place in the luminous though never self-blazoned record of those noble souls who helped lay the foundation of what is most admired in the social fabric of today.

Deceased, who was of an old and distinguished Scottish family, bore the maiden name of Kathryn Ellen Macphee, was born at Big Pond, Lot 45, Kings County, the daughter of Neil A. Macphee and Kathryn (Garrahella) Macdonald, his wife of that place, a descendant of Donald Macphee of Colonsay, Scotland, who was one of the twelve Chiefs and Gentlemen who met the King's representative at Iona, when with their consent the celebrated "Status of Iochemnkil" was enacted in the year 1609. She was a niece of the late Rev. Fr. Plus Macphee and the late very Rev. Daniel Macdonald, D. D., a first cousin of the late Rt. Rev. James Charles Macdonald fourth bishop of Charlottetown P. E. I., and also the late Rev. D. J. G. Macdonald and the late Rev. J. A. E. Macdonald. At the age of three years she was bereft of a mother and was fostered by her aunt Mrs. Angus (Ban) Macdonald, Pisiquid where she remained until she married Mr. John H. Macdonald on October 10, 1882. Of this union four sons and four daughters were born namely, Annie Mrs. Louis C. Macdonald, Dorchester, Mass.; Plus A., residing in Boston, Mass.; Aeneas, residing in Dorchester, Mass.; Helen, Mrs. Peter A. Macphee, Big Pond; Mrs. Mary C. and Daniel S., residing at home. Two children predeceased her, one daughter in infancy. Her eldest son Joseph L. Macdonald, died in Boston four years ago. On Tuesday morning, November 8th her funeral took place from her late home to St. Margaret's Church of which she was a faithful member. Mass was offered for the repose of her soul by her zealous pastor, Rev. K. C. MacPherson who also performed the services at the grave. Besides the above mentioned family she has left an aged husband, who will deeply mourn the irreparable loss of a companion and housekeeper, for it was in the home that her excellent womanly qualities shone; also one brother James N. Macphee, Big Pond; and four step-sisters, Mrs. Joseph MacIsaac, Rock Barra; Mrs. Alvah A. Adams, Boston; Mrs. Fred Clarke, Boston; Mrs. John D. MacDonald, Souris. Numerous Mass Cards and letters of sympathy were received from relatives and friends. May her soul rest in peace!

Good Outlook

Hide Market

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 5 — The present ever-soaring prices of hides is having its effect on the leather industry of the United Kingdom, boot and shoe manufacturers having sufficient stocks on hand to answer their immediate needs being loath to place orders ahead at increased prices, states the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. But this, it is felt, will only be for a short time. In the London market, reports have been received that holders of Chicago summer lambs have refused $6.50 per dozen for skins. In the lighter leathers, trade seems to have been fully occupied and reasonable advances have been made for finished goods. Fancy leathers for the shoe trade have been in fairly good demand, especially for export. In seals, a steady trade of moderate proportions is reported and reptiles have sold well. Cheap white leathers are still in demand and it is anticipated that white shoes will be even more popular next year. The improvement in employment has been maintained and all skilled cutters are absorbed.

World-Wide

Recovery

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 5—From other parts of the world come advices of increased business activity and renewal of confidence, states the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways, which gives added weight to the growing general feeling that world-wide economic recovery is under way.

Australia, in her primary industries for the period 1932-33, shows a record production season. Company operations have improved, confidence has been greatly restored and credit is now being extended by the trade banks to meet all reasonable demands. Improvement in real estate business is a favorable feature. Building activities are steadily increasing and many vacant properties are being utilized for this purpose. Confidence has been renewed in the pastoral industry and stronger inquiries exist for station properties with the result that several transfers of large holdings have recently been effected at satisfactory prices. Stock exchange security values, which were marked down severely, have recovered, on the average, more than 50 per cent of their loss. The Netherlands record some improvement during the last two months which lends to the hope that the precipitous downward movement of the past three years may have come to an end in that country.

DATED FROM DAYS

WHEN DID HE DIE

RYE, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Simeon Ford, retired hotel man who became famous for after-dinner speeches, died of a heart attack yesterday on the eve of his 78th birthday.

As "mine host" at the old Grand Union Hotel in New York City from 1881 to 1914, he became known to thousands upon thousands of visitors.

"I date back," he said recently "to the time when we got rich selling roast beef and boiled potatoes for 30 cents. And if you tipped the waiter 10 cents he would wipe his hands and shake with you if you'd stand for it. Every hotel man in those days had a diamond cluster and a pair of trotting horses and a bunch of wistaria springing from his Adam's apple."

Totem Pole Golf

At Jasper Park

(Special to The Guardian) JASPER PARK LODGE, Alta., Sept. 5—Playing under conditions that were anything but conducive to good scoring Thos. M. Green, Jr. of Seattle toured the difficult course yesterday morning in 79 to win the qualifying medal in the annual Totem Pole Golf competition. Runner up to Mr. Green was Jack Matson of Victoria, leading left hander in the Pacific northwest who had a card of 81. In the afternoon the ladies played under similar unpleasant conditions as a light rain fell at intermittent intervals. Mrs. Sayward Wilson winner of the ladies championship last year won the ladies medal with 92 being closely followed by Mrs. S. C. Sweeney of Vancouver with 98 which score took the runner up medal. It was a gala day for Pacific coast golfers as they not only won the above prizes but the men's international team match was won by the Seattle team and the ladies match was won by the Vancouver team.
