

N.H.L. Will Open On November 12

Ottawa Senators And Philadelphia Will Not Operate This Season, Leaving Ten Teams In The Race.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 27. (By the Canadian Press)—On November 12, in Toronto, Detroit and Montreal, pucks will be thrown on the ice and the long winter schedule of the National Hockey League will be underway, on the trail that leads to the Stanley Cup eliminations next March and April.

The schedule was released tonight from the office of the League President, Frank Calder of Montreal. The long familiar red, white and black horizontal stripes of the Ottawa Senators will be missing for the first time since the League was formed. Ottawa and the more recently disbanded Philadelphia Quakers have decided not to operate their franchise this year. Consequently only eight teams will swing into action next month compared with ten last year. The schedule is not shortened, however.

The league is divided into two groups, Montreal Canadiens, Montreal Maroons, Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Americans forming the Canadian section and New York Rangers, Boston, Detroit and Chicago, the United States section. Each team will play four home and four away games against teams in its own section and three home and three away against teams in the other section, making a total of 48 games for each team. Last year each team played three home and three away against teams in its own section and two home and two away against teams in the other section, or 44 games per team.

On opening night the Chicago Black Hawks will probably have the honor of playing in the first game at the magnificent new rink in Toronto. The Maple Leafs expect to be ready to open on the new sheet. Rangers will provide the opposition when the world champion Montreal Canadiens bow to their admiring French Canadian supporters in the local forum while Detroit Falcons will entertain the star spangled New York Americans at the automobile city.

On Saturday, November 14, Montreal Maroons will open their home schedule against the hard hitting Boston Bruins. Sunday, the 15th will find New York Rangers beginning the schedule at Madison Square Garden, New York, with the Detroit Falcons supplying the opposition while Chicago will also begin that night, entertaining the New York Americans.

The Americans first home game, and also the first of those intracity scraps the New York fans like so well, will be on the 17th when Lester Patrick leads his Rangers against the Americans. On the same night Boston will show its 1931 edition to the home fans, with Detroit Falcons receiving the "boos." With the annual "hold out" situation gradually being ironed out and with the Ottawa and Philadelphia players distributed throughout the League, it appears that the eight teams, on paper at any rate, are more evenly matched than they have been for some years.

Dempsey Denies Fight Rumor

(Canadian Press) SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 27 — Jack Dempsey, back here today from a Wyoming moose hunt, declared he will not accept any heavyweight matches until he is sure he is in condition to fight. He said he had heard nothing direct from James J. Johnston, Madison Square Garden promoter, about a match in February with Victor Campolo or Primo Carnera. "And I wouldn't accept until I know I am absolutely in condition to fight," he added. "I'm going to know myself before I start getting active in the heavyweight picture."

Bluenose—Queen

From a mainland exchange we reprint the following spirited tribute to the famous schooner "Bluenose," victorious defender of the International Fishermen's Trophy. The verses were written by a Charlotetown youth, now residing in another Province.

With a wild wind blowing,
And a wild set flowing;
With the sun, golden glowing
O'er the sea;
With the old stays creaking,
And the old holds reeking,
—And the green seas seeking
Victory;

With her ensign streaming,
With her white sails gleaming,
And her hull, black, leaning
O'er the sea;

In the head wind banking
With the foam wash the planking,
And the prow skipping, spanking,
Bold and free;

Through the gale and all its clamour
Like the Flying Dutch windjammer,
Came the Queen, with all the glamour
Of the sea.

Still in our heart of hearts, I ween,
She is the symbol of things marine,
She is the undisputed Queen
Of the Sea—

GREAT-WEST LIFE WINS FIRST ADVERTISING CONFERENCE

The Great-West Life was the only Canadian company to win a first prize in the international exhibit at the recent Insurance Advertising Conference at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, obtaining first award in the Calendar division. Chief competitive interest centered on the I. A. C. trophy contest in which the Great-West Life took third place. This prize was awarded for the Company's advertising campaign. The Great-West Life also won third place for its system of newspaper advertising in co-operation with its agents. Nearly a hundred representatives of Canadian, American and British insurance companies were in attendance and the number of insurance publicity campaigns submitted, covering all branches of the insurance business, was the largest on record.

On Last Lap

(Canadian Press) NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 27—A radio message received here today announced that William Albert Robinson of Boston is on the last lap of his thrilling one-man cruise around the world for which he shaved off in June, 1928, on board his 32-foot yacht, the Svaap. The intrepid sailor reported himself well on the way to New York from the Canary Islands, his last stop on a journey that will have totalled 31,000 miles by the time he reaches this city. Robinson, who is 28, left New York in his boat approximately forty months ago, determined to set the world no matter how long it might take.

YOUNG MEN AWARDED FOX DIPLOMAS

The Queen Hotel, Charlottetown, was the scene of a pleasant function last evening when two young men, Mr. Henry Vagt and Mr. Lorenz Hubsch of Germany were awarded diplomas from the McLure and MacKinnon School of Silver Fox Farming.

Previous to the presentation the employees of the McLure and MacKinnon Silver Fox Farms which included the two young men mentioned above, together with Mr. W. Chester S. McLure, M. P., President of the Company and Lt. Colonel D. A. MacKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer of the Company, sat down to a very splendid dinner prepared by Chef Mallett. This occupied considerable time and everybody was delighted with the kindness and attention shown them and the very wonderful repast.

Afterwards the party retired to the parlor where Mr. McLure delivered an address as follows:

ADDRESS

Guests and Gentlemen:
As time tells on, all things that have a beginning must have an ending.

A short time ago you gentlemen, our guests, left your native fatherland with your minds set on acquiring in this country the theory and the practice of Fox Fur Farming. By your observations you came to the pioneer land of Fur Farming—Prince Edward Island. And may I also add, as a matter of fact, you were in this most fortunate and also fortunate in coming to a Fox Farm, namely—the McLure and MacKinnon Silver Fox Farms, Limited, that has no peer, much less a superior.

You have been privileged to work under the supervision of a most capable Superintendent, Mr. Andrew, and also to be associated with a splendid body of young men engaged on the Farm.

For the special course of instruction, examinations and diplomas, you are indebted to my esteemed colleague, Lieut. Colonel D. A. MacKinnon, a man who knows Fox Farming from a scientific, practical and breeding basis. He is a master breeder of Silver Foxes. Your course is no superficial glimpse of a fascinating industry, but a detailed, vivid study of the problems of breeding, producing, raising, feeding, caring for and marketing Silver Fox Furs for the fur trade of the world.

With your experience, practical work and your close study of conditions with respect to Fur Farming, you can go back to your native land with the full assurance that you have the qualifications that would make for you the successful management of a fur farm in your own great country. Fur farming is, as you are aware, a new industry, and an industry that is bound to expand and become one of the great industries in the fur zone areas of the world.

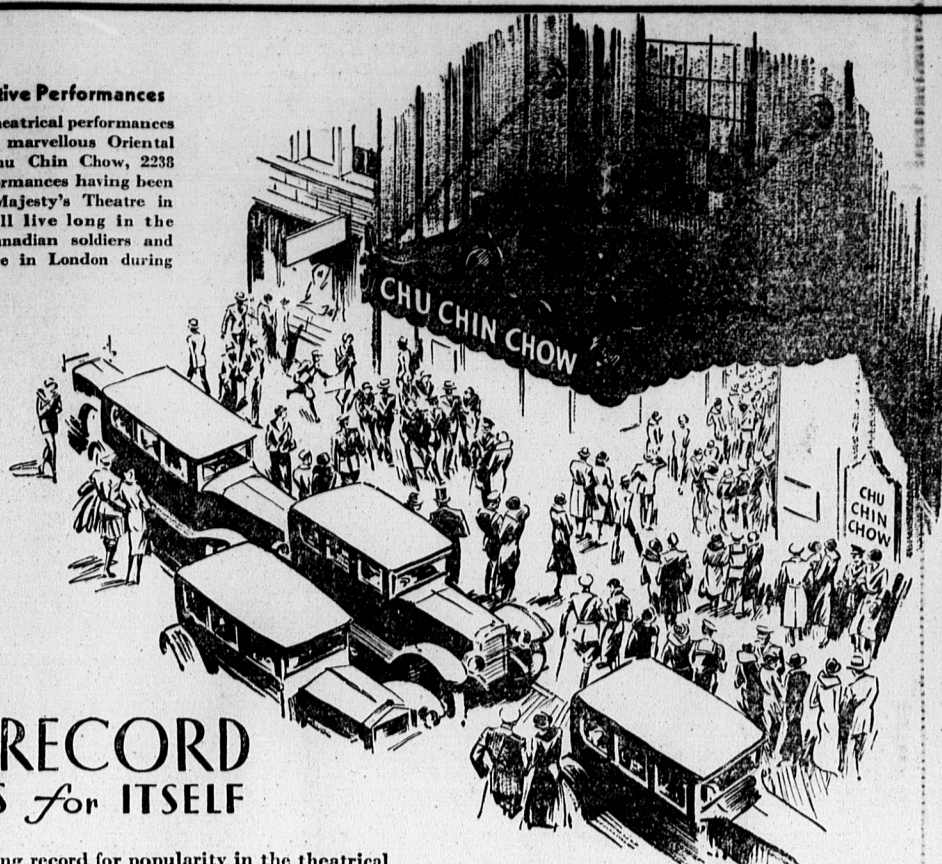

It is indeed a privilege and a pleasure for myself, as President of the McLure and MacKinnon Silver Fox Farms, Limited, to preside on this occasion, and to have the honor of presenting to you Mr. Lorenz Hubsch, and also to you Mr. Henry Vagt, your diplomas gained by practical industrious work and studious attention to your course of studies.

This Diploma is awarded to you on the above mentioned meritorious conditions. I wish to congratulate you.

At its conclusion Colonel MacKinnon made some remarks in which he spoke of the ambition, energy and enthusiasm with which the two young men had entered into the study of farming. They are a credit to their country and an

2238 Consecutive Performances

This record for theatrical performances is held by the marvellous Oriental extravaganza, Chu Chin Chow, 2238 consecutive performances having been played at His Majesty's Theatre in London. It will live long in the memories of Canadian soldiers and officers who were in London during the War.

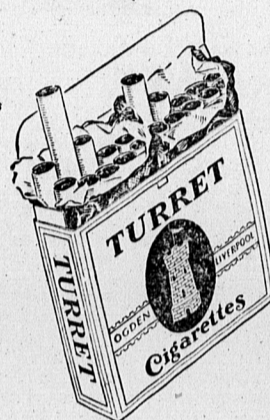

The RECORD SPEAKS for ITSELF

This outstanding record for popularity in the theatrical world, held by Chu Chin Chow, is a tribute to its satisfying beauty of costume, lighting effect and music, while Turret's record for public favour is the result of quality, mildness and fragrance constantly maintained. After all, nothing can replace good honest tobacco; grown and ripened right out in the field under nature's own sunlight—nothing artificial about that—and the high quality is "inbred".

impossible to say with any degree of accuracy, but I would say it would take a couple of million birds to make such a mass. It seems to me there is as much protection here as is required, for these geese will not leave such safety for unsafety. And geese know a good deal, on this question I again refer you to Mr. Miner.

In conclusion I wish to say Sir, that I wish some of these propagandists would follow me for a season in my endeavor to get a little shooting, and they would find that every goose or brant a man gets here he earns, and more than earns. Dragging loaded boats over sand bars, rowing, digging, suffering cold, wet clothes, rising at unearthly hours inconveniences of a hundred kinds, and returning jubilant late at night with perhaps a couple of birds, perhaps nothing. There is a type of person who thinks this is all right, but they are not shooters. They are generally people who want some sort of a Government job, to worry other people with regulations and all sort of annoying rules, which they are willing to enforce for pay even if splitting fines. These office holders are increasing and must do something to make their positions seem necessary, and slowly and surely they are closing in on the gunners of the country till we may as well make a present of our guns to our friends across the border. It will take strong co-operation on the part of the sporting fraternity to combat this, and a strong society should be formed to see that unjust regulations are not allowed to be put through in Ottawa. As for the propagandists, come out in the open gentlemen, let us see who you are, and we will know pretty well what you are after.

Finally, I would recommend the reading of Jack Miner's letter recently published in the Guardian. It is very interesting.

I am Sir, etc.
FRED E. MORRIS.

Urges Sending Peace Advocates To Conference

(Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 27—A mass meeting under the chairmanship of Senator Raoul Dandurand, former president of the Assembly of the League of Nations, last night endorsed unanimously a resolution calling upon Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, to send to the disarmament conference next February Canadian representatives who have shown themselves to be wholeheartedly devoted to the cause of peace through disarmament.

The cause of peace through disarmament was supported by Senator Dandurand, Dr. Henry Hodgkin, British peace leader and Kirby Page, editor of "The World Tomorrow". Lending support by their presence at the meeting were several prominent clergymen.

Mr. Page felt that two programs would help toward maintaining peace: abandonment by the world nations of the doctrine of national interest, by which they use armed intervention to protect their nationals abroad, and the formation of minority groups of people in all nations who would say: "I believe in peace so much that I will not go to war."

Senator Dandurand advanced the belief that the way to peace would be well paved if all the nations would agree to the establishment of a supervisory body under the League of Nations with power to enter any country and examine its frontiers. The existence of such a body, the Senator thought, would give the people of the world the security they craved and allow them to turn from preparations for war to the enjoyment of peace.

Messrs Vagt and Hubsch replying spoke feelingly of the kindness shown them, the excellent opportunity they had received for getting a thorough knowledge of Silver Fox Farming and the attention which Colonel MacKinnon had given them with his lectures and examinations, which took an immense amount of time to compile and give.
