ALL THOSE NOT having secured tickets for Choir and Altar Boys entertainment in League of Cross Hall this evening can procure same at door. Curtain rises 8:15.

RELIGIOUS WORK.—Yesterday those interested in Religious Education were afforded an opportunity of gaining a broader knowledge of Sunday School work at a meeting held in the Hearse Memorial Hall during which Miss Alice Harrison, Secretary of the M. R. E. Council gave talks on this division of church work. In the afternoon Miss Harrison addressed a large audience of mothers and in the evening gave an illustrated lecture on all the phases of Sunday School work to a very appreciative audience.

STEAMERS ARRIVE.—The cable steamer Tyrion reached this port Wednesday night after making repairs on the Wood Island Caribou cable line. She leaves shortly to inspect the cable crossing at Borden and will again return to Charlottetown at the same wharf (Railroad) at the S. S. Imperial an oil tanker unloading gasoline for the Imperial Oil Company. The gasoline is pumped direct to the companies tanks via pipes.

DIVER AT WORK.—The piers of the Hillsboro Bridge are being inspected by Mr. Corretti, diver of the C. M. E. This descent to the river bottom were made by Mr. Corretti yesterday afternoon when he surveyed four of the piers and found them in first class condition. Mr. Corretti is a diver of twenty-one years experience and his work takes him to all parts of the Canadian coast. He and his assistants travel in a specially fitted car which, however, is not being used on the present trip a temporary one having been supplied by the Atlantic division.

PERSONALS

Mr. Rene Gallant and Mr. Cyril Richard of this city leave this morning for Rumford Falls, Maine. A truly worthy man should avoid naming himself; Christian piety annihilates the worldly me; worldly civility hides and suppresses it; Pascal.

LADIES' GIFT SHOP OPENS IN CHARLOTTETOWN

Something long needed and unique in Charlottetown is "The Gift Shop" which opens tomorrow (Saturday) on the second floor of the Riley Building, Queen Street. It will be particularly gratifying to the ladies of Charlottetown to find here a grand array of dainty embroidery, Art Needlework, stamped articles with the materials to complete them, hand worked linens, etc. Beautiful things for "Baby" including infants dresses, carriage robes and bonnets are also featured.

Hand painted announcement cards for gifts, Birthdays, "Showers" or any occasion are stocked and will be much appreciated by those desiring to depart from the "stereotyped" or ordinary announcement card.

Paintings in Water Colors and Oils embellish an already beautiful display.

To attempt a description in short space of the gorgeous and varied assortment of dainty "needfuls" is impossible but the proprietresses—Misses Ann MacInnis and Feta MacDonald will consider it a privilege to display their stock and extend an invitation to all to visit their "gift shop" tomorrow. The large window on the ground floor is being used for display.

Many Innocent Teeth Wantonly Sacrificed

TORONTO, May 29.—The too-common tendency of members of the medical fraternity to hold the teeth accountable and responsible for all manner of physical ailments, and to order summary and wholesale extraction as a means of prevention and cure was held up to censure by Dr. C. N. Johnston, Chicago, one of the leaders in his profession, during the course of an address delivered at the opening session of the Ontario Dental Association in the King Edward Hotel, yesterday. Dr. Johnston spoke frankly and fearlessly, and his sentiments were warmly applauded by the very large convention of dentists which heard him. He protested in vigorous terms against this prevalent practice of extracting teeth "on suspicion," for, as he pointed out, in the majority of cases it was utterly impossible to establish any connecting link between the physical disorder and the teeth. He warned dentists not to be carried away by fads and fancies, but to examine each case on its merits, and not to be entirely at the beck and call of the medical practitioner who was not infallible in his diagnosis.

IN MEMORIAM

THE LATE PETER GRANT

The sad drowning accident of Peter Grant, 13 years of age, son of Alvin J. Grant, which occurred at Savage Harbour on May 13th east of deep gloom over that vicinity where he belonged. What induced the young man, who had no experience with a boat to go out in such rough weather will always, no doubt, remain a mystery. It may have been that the boat was going adrift and he was trying to rescue it.

His brother Plus, left him about 1 p. m. eating his dinner and started to the factory, where he was engaged in lobster fishing. When Plus arrived at the factory shortly afterwards, a telephone message was received, that a man had been drowned in the bay. Plus returned home immediately to find his brother missing, the boat gone from the shore and upon ringing up the neighbors he learned that Victor McPhee, who was fencing on his own farm, had seen him going out in the boat which was drifting ahead of the gale. He appeared to be balling, and then took up a pole evidently he had no oars to push himself to shore, but he could not get bottom. Realizing his dangerous position, he jumped clear of the boat and started to swim against the wind to the shore. Although he was a strong swimmer he only remained a short time in sight. After the fishing boats had gathered in the harbour Plus set out for his home in St. Patrick's Road, but his father was unable to break the sad news to the family. Upon hearing this seems to be so transparent a trick that the average reader may say, can this be true? The facts speak for themselves. If the Government is running into debt at the rate of $31,641,067 a year as it did in 1923-23, and there is a surplus of $30,409,109 on the operation of the next 12 months, then it stands to reason that there should have been a saving of $2,950,000 somewhere. But when the subject is gone into the money can't be found. The surplus is spurious, a mere paper figure.

Here is the test—On receipts generally during the year there was an increase of $3,206,000 over those for the preceding period! But an expenditure of an ordinary, capital and special character there was actually an increase of $2,338,000. When the Government gives other figures, they only refer to one or more classes of expenditures, not to the aggregate of all together. This means that the improvement on the general basis of income and outgo was only $771,000. After all, this is the chief ground on which the balance sheet will be judged. There are only two ways by which the balance sheet can be improved, one being through getting more money, the other through spending less.

The past is for us, but the sole terms on which it can become ours are its subordination to the present.—Emerson.

signs he saw of the Province being represented, but generally speaking it was a most impressive show of national production.

Mr. Higgs briefly touched on a number of the striking features of the Exhibition and then referred to life in London. He was particularly struck with the quiet manner of the people and the clock work precision of everything. There is no other city in the world where so much business is transacted with so little fuss.

The season was backward in England and there was much rain during his visit, but no matter what weather conditions are, the people never complain.

Mr. Higgs also spoke on the marvelous system of transportation, but said it was not his purpose to speak on the Exhibition nor any of the historic places of interest which he had visited. One writer said referring to London: "If you wanted to see the British Museum you should take your family to London and hire a house for three years." If a person had three hundred and sixty-five days to spend in London he could visit a different point of interest every day and still have much to see.

The special subject of Mr. Higgs' address was an Empire Builder and His Work.—A great co-partnership industry with a band of 10,000 contented workers. This great industry was founded by men of vision. He was referring to the firm of Lever Bros., known the world over by Sunlight Soap.

Mr. Higgs then gave a detailed account of the town of Port Sunlight, opposite Liverpool, first giving a general review of the growth of the business, and then taking up in detail the various features of the immense plant. The different buildings and grounds require 2,000 acres of land. The floor area of the works and buildings in Port Sunlight is 2,758,800 square feet.

Lord Leverhulme, the head of this immense concern believes in advertising, and is one of the biggest advertisers on earth, but says no product can succeed without quality.

In his review of the various features of the co-partnership system at Port Sunlight, Mr. Higgs described the homes of the employees, the training college and the various facilities for athletics provided by the Recreation Association.

In closing he dealt with the British transportation system, the wonderful roads, etc., and paid a high tribute to the ability of British engineers.

In the course of his address, Mr. Higgs also referred to the immigration question, and told a number of excellent anecdotes being connected with his travelling experiences. He said that he had conversed with hundreds of people, but found very regrettable ignorance of Prince Edward Island, quite a number being under the impression that this province was off the coast of British Columbia.

During his visit to Scotland he was pained to see the lack of activity in the great shipbuilding yards on the Clyde. This condition was reflected on the business of Glasgow.

The hearty thanks of the Rotary Club was tendered Mr. Higgs, for his admirable address, by the chairman, Mr. Phil Palmer.

The guests present yesterday were Rotarian H. M. Jenkins, of Calgary, Charles Palmer of Toronto, J. O'Donnell, Mr. Stacey, manager of Woolworth Company, and James P. MacInnis the last named contributing an enjoyable solo which was encored.

The gets relief from DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN. And so do the children. Some Families Are Never Ill. FORTUNATE are the children whose parents fully realize the seriousness of constipation. Hospital records prove that 75 per cent of all disease originates in bowel obstruction or constipation. Young children are hampered in their studies; grown people are made 25 per cent less efficient; elderly people's blood pressure increases 25 per cent. Clara M. Smith, Big Valley, Alberta, recommends Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for all, and especially for children and old folks; Mrs. Bettles, 8 Napanee St., Toronto, keeps it always in the house for family use.
