Chamberlain

would be a "first class mistake" to enter a peace conference without asking the United States, Russia and Italy to participate, if a peace parley is suggested."

Mr. Chamberlain replied that no peace proposals "has yet come to us, and at this stage it would be premature to build any hopes on the likelihood of such a proposal being made."

The Soviet-German declaration, which accompanied the partition of Poland, contained "nothing .. that should cause us to do anything other than what we are doing," Mr. Chamberlain declared, saying that course was "mobilizing all the resources and all the might of the British Empire for the effective prosecution of the war."

While Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky listened from the diplomatic gallery, the Prime Minister asserted the German-Soviet agreement by no means assured Germany of lasting benefits.

Reverse Roles

The tile between Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Lloyd George cast them in roles reversing the positions they have taken in other sessions.

Mr. Lloyd George's speech brought an immediate protest from Alfred Duff Cooper, former First Lord of the Admiralty, who deplored that it would go out over the world as a "suggestion of surrender."

"I almost despair to think what the effect will be in Germany," added Sir Morris Jones, Liberal supporter of the Government.

Mr. Lloyd George angrily retorted that "this is the first time I have been charged with surrender and Mr. Duff Cooper may live to regret it."

George Buchanan, Independent Labor, took a different tack, praising Mr. Lloyd George's "courage" and saying that he "never saw in 1914 anything like the hostility for the war that I find today."

Protesting cries of "no! no!" almost drowned his words.

Cites Development

Mr. Chamberlain subordinated military to political developments in his fifth weekly report on the progress of the war, but he said, nevertheless, that British forces were not idle on land, sea or in the air.

He cited these as developments: A large British army has been transported to France and "is taking its place alongside our French allies."

The air force has been active in reconnaissance flights over Germany and in actual combat with German fighters on the western front.

War against the submarine "has continued with unabated vigor." A German raider is reported in operation on the South Atlantic but "this fresh menace will be dealt with according to prearranged plans."

Mr. Chambebrlain also announced a reorganization of the much-criticized ministry of information by which direct press contacts will be reestablished with Government departments.

stand. They said Britain does not want to quit, and yet does not want to fight.

One immediate result of Mr. Chamberlain's speech today was expected to be speeding up of negotiations with Soviet Russia to increase the quantities of raw materials moving into Germany. German-Russian discussions on this point will begin soon, official quarters said.

LAST SHOT FIRED

On the eastern battlefront the swastika flag flew tonight over the Hela peninsula, last Polish stronghold to surrender. The first and final shots of the Polish war were fired in and near the former Free City of Danzig—Hela giving up yesterday.

In Warsaw the German army dug through charred debris of the capital, clearing streets and carting away arms and booty which the Poles stacked in the city hall square as they marched out to be taken prisoners. Only a small amount of munitions—sufficient for a few hours more—were reported found in the fallen Polish capital which surrendered after almost a month's resistance.

REGINA, Oct. 3—The Saskatchewan grasshopper egg infestation map just completed is the brightest presented in the province since 1934.

The map, prepared by Prof. K. M. King, Dominion entomologist, Saskatoon, reveals "very severe" infestation only in eight municipalities and local improvement districts in the extreme southwest corner of the province.

where the troops were disembarked.

Organization of the expedition was taken charge of by Sir Sam Hughes, minister of militia, who grew impatient of normal military procedure. It was he who had charge of the chartering of the ships.

Embarked Amid "Chaos"

Loading of mounted units and infantry began Sept. 23 at Quebec, "in few cases was the sound military principles followed that each unit should embark complete with men, horses, vehicles and baggage in one ship, says the official war history.

The history adds that "conditions on the Quebec wharves for a time were almost indescribable." To Ottawa it was reported that "chaos reigned supreme."

Col. V. A. S. Williams, later promoted to general and who recently retired as commissioner of Ontario police, was in command of the first contingent.

Among the 31 ships was the Athenia, sunk by a German submarine in 1917. Its successor was the first casualty of the second war when it was torpedoed a month ago.

German Claim Refuted By U. S. Naval Attache

LONDON, Oct. 3— (CP)—Testimony by the United States naval attache, Captain Alan G. Kirk, that he attended a regular Sunday religious service aboard the Ark Royal yesterday was offered by Great Britain tonight as refutation of German assertions the aircraft carrier had been badly damaged during a North Sea air raid last week.

The ministry of information issued a statement saying "the gist of a report sent to the Navy Department of the U.S.A. by the United States Naval attache in London read:—

"During the week-end United States naval attache in London, Captain Alan G. Kirk, U.S.A. made a customary official call on the Commander-In-Chief of the British home fleet, Admiral Sir Charles Forbes, K.C.B., D.S.O.

"On Sunday Captain Kirk was present at the regular church service on board the Ark Royal and observed units of the fleet.

"The naval forces of the entire home fleet, including every one of the capital ships, seemed to be in perfect condition and undamaged in any particular by the German air attack on last Tuesday, Sept. 26. No ship was hit by bombs during the attack, and no casualties were sustained."

There is no strength in the mean. It is the enthusiasts that make the world move.

Plot To Kill Hitler Said Discovered

LONDON, Oct. 3 — The Daily Sketch tday reported that a plot to kill Fuehrer Hitler during his tour of inspection of the Polish front had been discovered by Heinrich Himmler, chief of the German Gestapo.

The report lacked confirmation from other sources.

The Copenhagen correspondent of the tablold London newspaper said reports reaching Denmark from Germany said members of the blackshirted Hitler elite guard were implicated in the plot.

Despite utmost secrecy maintained by German police officials confirmation of the plot was seen in formation of a "super bodyguard" for the Fuehrer, The Daily Sketch said.

It called attention to the Nazi announcement of a special guards corps organized and commanded by Sepp Dietrich, one of Hitler's Lieutenants.

MRS. MARY McNALLY

A shadow of gloom was cast over Ten Mile House and vicinity on Friday, Sept. 1st when it became known that the Angel of Death had visited their midst and claimed for its vicitm one of the most respected and honoured citizens in the person of Mrs. Mary McNally, at the age of 71.

The late Mrs. McNally (nee Mary Hughes) was born at Bedford and married the late Thomas McNally of Ten Mile House, where she resided for over fifty years. Her husband predeceased her six years ago.

During all those years of useful life she enjoyed excellent health until a few months prior to her death she became ill. Yet it was hoped that tender nursing and the best efforts of skilled physicians would restore her to health. But alas, the fond hopes of the loved ones were not to be realized. She gradually grew worse until on the above date surrounded by her loved ones she quietly breathed her last.

Loving and true, her life characterized by a peculiar sweetness of disposition and kindliness of heart, she had won the hearts of a large circle of friends. To know her was to love her, and her never failing charity towards her neighbors in sickness or trouble was always shown both by word and action.

The deceased bore her illness with patience and courage and viewed the aproach of death with fortitude and faith in God's mercy, which was a source of consolation to her family and those around her. Even in her last hours, a bright smile of recognition greeted her friends—a smile that will always be a sweet memory through all the years to come

A true woman, without thought of self, she lived for the loved ones in the home and has left in the hearts of her children an everlasting remembrance of her maternal exemplary life, and her peaceful passing is but a striking manifestation of a life devotion to God and Church.

By Mrs. McNally's death the province has lost a noble woman and the district one whose whole life was rich with acts of kindness and charity. Her home was always open to give any assistance to strangers or friends in need, and anyone who ever had the pleasure of visiting it will never forget the kindness and warmth in the welcome extended to them.

During her illness she was frequently visited by her beloved pastor, Rev Kenneth McPherson who administered to her the last rites of the Catholic Church, of which she was a devoted member.

One son, Leo predeceased her. She leaves to mourn three sons and six daughters, namely, Wilfred of the C.N.R., Boston; Patrick of Somerville, Mass., and Joseph on the homestead; Mrs. James Smith, Webster's Corner; Mrs. Henry McGuirk, Mrs. Fred Shea and Jennie, all of Somerville, Mass, and Kathleen and Helen and an adopted son, Francis, at home.

She also leaves four sisters: Mrs. James McNally and Mrs. Jane Mullin, Scotchford, Mrs. Emma Cullen, Bedford, and Mrs. Emma MacDonald, of Charlottetown, to all of whom heartfelt sympathy is extended in their sad bereavement.

The funeral, which was one of the largest on record here, was held on Monday the 4th of Sept., to St. Bonaventure Church, Tracadie, where a Requiem High Mass was sung by the pastor, Rev. Kenneth McPherson, who also conducted the service at the grave. The last rites being performed, all that was mortal of a true friend and mother was laid to rest in the adjoining cemetery, there to await the glorious resurrection.

The pallbearers were John Corrigan, Michael Corrigan, Patrick Smith, Ambrose Mitchell, Walter Mullin and John McQuaid.

May her soul rest in peace.

WHY SOME PEOPLE GROW OLD QUICK

Everybody should know the facts

Why do some people keep youthful, while others grow old quickly, before their time? Are you too busy to learn the truth? Are you prepared to face the facts and to admit them, if they apply to you? We say you may find new joy in living if you read and heed these frank statements.

Thousand of people just don't bother to do anything about constipation. They even refuse to believe they are constipated. They think that if a person is regular, that is all that matters. Occasionally they take "a good dose of something" when the need is evident. That is definitely not the way.

Take off the mask of premature age

The way to keep feeling fit, to prolong the years of youthful exuberance and well-being, is to keep the entire system free as possible from impurities and poisons. That means the blood, the kidneys, the intestines and the bowels.

To do that your body must get certain minerals in some way.

We make no exaggerated claims for Kruschen Salts, but we recommend the "little daily dose" because Kruschen contains several valuable mineral salts in highly refined form. Each salt has its particular function. In combination they help rid your system of excess poisons each day. Thus free from the ageing effects of accumulated impurities you are much less apt to suffer from splitting headaches, acid indigestion, rheumatic pains, listlessness, because your excretory organs are encouraged to function normally.

Thousands upon thousands of people throughout the world refer to the general well-being it imparts as "that million dollar Kruschen feeling". Start "the little daily dose" right away and just you see for yourself! At all drug counters 25c, 45c, 75c

MR. JAMES A. HARRIS

It was with sincere regret that citizens of Summerside learned of the passing of Mr. James A. Harris, one of Summerside's oldest and most beloved citizens whose death occurred on Saturday evening in the Prince County Hospital. Mr. Harris was in his usual health on Friday but had the misfortune to fall that afternoon and suffered a badly fractured hip. The shock proved too much for his advanced years and pneumonia set in and death came quietly on Saturday evening.

Mr. Harris was born in England 87 years ago and came when three months old with his parents to the Island. His parents settled in Sherbrooke, where Mr. Harris spent most of his life taking up residence in Summerside when he retired from the active life on the farm. Besides farming Mr. Harris conducted a large oyster packing plant in the boom years of that industry some 50 years ago. He was a keen horseman and always enjoyed a good horse race. He was also well known for his high class stock, keeping abreast of the times in all his activities. In his daily life Mr. Harris showed that true Christian spirit of love and helpfulness to his neighbor which characterized the pioneers of this country. In a quiet, unobtrusive way he did much to build up the community in which he lived. He was a life long member of the Presbyterian Church. In politics he was Conservative although taking no active part in public affairs. Mr. Harris' one public service was as secretary of the Summerside Cemetery Company, an office which he held for many years since its organization and the beautiful grounds of the People's Cemetery are in a large measure due to his unfailing efforts and zeal.

Mr. Harris married Miss Sarah Jane Linkletter of Linkletter Road and their long and happy life together in the midst of their family was a shining example of the Christian home. Mr. Harris felt keenly his wife's death which occurred six years ago. Since her death Mr. Harris made his home with his granddaughter, Florence, Mrs. J. C. Mountain, who tenderly cared for him in his last years. He was also very devoted to his two year old great granddaughter, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mountain.

Of the immediate family left to mourn are one son George of Sherbrooke, three daughters, Mrs. W. K. Llewellyn, Summerside; Mrs. Herbert Ramsay, Truro, N. S.; Mrs. Russell Rogers, Coleman, all of whom were at his bedside when he passed away. One sister, Mrs. Joseph Hardy, Somerville, Mass., and one brother, William Harris, California, also survive, also a large number of grandchildren and great grandchildren.
