BESCO CORPN. LIQUIDATED YESTERDAY

Royal Trust Co., to Wind Up the Business — Appeal Will be Entered by Pres- ident Wolvin.

(Canadian Press)
HALIFAX, July 12.—The liquidation of the Dominion Steel Corporation Limited, was ordered today by Mr. Justice Chisholm of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, and the Royal Trust Co., was named as liquidators. The announcement of the decision featured the special general meeting of the British Empire Steel Corporation called for the purpose of considering the non-approval of the scheme suggested by the management for the reorganization of the enterprise, and president Roy M. Wolvin subsequently announced that an appeal would be entered and a request made for a stay in the execution of the order. Later in the afternoon, A. E. Nash, chairman of the local board of the Royal Trust Co., issued a statement in which he pointed out that the appointment of a liquidator of the holding corporation, did not affect the position or employment of officials and employees of the operating companies involved. The announcement at the general meeting of Judge Chisholm's decision followed a spirited speech by the Hon. L. G. Beaubien, of Montreal, in which he appealed to the National Trust Co. liquidators of the Dominion Steel and Iron Co., Ltd., and the applicants for the order winding up the Dominion Steel Corporation. To co-operate with the directorate in the staying off of liquidation proceedings.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 12.—Two children of two of the greatest fathers of Confederation met here yesterday when Mlle. Hortense Cartier paid a visit to Sir Hugh John MacDonald. "I'm afraid I'm going to cry when I see Hughie," said Mlle. Hortense to her cousin, Jacques, on the way to Sir Hugh John's home. "I remember him as a little red-headed boy. He was so full of spirits, now we are both old." They both cried, just a little, at least their eyes were filled with tears, as they clasped hands.

Slowest Building Job on Record

(By British United Press)
LONDON, July 12.—Five miles out of Buxton, on one of the loneliest crests of the Peakland moors, the slowest building job on record is proceeding.
Two years ago Mine Host of the old Cat and Fiddle Inn—the highest fully-licensed house in England, 1,600 ft. up in a bare solitude of the Pennine hills—decided to add a dining room and couple of bedrooms to his property. And the work is still proceeding.
The builders have to come 12 miles in a wagon with their material and in the winter the Peakland road, swept by gales and snow, is often impassable.
Mine Host of the Cat and Fiddle, Joseph Eli Cook, wears neither coat nor waistcoat, indoors or out, summer or winter. Even when the wind is so wild that he finds it quite impossible to steer his 230 pounds round a corner of his property, he still may be found in just shirt and trousers.
In bitter weather, folk in Buxton take on bets with visitors that Mr. Cook is without coat or waistcoat. The stranger always loses.
"Come see Rin-tin-tin in 'Hero of the Big Snows,' wonderful show. Also comedy, Victoria tonight, Flat River Thursday. 7801-7-13

CHAMBERLAIN DEGRIES TALK OF NAVAL RACE

Unthinkable that British People Should Enter Into a Naval Armament Race With United States Says Foreign Secretary.

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, July 12.—The raising of the question of secrecy and sectional agreements in foreign affairs by Arthur Ponsonby, Laborite, in behalf of the opposition in the House of Commons today gave Sir Austen Chamberlain, Secretary of Foreign Affairs, an opportunity to discuss the whole field of foreign policy, and to touch on the Geneva conference.
Declaring it unthinkable that Great Britain should enter into a naval armament race with the United States, as the idea of war between the United States and Britain was outlawed in the very soul of every British citizen, Sir Austen said: "I hope and believe that from the Coolidge conference may come proposals which will mark a real step-forward in the limitation of naval competition, and that, encouraged by that example, a new stimulus may be given to the large international conference, which is proposed to consider not merely naval, but land and air armaments."
It was obvious, he said, that he could not enter into a detailed argument or explanation of the British cause under consideration at Geneva, but he added, "I can say that the British delegation went there with a carefully thought out plan for the further limitation of naval armaments, and the extent of the proposals our delegation was prepared to submit may be measured perhaps by this single fact that for years to come they would mean a reduction, if adopted by the others, of naval expenditure, which we should otherwise have to incur, of a sum nearer £50,000,000 than £40,000,000."
Rebutting Suspicion of Foreign Policy.
The foreign secretary's speech was largely devoted to rebutting suspicions of the foreign policy suggested by Mr. Ponsonby and in defending the work of the League Council. He gave the governmental benevolence to any diplomatic attempts to outlaw war between any of the great powers and the United States and warmly repudiated opposition accusations of ulterior motives in his interview with Premier Mussolini of Italy and other foreign statesmen.
"For Heaven's sake," he exclaimed, "don't hold it as a matter of suspicion that the ministers of two friendly states meet and discuss affairs of common interest."

Minister of Trade and Commerce Returns From the Continent

(Special to the Guardian)
OTTAWA, Ont., July 12.—Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce, returned to Canada during the weekend from a month's absence in Great Britain and the continent investigating trade prospects, and the service of his department as given by the trade commissioners. Mr. Malcolm visited his agents in England, Scotland and Ireland and also called together the continental commissioners at Paris. Mr. Malcolm has returned with valuable first hand information regarding the possibilities of developing Canadian trade under the empire marketing scheme, and is likely to submit to the next session of Parliament some legislation providing means for Canada taking a larger share of business under that plan. It will require much more money than the £100,000 voted at the last session as Australia and New Zealand are spending a larger sum annually in advertising their products under that plan and they are obtaining results.

JURY DISAGREE IN LAWLOR CASE. BYERS AND GORMLEY ON TRIAL

Unusual procedure had to be adopted before Jury for Vogue Case finally chosen. Jury in forgery Case stood seven for conviction and five for acquittal.

The case of Fred Lawlor, charged with uttering a forgery to the extent of $37 mainly occupied the time of the Supreme Court yesterday. Chief Justice Mathieson heard the evidence. Attorney General Stewart presented the case for the Crown, while the prisoner who on the day of his arraignment had no counsel, had Mr. Mark McGuigan assigned to the defense. After a number of witnesses for the Crown and defence had been examined, Mr. Mark McGuigan in summing up for the defense said the prisoner is charged with uttering forgery knowing the document having been forged.
He defined forgery as set down in the criminal code. "Is the document produced by the Crown a forgery. Have they proved that George Brown did not sign that cheque." "I submit they did not."
If a man draws a cheque on a bank and has no funds that is not a case of forgery. The only man who gives any evidence about that is the prisoner who is not contradicted. One of the three witnesses of the Crown, only one says the signature on the back is the same as that on the face.
Suppose the document is a forgery. The prisoner explained everything. If this man had forged this instrument or known it was forged would he keep trying to get his money. He wrote to George Brown, Hazelbrook and he and Mr. McNell went to the Magistrate. Does that look like a guilty person.
They ask why didn't he look for Brown. When a man commits forgery it is the duty of the Crown to investigate the matter.
I submit the Crown have made out an extremely weak case. They have not made out that a forgery was committed and if a forgery has been committed they have not proved who committed it. If there was forgery it was not done by the prisoner and I think he is entitled to a verdict at your hands.
Attorney-General Stewart said it is the duty of the Crown and jury to do justice. There are just two

TEMPERANCE LAWS IN DOMINION IN NEED OF STRAIGHTENING OUT

With Seven Provinces Under Government Control, Legislation is Hopelessly Tangled Between Dominion and the Provinces.

(Canadian Press)
OTTAWA, Ont., July 12.—Canada's liquor laws appear to be in an almost hopelessly tangled state. With seven out of nine provinces of the Dominion now functioning under a system of Government control of the sale of liquor, several knotty questions have been recommended by Dominion law officers for interpretation by the Courts.
Three leading points which the judiciary may be called upon to decide are:
Is the importation of liquor into the Provinces of Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta still prohibited under the Canada Temperance Act?
Is the exportation of liquor out of the Provinces of Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta still prohibited under the Canada Temperance Act?
Is the New Brunswick Liquor Act respecting Government Control as restrictive as the Canada Temperance Act, and, if so, should seven of the counties in that province be again placed under a provision of the Canada Temperance Act prohibiting local sale?

BROOKLYN ALARMED BY GRISLY FINDS

Dismembered Limbs of Human Bodies Found in Brooklyn Suspect Protests Innocence.

(Canadian Press)
NEW YORK, July 12.—While police were trying to unravel the mystery of the axe murder of Mrs. Alfred Bennett and Miss Sarah Brownell, today, the decomposed head of a woman was found in Brooklyn which police thought might possibly be the head of Evelyn Martino, friend of the murdered woman, and missing since June 30th.
The young woman, the police were told, left her home with Mrs. Bennett to visit at the rooming house of Miss Brownell, and has not been seen since.
Mrs. Bennett, the mother of four children, who sold the lease on the rooming house to the elderly Miss Brownell, was murdered and dismembered. The police believed she was killed when she encountered the murderer while attempting to dispose of parts of the older woman's body.
The head found today represents the latest of the many gruesome piece meal discoveries since the first paper wrapped legs of a woman were discovered in Battery Park Saturday.

Suspect Stolidly Protests Innocence

Other parts of the bodies of one or the other of the two and possibly three women have been found in ash cans, church basins, alleys and other places in Brooklyn.
In connection with the discoveries, Ludwig Halverson Lee, 40 years old, janitor for the late Miss Brownell, today stolidly protested his innocence to twenty detectives.
Lee is charged with homicide and according to the police has admitted the ownership of saws, hatchets, axes and other implements which are said to have been found in his room stained with blood. Parts of women's apparel were also found in his possession, the police say.
Lee is also said to have told the police that Miss Brownell loaned him $800 to start a restaurant, the venture having failed subsequently, and that she had once asked him to marry her, but that "things drifted along" and the marriage did not take place.

The window was shattered, but the customer escaped uninjured.
When asked for an explanation she said she must have been thinking of something else.
