Blessing of New Cemetery At Fort Augustus

On Sunday morning last the new cemetery was solemnly blessed by His Excellency, Bishop O'Sullivan, assisted by the Rev. P. D. McGuigan, Vernon River, and the Rev. J. B. McIntyre, Tracadie.

This ceremony was followed by Pontifical Mass by His Excellency. The Rev. P. D. McGuigan was Assistant Priest. The Deacons of Honour were the Very Rev. Dr. J. A. Murphy, and the Rev. Francis McQuaid of St. Dunstan's University. The Deacons of the Mass were the Rev. J. B. McIntyre, and the Rev. D. P. Croken. The Rev. P. McMahon, D. D., was Master of Ceremonies.

An eloquent and impressive sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. McMahon. As this was Bishop O'Sullivan's first official visit to the parish an Address of Welcome was presented to His Excellency. This was read by Mr. J. J. McDonald, and is as follows:

THE MOST REVEREND JOSEPH ANTHONY O'SULLIVAN,
 Bishop of Charlottetown.

Your Excellency: We heartily greet you, and extend to you a very cordial welcome to St. Patrick's Church and to the parish of Fort Augustus.

In your coming here for the first time, permit us to say that you meet a body of people who are warm-hearted, generous, and true, and who, thank God possess strong and practical Catholic faith. We are, fortunately, the inheritors of loyal Catholic traditions. These have been encouraged by the teaching and by the gentle influence of our beloved pastor, the Rev. Dr. Croken—between the parishioners and whom, we are glad to say, the happiest relations exist.

It may be interesting to Your Excellency to learn that the first steps toward the formation of this parish had been taken, and the first subscription toward the construction of a church had been contributed in the year 1836. A wooden building was erected at that time. More than thirty years later the foundation of the present edifice was laid. Destroyed by fire in 1897, it quickly arose from its ashes through the united efforts of brave hearts and willing hands. Within the last few years, too, extensive repairs have been made; and the church property and grounds have been improved. Thus it would seem that that spirit of faith which had been transplanted here—plucked, as it were, from the Old Land across the sea by those dear exiles of long ago—had taken firm root, and had ever been guarded and nourished by those unselfish and devoted priests who, from time to time, had laboured here during the century that now has almost passed away.

In offering to Your Excellency our most respectful homage, we also give you our warmest love and sincerest affection. Quoting the lines of the Rev. Dr. Dollard, that sweetly gifted Irish Canadian poet priest we may truly say:

"Thy faithful people compass thee with love:
 And Heaven, they pray, to strengthen thee and spare."

We are pleased that the Diocese has again been given a Bishop of outstanding scholarship, and culture, wise judgment, and prudent administrative ability. Already your kindly fact, and the singular charm of your personality have won you many friends—even among those who are not of our faith. We congratulate you upon your elevation, and upon your appointment to your Island See. As dutiful children of the Church we place ourselves under the mantle of your loving protection. May we ever remain worthy of your paternal solicitude—never betraying your trust, nor abusing the confidence which we now ask you to honour by your acceptance. We sincerely hope that Your Excellency may be granted long life in your Episcopate. May the passing years be fruitful of much happiness to you personally, and may they bring continued glory and ever increasing strength to the Church in this wave-encircled land.

Signed by the Committee, in behalf of the pastor and of the Congregation of St. Patrick's Church, this 26th day of June, 1932.

JOHN KELLY
 EUGENE GALLAGHAN
 JOHN J. MACDONALD

In his reply His Excellency very graciously thanked both pastor and people for their welcome, and for the words of warm friendship so eloquently expressed. Their loyalty to the Church, to their priests, and to the Bishop of the Diocese was well known to him. He referred to the new cemetery which he had just consecrated to God, and said that, for the greater part of the congregation, this should be their last resting place. Let them, however, never forget their dear departed friends interred in the old cemetery. He urged them to keep the memory of those loved ones ever green—to not forget the hardship which they endured, the man, sacrifices that they must have made; and, by the example of their own lives, to preserve the priceless heritage of Faith in the years to come.

FRESH EMPIRE-GROWN PEARS REACH CANADA FROM AUSTRALIA

MONTREAL, June 28.—Historians will be shocked. Several thousand Napoleons accompanied by several thousand Josephines recently disembarked here from the Canadian National freighter, Canadian Conqueror, after a voyage half way round the world, 10,000 miles, 72 days, from Australia.

Apart from their names, the newcomers are remarkable because they are fresh, not canned or dried. They are pears, fresh, Empire-grown pears, the first to enter Canada from such a distance.

The shipment totals 90,000 pears in all. Other pear varieties included are: beurre boss, a familiar name here; Packham's triumph, resembling the bartlett pear; Madame Cole; Lawrence and Keffer. The shipment travelled in a refrigerated chamber and is said to be a marked advance in modern food transportation.

JAPAN AND FRANCE REFUSE DISARMAMENT

GENEVA, June 28.—The Hoover plan to reduce the world's armaments by one third and relieve the world of an expenditure of from ten to fifteen billion dollars in ten years had the approval of 26 nations today.

Either publicly or privately, the representatives of these nations had informed Ambassador Hugh Gibson that their governments approved the United States proposals.

Japanese opposition was the chief fear. French opposition could be overcome through new offers of security, it was felt.

Paris: Leaders asked why America remained aloof, then made such drastic proposals to such conferences. The press called the plan "theatrical" and a "menace" to French security.

United Mine Workers Clash

(Canadian Press)

BRACE BAY, N. S., June 28.—A clash between United Mine Workers and men who have thrown their lot with the newly organized Amalgamated Mine workers of a Scot. A, occurred on Saturday at Dominion No. 11, where commented over the selection of a man of a general meeting held in an uproar that was ended by police.

Following the advice of Inspector Daniel Nicholson of the local Canadian Mounted Police Chief of Police R. McInnes, a crowd dispersed without further disturbance.

The meeting had been advertised for the purpose of reorganizing the local union of the United Mine Workers, which had been suspended by the district executive for payment of dues.

Erin Barrett, president of the union when it was suspended, addressed the platform and called for a meeting to order. His right to chair was challenged from the quarters and John R. McDonald, Provincial President of Amalgamated Mine Workers, nominated.

The chairman refused to accept nomination, and from then on the police arrived the gathering beyond control.

The Amalgamated Mine Workers of Nova Scotia have been organizing for several weeks, and four unions have been formed.

They are at Reserve, Dominion Aberdeen and Dominion No. 11, and others are to be added in the next few weeks. Their constitution is a slightly amended version of the old amalgamated workers of 1917.

The policy of the organization is in direct conflict with several regulations of the U. M. W., and just what the outcome of the new movement will be has not been announced.

Meanwhile the United Mine Workers are proceeding with nominations for the district elections to be held on August 16. President D. W. Morrison and Vice President P. G. Mute are assured of acclamations. Alex Campbell and Joe Heering, the only other candidates nominated, having withdrawn.

BROADWAY STARS OFF TO EUROPE

NEW YORK, June 28.—(C. P.)

This is the time of the year when Broadway becomes dull. Few plays of merit are appearing just now and a good many managers and stars have departed for Europe seeking new plays and new ideas.

Beatrice Lillie (Lady Peel), having finished her little adventure as a dramatic actress in Bernard Shaw's "Too True to be Good" embarked for London declaring she would never appear in a serious play again unless Eugene O'Neill wrote one for her.

Erin O'Brien-Moore, leading woman of "Street Scene" and "Riddle Me This," has gone to London to confer with a British author about a play written especially for her.

The writer is believed to be Alec Waugh, the novelist. The recent cool wave improved business for the current summer shows. The three considered best, "Of Thee I Sing," "Show Boat," and "Another Language," have been solid sell-outs at every performance.

Gets A Big One

MONCTON, N. B., June 28.—They start fishing young in the Maritimes, witness Bernard Dalgie, six years old, who successfully landed a nine pound silver salmon from the Kouchibouguac River, Kent County, New Brunswick, according to the Fish and Game Department of the Canadian National Railways. The young angler was accompanied by his father who is quite an expert fisherman. After landing a few nice trout in which his little son assisted with two or three fine ones, Dalgie senior headed a loud splash. Expecting to pull his little son out of the river, instead he found him holding on tenaciously to a rod, on the other end of which was the salmon.

PROPERTY DONATED ITALIAN NATION

LONDON, Eng., June 28.—Lord Rosebery recently offered to the Italian nation the property at Poppo, near Naples, which he inherited from his father, who bought it in 1897. The offer, which was made in a letter sent to the British Ambassador in Rome, has been accepted by Signor Mussolini, who, in an autographed reply to Lord Rosebery, declares that the gift, which is cordially accepted, will have the most favorable effect in Italy, and that the property will continue to be called after Lord Rosebery as a compliment to his distinguished father.

The property, which is of exceptional beauty and is in fact situated in the Elenco del Monumenti Nazionali, consists of three villas situated in extensive grounds which are well wooded and run out into the sea as a headland commanding a magnificent view. These villas together contain something like 40 bedrooms, and the late Lord Rosebery while he continued to visit the place used to employ 30 gardeners.
