Prominent St. Eleanors Farmer Passes Away

With a profound sense of regret many friends learned of the death at his home in St. Eleanors of Mr. John Archibald Wallace MacCallum, prominent farmer of that locality who passed away last Friday evening at 8:30. Though ill for the past month the end came suddenly. His death occurred in the same house in which he was born on October 26th, 1873. His father was Donald MacCallum and his mother Margaret Doherty MacCallum.

The only surviving member of his family is his brother Mr. Calvin D. MacCallum, barrister, Summerside; a brother George and a sister Marjorie. Mrs. George and a sister having predeceased him some years ago. The late Mr. MacCallum was twice married, his first wife was the late Elizabeth Stromberg of Charlottetown and the second was Mrs. Stanley Compton of St. Eleanors who with his two step daughters Eileen and Marion and step-sons, Nelson and Lorne, survive.

A man of outstanding ability as a farmer and a great lover of flowers and nature and a man of high ideals, who was a prodigious reader and a Bible student, Mr. MacCallum's death removes one whose passing is a distinct loss to the community where he lived and his memory will long be cherished.

The funeral took place Sunday afternoon and was one of the largest seen for years in this community. After a short service at the home conducted by Rev. Charles Carnegie, the remains were conveyed to the Presbyterian Church, Summerside, which was filled almost to capacity where Rev. Mr. Carnegie said a fitting tribute to the deceased. The hymns sung were "Abide with Me" and "Lead Kindly Light". Interment was in the Peoples Cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. T. D. Carruthers, George Key, George Warren, Roy Tanton, Frank Sweet, and Leopold Tanton.

took care of the matter in two ways, by providing a floor price for potatoes at the starch factories and in guaranteeing the price next Spring at $1.00 per 75 pound bag for no. 1 potatoes.

Mr. Matheson asked if the Board had lived up to that guarantee? The price, figures up roughly to 85 cents.

Mr. Stewart said the $1.00 price included the bags.

Mr. Matheson said he understood the floor price was supposed to be effective from the first of January, though this statement had been repudiated by the Minister of Agriculture.

Mr. Stewart: "That would be in the starch factories."

Mr. Matheson: "No, the starch factories wouldn't be operating at that time."

Mr. Stewart: "They would be operating in New Brunswick."

Mr. Matheson: "I think 92 cents was as high as the factories paid." He went on to point out that the acreage proposal in the resolution amounted to regimentation and would not prove popular.

Hon. Mr. Wright took exception to Mr. Matheson's suggestion that the floor would not have been paid had we not obtained the 3,000,000 bushel British order. The Dominion Government had guaranteed a price and he believed it would have lived up to its obligation. He considered the resolution to contain incorrect statements in view of the presentations which had been made and the action already taken at Ottawa.

Mr Campbell's Complaint Hon. J. A. Campbell complained that there was too little consideration given to the interests of real farmers. More than farmers are growing potatoes and the farmers were being made the goats when measures to protect the potato industry were brought in. It was the speculators who were getting their interests served. "Many of those who attend farm meetings don't rightly understand farming conditions," Mr. Campbell said. "All the legislation that I have seen passed here is tightening the strings around the farmer's neck." Mr. Campbell went on to complain that as a farmer he and never been listened to by his Government colleagues when he offered advice. "The reason I never was considered or received any emoluments, though I have been here for twenty years, is because I was considered something that was no good," he said. "Perhaps some of these fellows when they are on their death beds will think of some of the suggestions I made; but they will be too late to admit they will have to deal with a higher authority." (Laughter).

Mr. MacKinnon agreed with the last speaker as to the advantage enjoyed by the speculators over the farmer in potato growing. The resolution did not meet his wishes entirely but he would be inclined "to take the bitter with the sweet."

Mr. Ramsay stressed the need of limiting acreage if floor prices are to be demanded. He instanced the movement on foot in the United States in this connection. The resolution before the House would require to be brought up to date in this respect, he thought.

Mr. Morley Bell said the resolution misrepresented the facts as they exist, as the floor price is already in effect. He proposed later to move that it be left in committee.

Mr. MacKenzie said that the farmers during the past year were not making any money. In the years when there was a demand for potatoes the ceiling price was too low. It would be a vicious principle to control acreage; at the same time if prices were to be necessary if prices were to be controlled. "Farm lands today are so cheaply available," he said, "I don't know how we can go on without floor prices, and yet I don't know how we can establish floor prices without limiting production." He thought it significant that there was never a ceiling on seed potatoes. This, he believed, was because these regulations were always administered from the standpoint of the consumers rather than the producers.

Other Speakers There was further discussion by Mr. MacDonald, Hon. Mr. Wright, Mr. Matheson, Hon. Mr. Barrett and Mr. Strong. The latter returned to the strict farm regimentation under the Labor Government in England.

Hon. Mr. Hughes suggested that even a floor price that would cover the bare cost of production would have a tendency to increase production. "Is there a man in this country who will refuse to go into a game where he is sure he cannot lose and he may win?" he asked.

Mr. Cox stressed the unwisdom of growing too large potato acreages, and the benefits of mixed farming.

Mr. Phillips agreed that it was unwise to put all one's eggs in one basket. Nevertheless, he pointed out that heavy potato production is not a new thing for Prince Edward Island. In 1891 there were 7,071, 000 bushels of potatoes grown in this Province.

Premier Jones: "There were thousands of schoolers taking them away then."

Mr. MacKenzie did not believe in the mass production of potatoes. He instanced a community in his own district, Graham's Road, where it was doubtful if any man grew more than five acres and where not one man went before the Board of Review during the years the Board was sitting.

Mr. E. Cullen said the speculators in potatoes depend on mass production. If a floor price of say 70 cents were imposed, the small grower might make nothing but the people growing 200 acres under mass production methods might make a profit of 20 cents a bushel. No farmer wanted to see his sons working for these men. It was not a condition that his Legislature should encourage. In the near future it might be necessary to bring in measures to control acreage of potatoes in this Province, and for that reason this discussion would serve a good purpose.

Mr. Strong: "You don't say that the potato growers are slave drivers?"

Mr. R. R. Bell thought the resolution might go through with an amendment to the last paragraph. Hon. Mr. Stewart objected to several statements in the resolution as being entirely misleading.

Premier's Objections Premier Jones said the resolution proposes to do away with the law of supply and demand. So far as he was concerned he was "all for the law of supply and demand" and he would suggest that any member disputing that principle should align himself with the socialists. The resolution requests that the Dominion Government impose a floor price, and the local Government would be expected to limit the acreage. He instanced the severe restrictions on farmers in New Zealand under socialistic regulations. "We want to be very careful in passing a resolution to bring in more and more of this kind of thing," he said. "The Conservatives are particularly watching that at Ottawa, and they are accusing Liberalism of being too socialistic. Here you are putting it into a resolution which evidently was worked out in your own caucus."

Opposition voices: "No, no." Mr. Matheson said he resented this imputation of the Premier's. He had never seen the resolution until it was brought up today in the House. Mr. Hunter corroborated Mr. Matheson's statement. Mr. Matheson: "I think it was his own members who supported it more than we did." Premier Jones stressed the importance of having this Province made a disease free potato area. With this policy in effect, Island potatoes will always command the highest price, he said. Hon. Dr. MacMillan said this was evidently a resolution supported by a minority of producers. He would like to have seen it brought in by the Potato Growers Association, which is more widely representative. The House should be sure that it represents a majority of those who are specially interested. He would suggest that the promoter report progress in order to have it amended to conform with the views of the House. On motion of Mr. Morrissey, progress was reported and leave asked to sit again.
