Shortly after the opening of the first, A. Bernard, another of their star players, received a sharp blow on the ankle and was bothered with the greater part of the season, having had it badly hurt in an early season game, forcing him out of the game also, and leaving the Kensington team with only six men to play against a full line up of intermediate champions and this no doubt was the cause of such a big score, being piled up against them.

Not Bound To Renew Agreement, Claim

OTTAWA, March 7.—(CP)—The United Kingdom is not bound to renew the Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement which expires Aug. 20, 1940, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons today in reply to an inquiry by G. T. Purdy (Lib. Colchester).

The agreement could be terminated earlier than the date given if six months notice of desire to terminate was given by either government.

Raises Tax Evasion Question In House

OTTAWA, March 7.—(CP)—The Ontario Government has not made representations to the Federal Government with respect to income taxes of Canadians who establish residence in the Bahamas and other places, Revenue Minister Tisley said in an answer to questions by Thomas Church (Cons. Toronto) tabled in the House of Commons today.

Mr. Church questioned regarding alleged evasions of income taxes by wealthy evaders who have left Canada to avoid the tax. He stated that he was being taken to amend the law to prevent Canadians in Canada crediting all their assets to companies they own or control and then evading the income tax by investing surplus abroad.

JAPANESE TO PROPOSE NAVAL LIMITATION

TOKYO, March 6.—(Tuesday)—(CP) Foreign Minister Hirota today said Japan will propose total abolition of capital ship and submarine carriers with the opportunity arising for discussion of naval disarmament with other world powers.

He also told the Diet's budget committee that the Government thinks it necessary to take retaliatory measures against Soviet Russia's "undue oppression" of Japanese who operate oil, coal and shipping concessions in the northern part of Sakhalin Island.

He said 58 Japanese have been arrested in northern Sakhalin by Soviet authorities. Nine Japanese fishermen boats have been detained, he said. Thirty-four of these under suspicion of espionage.

The other were crew members and employees of Japanese concessions. Russia owns the northern half of the island and Japan the southern.

Vca Cramm Held On Morals Charge

BERLIN, March 7.—(AP)—Baron Gottfried von Cramm, the world's best ranking tennis player, was in custody tonight for examination "on suspicion of moral delinquency."

Authorities were reluctant to discuss his case beyond admitting that he was being held for examination. It was explained that he had been summoned to police headquarters for clarification and examination, pending which he was held in custody.

Von Cramm and his Davis Cup teammate, Henner Henkel, returned to Germany three days ago after a world-wide tennis tour lasting six months.

The 28-year-old Von Cramm has been listed among the "first 10" players of the world since 1922, ranking second for the past two years. He was beaten by Don Budge, America's no. 1 player, in the finals of the Wimbledon and United States championships and gave Budge a terrific battle in the Davis Cup semifinal. In the previous year Von Cramm was ranked behind Fred Perry, Wimbledon and United States champion.

State Medicine Is Debated In House

OTTAWA, March 7.—The medical profession in the House of Commons split today in its opinion on state medicine when the subject was prompted by a clergyman, Rev. Daniel McIvor, (Lib. Fort William).

Dr. J. P. Howden (Lib. St. Boniface) led the forces favorable to socialization of medical and dental services. Dr. H. R. Fleming (Lib. Humboldt) led the opposition, between which lay votes most of them favorable.

State medicine has become an annual topic in Parliament and the views today were just as divergent as when it was debated eight or 10 years ago.

Confesses Slaying Her Two Children

BABYLON, N. Y., March 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Henry E. Morrison, 25, was charged with killing her two boys today after state troopers found them suffocated in their home.

Assistant District Attorney Lindsay Henry said the mother had given him a signed confession and that the case would go to the Suffolk County grand jury this week. He said: "I am convinced she is absolutely sane."

State troopers who took the mother into custody, said she told them: "Harry (her husband) wouldn't take me out. He never even took me to the movies. That's why I killed those dear little brats of his."

armament program were too small and "substantial" increases in appropriations should be expected; 3. The League of Nations, at some future date, may become the salvation of the world, but "today it is mutilated, half lame and will require prolonged assistance"; 4. No small nation could rely upon the League alone against invasion; 5. Rearmament and defence preparations were proceeding satisfactorily.

IMPLIED WARNING

Aside from what was interpreted in some quarters as an implied warning to German Chancellor Hitler to go slowly in Austria and Czechoslovakia, the Prime Minister avoided discussion of current diplomatic issues.

The implication was read into his statement that: "Quarrels which begin in a limited area are of deep concern to us if they should be the starting point of a general aggression. Therefore it is neither my desire nor intention to embark upon needless interference with other peoples' affairs."

"We shall, from time to time, if that be our duty, raise our voice in behalf of peaceable discussion and negotiation rather than the use of force or threats of force."

The original estimate of the five-year rearmament program was £1,500,000,000 ($7,500,000,000) and a government statement estimated 1938-39 costs at £351,750,000.

In declaring this expenditure might have to be stepped up, the Prime Minister said that even the strongest people may hesitate to risk a struggle with a country whose staying power may enable it indefinitely to prolong its resistance.

The rearmament program had four objectives: 1. To protect Britain; 2. To preserve the trade routes on which Britain has to depend for food and raw materials; 3. Defence of British territory overseas; 4. Cooperation in the defence of any allies Britain might have.

GIVES WARNING

Winston Churchill, Conservative, member of wartime cabinets, warned that "German air power is at least double ours and being expanded by at least double our rate."

He said his figures were highly speculative but estimated Germany was spending £100,000,000 or more in 1938 compared with Britain's £351,750,000.

He was uneasy over air rearmament. The British program intended to be completed by the end of March, 1937, to have 124 squadrons of first line airplanes, would not be complete until two years later, he said.

"We shall once again be behind in quality and quantity," he added in suggesting an inquiry into military aviation and creation of a ministry of supply.

Close military association with France was not our surest, safest and strongest hope of having no war," Mr. Churchill said "unless arrangements" have grown up with the United States but did not describe them.

These arrangements, he added, and the fact the United States navy was not "being allowed to fall behind British in the Pacific" were essential to measure our naval power against the power of European countries.

"We therefore are in a far stronger position relative to any navy in Europe today or to any likely combination of navies in Europe, than we were with the larger fleets we had in 1914."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal, asked assurance that Britain's air force was making progress at least equal to that of other nations.

HELEN KELLER FEELS MOVIES

NEW YORK, March 8.—(CP)—A shot rang out in the darkness of a New York movie house and Helen Keller, blind and deaf all her life, wept. It was the tragic climax of the picture "Mayerling," the scene where the Archduke Rudolph of Hapsburg shoots his sweetheart before committing suicide.

"I felt the shot and although I couldn't see the picture, I knew what it meant," she said in an after-theatre interview, disclosing that she has lately become an ardent movie fan. The 57-year-old author said she felt the vibrations of the shot even before her interpreter-companion, Polly Thomson, translated the scene in the swift-flying finger movement with which they communicate.

"We go to the movies often now," she said, forming the words with vocal chords she has never heard. "I'm taking time out to play a little."

Lamp Beam Kills Germs

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
NEW YORK, March 7.—A new lamp whose beams protect a person against catching the other fellow's cold was announced today at a meeting here of the American Institute, New York's oldest scientific society.

The first installation is at the teller's window of the Lafayette Bank and Trust Company, Suffern, N.Y. It was described as the culmination of 10 years' search for a form of ultra-violet light to purify air and all that man touches, without hurting his eyes.

In the bank window the beams form a curtain of bluish light falling from a long, horizontal, overhead tube of mercury vapor. The curtain lies between teller and customer. Breaths are instantly sterilized. The light kills bacteria in less than a second.

The rays also kill germs on the upper surfaces of hands passing money through the window. They even kill the germs on the exposed side of the money.

The killing of the germs carried by touch is, for most of the infectious diseases, more important than sterilizing the air. The new light has been in the Suffern Bank a month. In that time, officials said today, no irritation of eyes has been noticed.

Canada Invades United Kingdom Egg Market

LONDON, March 7.—(CP)—Canadian exporters have launched a successful challenge to Denmark's long-standing domination of the United Kingdom's egg market.

Experimental shipments of Canadian eggs, sponsored by the Dominion Department of Agriculture and cooperative organizations, have met with such success that steps have been taken to establish the scheme on a permanent basis.

Direct negotiations for a regular and increased supply have already been opened between a leading firm of London importers and the Quebec authorities.

It was originally intended to carry on the experimental shipments for a period of eight weeks only, each consignment consisting of 50 cases of 180 eggs. The demand was so keen for the Canadian product that the supply was quickly exhausted.

A member of the importing firm of John Loudon declared there was no doubt Canadian eggs were fresher than from most other countries, were better packed and handled, thus commanding higher prices.

"Although there is little possibility Canada will capture the market outright from Denmark," the importer declared, "it is certain that Canadian eggs will demand a good place on the London market."

Concerned Mainly With Illegal Entry

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)
OTTAWA, March 7.—Inquiry into Japanese immigration by the proposed board of review will be concerned with illegal entry of those considered to be a danger to Canada, but other information incidental to it may be gathered, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today.

He was answering a question from Conservative leader Bennett who wanted to know if the inquiry would concern "the whole question of Japanese immigration and penetration into our country."

Pathetic Story Of Jobless Youth

NEW YORK, March 7.—He was 17 and his father had died and he didn't want to go to the funeral "without even a flower." That said James Pichny, jobless and broke, was why he stole a $2.95 alarm clock to see and buy flowers for his dad.

Magistrate Myles A. Page paroled the youth so he could attend the funeral of his father, John Pichny. There were flowers, too, sent by sympathetic neighbors.

Snowfall Has Reddish Tinge

OTTAWA, March 7.—Snow and sleet with a reddish tinge fell over the Ottawa Valley during the week end.

F. W. Baker, meteorologist at the experimental farm here said the reddish brown snow had likely originated when a dust-laden atmosphere from the south had come in contact with a northern climatic condition. The minute particles of dust acted as nuclei for drops of moisture, which turned to sleet and snow on reaching the lower temperatures.

Claims "Magic Eye" Can Penetrate Fog

LONDON, March 7.—(CP)—J. K. Baird, television pioneer, leaving for Australia, disclosed that during the voyage he would carry out experiments with a "magic eye" to enable ships' pilots to see through fog for a distance of 30 miles.

Mr. Baird said he had already carried out experiments in an airplane at Crystal Palace.

"The set, which can comfortably be carried in the cockpit of a plane, enables the crew of a bomber to see on a ground-glass screen a town from 50 to 100 miles away," he declared. "The invention can be used for reconnaissance work and will be invaluable to scouting parties, enabling them to ascertain the position of troops who are deployed."

Probe Financing Of Pulp Company

MONTREAL, March 7.—(CP)—An investigation into the financing of the $3,000,000 Lake Superior Pulp Company has been launched under the Quebec Securities Act, the Montreal Stock Exchange announced tonight.

The Exchange said the inquiry had reached the stage where a preliminary report could be submitted to "the proper authorities" on the affairs of the company, whose huge pulp development in northern Ontario broke down recently when the concern ran out of capital after spending more than $5,000,000.
