boast such lovely little corners. Due to the extensive proportions of Freebooter's Hall, the quarry in this case was large, and so deep that a small and very sheer white cliff, still bearing saw marks, sketched its ghostly facade a good forty feet above the garden itself.

Clip the Camera Clues

Roger Allenby had taken but a few steps along one of the neatly tended path when a great toad hurriedly hopping away attracted his attention to an indistinct gleam of white. He took but three steps more, then felt the clutch of an invisible hand on his throat. Though in shadow, that whitish outline was taking shape. Holding his breath, he flicked on a strong pocket flash.

CLIP FOR CLUES!

"THE CASTLE ISLAND CASE" presents the first fictional detective triumph for the candid camera. Important clues to the solution of the mysteries concerned in this novel are contained in certain of the text illustrations. It is suggested that the reader clip each of the instalments or, at least, the photographs illustrating the same. A careful study of the pictures should lead to the solution of the story's crime problems even before that astute detective, Major Roger Allenby, cleans up the case.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES

ST. JAMES CHURCH

Rev. Dr. R. Moorhead Legate at the morning service of St. James Presbyterian Church yesterday preached an eloquent sermon from Philippians 4 and 8. It was part of a letter written by St. Paul to the Philippians, the first European Church for which he had great love and admiration. Paul in this case was giving advice regarding the course to be followed in living the Christian life. He said that Christ's teaching was tersely summed up in the contents of this remarkable verse.

At the evening service Dr. Legate took his text from First Corinthians 9 and 24. Paul, said the Minister, was not of athletic build, but was greatly interested in athletics and in this particular instance was comparing the training of an athlete in the development of his physical character with that of the individual developing his spiritual character in the living of the Christian religion. In the case of the athlete it was to win the laurel wreath of victory which, however, would soon wither and fade, whereas victory in living the Christian religion would ensure for us the crown of life—life eternal.

Soloist at the morning service was Prof. Albert W. Trueman of Mount Allison who rendered the selection "Service", (Rowley). In the evening the choir, under the acting director Mrs. H. S. Henderson in absence of Mrs. J. A. Lawson, rendered the anthem "Abide With Me" (Thompson).

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

The Rev. Harvey L. Denton, B Th., B.D., took as the theme of his morning sermon "Jesus and our street." Discussing judgment, Jesus said, as chronicled in St. Luke 13:26, "Then shall ye begin to say, we have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets."

Not acquaintance with Jesus, not the fact that he taught near by them would avail in judgment. Not the hearing of the word but the living, motivating echo of his word in our hearts. And today near two thousand years later it is still true that "thou hast taught in our streets." And if Jesus has taught in our streets, what ought the effect to be? Are the homes on our street more gracious, more kind more comfortable, more truly expressive of a just society that hearkens to the teaching of Jesus?

If Jesus has taught in our streets what should be the moral tone of the homes, the conversation, the listening, the reading, the attitude that Jesus has taught? And what of the places of evil repute on our street, the place in which the Lord Christ has taught? He teaches in our streets, and in his teachings he offers an opportunity and a challenge.

Miss Pearl Burns sang very expressively "He That Dwelleth" (MacDermid). The anthem of the morning was Himmel's "Incline Thine Ear". Mr. J. E. Sterns gave outstanding interpretation of the solo.

The evening service opened at 6.45 with a period of congregational singing. The sermon for the evening was a very able message on "Becoming." Woodward's "The Radiant Morn" was the evening anthem. Prof. A. W. Trueman of Mount Allison was the guest soloist at the evening service. His magnificent baritone was heard in "In Heavenly Love Abiding" (old Finnish melody).

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

The final sermon in the series, "Arresting Questions Asked of Jesus", was delivered at the morning worship at Trinity by Rev. Hugh Miller, from the text, "Why could not we cast him out?"

Jesus came down from the mount of transfiguration to meet the sorrow of the world and also to meet failure through unbelief. Without faith, religion is impotent. One of the charges against organized religion of the present is its lack of power to accomplish what God intends it to accomplish. Its failure is due to our lack of faith in God and the resources He places at our command. Faith is the conquering principle in all walks of life, especially in the unseen and the spiritual. Faith can be recovered only by reconsecration.

The subject of the evening sermon was "The Church". Mr. Miller traced the founding of the church, the claims and practices of the Apostolic Church, its history

ENJOYABLE RECITAL AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

One of the most interesting and enjoyable recitals in this city was given in St. Paul's Church, Saturday afternoon, the artists being Mr. Harold S. Hamer, F.R.C.O., organist, and Mr. Albert Trueman, baritone. A large audience was present and was most enthusiastic about Mr. Hamer's performance on the splendid Casavant organ, and equally enthusiastic about Mr. Trueman's excellent rendition of his several songs. Mr. Hamer, who is the head of the Mt. Allison Conservatory of Music, has visited here on many previous occasions, but this is the first opportunity the music lovers of Charlottetown have been privileged to hear him on the organ. Mr. Hamer fully proved he

20% MILDER than many so-called "beauty soaps"

SCIENTIFIC "patch" tests on the skins of hundreds of women prove it! Lifebuoy is milder, gentler. No wonder millions say, "It agrees with my skin."
