12,000 MEN AT TERCENTENARY

Contingents Will Be Taken From A Sections—Those From Country Districts Will Not Have to Do Any Drill.

OTTAWA, June 15.—Twelve thousand troops will go to Quebec to take part in the tercentenary celebration in July. Sir Frederick Borden, minister of militia, gave the house some information on the subject today when the item for $1,000,000 for militia camps was considered and passed.

The Queens Own and 48 Highlanders of Toronto will go full strength, but the minister was not able to say as to the other Toronto regiments. However, all Canadian regiments will be represented, either in full strength or in composite companies.

The 12,000 troops will be composed of the following: 200 men in composite regiment from the west. 60 R. U. C. cadets; 800 to 1,000 horses, cavalry and horse artillery; 4,400 from permanent corps, about half their strength; 10,000 men of active militia. He said 30,000 rural militia will drill in camps and 15,000 urban militia will drill in cities.

Will Count as Drill. The Quebec celebration will be counted as drill for rural corps, but not for city regiments.

The 12,000 troops to take part in the tercentenary festivities will include one composite company from each of all the cavalry troops in rural districts and a portion of artillery.

ANCIENT SHIP ON ARCTIC HILLS

SEATTLE, Wash., June 15.—Practical confirmation of a weird story growing out of the earlier days of the Klondike gold stampede, of the finding of the hull of a ship high upon the hills within the Arctic circle, is furnished by N. Brown, a well known miner, just arrived at Dawson.

Brown located the strange craft, which, he says, is still in a fair state of preservation, on a hillside overlooking a chain of lakes from 40 to 50 miles from the river of the Chanderlar River and possibly 200 miles from the Arctic circle.

Brown says the big structure has crude doors and windows in the upper works similar to those of a ship, and bears letters or hieroglyphs that baffled translation by those who have seen it, Russians and natives alike.

partment was satisfied with the ability of railways to handle such a large body. He thought the evidence rather disappointing and that the capacity and efficiency of the transportation-companies were not what they should be. From a national point of view, it would be worth while finding out the ability of the railways to mobilize a large body of troops.

Sir Frederick said this feature had not escaped the attention of the department, but it was necessary to mobilize a very considerable force at Quebec under the stress of war, there would not be much difficulty, but to undertake to move a large body of men and horses, while 100,000 visitors are also to be taken to Quebec, was an entirely different thing. If it became necessary, the department could take charge of all railways. Each rural battalion would be represented, or offered the chance, and it would be left to General Otter to decide how the selection would be made.

Colonel Sam Hughes gave first place to rural militia. At the reception to the Prince of Wales they made the best showing and they should not be discriminated against.

Sir Frederick reminded Colonel Hughes that the department was restricted by the battlefield's commission to 12,000.

"Is the commission superior to parliament?" asked Colonel Hughes. "It was created by parliament."

"I know, but we can't arrange transportation," replied the minister. "This would be the largest military review that has ever taken place in Canada."

The minister went on to say that the representative character must be looked after. It was proposed to take representatives from every part of Canada, and from every corps. Cavalry and artillery would be taken from points nearest Quebec.
