Come Here for Christmas Gifts

Here you will find sensible suggestions for gifts for all members of the family—a gift for any woman, man, girl or boy.

A good safe selection for a gift for anyone would be gloves—good gloves. A nice array here in wool, dressed and undressed kid with lining of fur, wool or silk. Driving gloves, working gloves, knitted gloves and mitts. The better grades are put up in neat boxes for gift giving.

THANK YOU!
From HOLMAN'S

To our customers from Charlottetown, as well as those from East and West who so magnificently contributed to the success of "EASTERN DAY" at Holman's, we extend our sincerest thanks.

We did our utmost to make the inducements worth while, and the immense crowds that flocked to the store where ample proof that the people appreciated the attractions we offered.

We feel deeply grateful to the people of the Province, and can assure one and all that we shall always endeavor to merit the confidence the public place in our announcements.

500,000 Troops In The Spring

PARIS.—December 9.—An allied army of 500,000 or more will easily be available for operations in the Balkans in the spring, according to General De Lacroix, military critic of the Temps, in a review in that newspaper of the military situation in the Balkans.

There are 150,000 troops of the allies at Saloniki, and 100,000 British at the Dardanelles could be transferred thence, says General De La Croix, who adds that unless the British army evacuates the Gallipoli Peninsula, the chances are "99 out of 100" that within two or three months they would be thrown into the sea.

Looking into the future, the military writer says that to these 250,000 can be added a re-organized Serbian army of 200,000 and possibly 50,000 Italians, for a spring campaign, besides such other forces as may be sent from the west in the meantime.

Imperial Parliament To Be Extended

LONDON, December 9.—A bill to continue the present parliament beyond the five years period and postpone a general election during the war, was introduced in the House of Commons today by Sir John Simon, secretary of state for home affairs. The bill makes the life of the present parliament six instead of five years, and treats the year 1916 for the purpose of the active parliament as if it followed immediately on 1915.

This legal action providing that the sessions of 1914 and 1916 shall be regarded as successive sessions, keeps alive the plural voting bill, which was the subject of a bill introduced by the House of Commons in successive sessions, shall become a law despite the opposition of the House of Lords. The bill already has passed the House of Commons.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

On the night of the 10th inst., Mr. W. J. Kennedy was waited upon by the Massey Harris Staff, in their office, Charlottetown and presented with the following address and presentation:—
William J. Kennedy, Esq., Charlottetown.

Dear Friend:—
On the eve of your departure for another field of labor, we desire to take this opportunity of presenting our good wishes and felicitations. As co-workers of yours in connection with the Massey Harris Co., we have always found you courteous and obliging in all our associations with you. During your stay amongst us for upwards of two years, we have found you a most charming companion and fellow employee and a most upright citizen. In the position you occupied here, the kindness which you have displayed towards those under your charge, will always
