

JUST A GIRL

BY JANE PHELPS

AUNT SUSAN'S LOVE LETTERS

Chapter 140.

For the next few days I was in a peculiar state of mind. I blew hot and I blew cold. One moment I was so sure I loved and wanted to marry Kenneth Lawrence, that had it not been for my promise I would have wired him to come for me; the next I was just as sure that I never would marry him, and it was hard to restrain the impulse to write and tell him so.

I said nothing of all this to Mother, although I knew from her manner that she understood I was troubled. But we wanted Aunt Susan to have a really pleasant visit, and so tactfully agreed to keep our troubles to ourselves while she was there.

We thoroughly enjoyed the opera—Thais. Mary Garden looked and sang beautifully. I was so engrossed in the opera that I had not heard Frank Claxton come in just before the close until Mother spoke to me.

"Mr. Claxton is going to drive us home, she said. Then he spoke to me.

"It is very hard to get a taxi after the opera, so I took the liberty of coming for you. You are not displeased?" The last very low.

"No—it was very kind."

"Thank you, but it is the first time you have seen me in evening dress—perhaps?"

"Don't try to make me take it back, for I shan't! You are very lovely."

He sat in the back of the box until the opera was over, then assisted us with our wraps. Mother really had done wonders for me in an old party dress of silver net had been transformed by her clever fingers into a really fashionable evening gown. She looked stately and every inch the grand dame, while Aunt Susan was comfortable in her best black silk remodeled for her visit to us.

We talked of the opera, of Mary Garden, on our way home, each of us giving Mr. Claxton our individual idea of the singer, as well as the opera.

"It beats all how those singers and actresses keep looking so young," Aunt Susan remarked. "I read Garden's age in the paper, but if she is as old as they said I don't see how she skips around the stage the way she does." We all laughed at Aunt, and then I said:

"It seems to me she floats like a bit of thistle down. She is entrancing."

We reached home at 11:00 soon, but it was late, and we soon separated for the night. But I couldn't sleep. The opera, Mary Garden, Frank Claxton's compliments, all ran through my mind until almost morning, although I did everything I ever had heard of to induce sleep. I repeated the alphabet backwards and forwards. I counted sheep jumping over a wall—all the foolish things we do when we cannot sleep.

In the morning I had a long letter from Kenneth. It was a very nice letter, but nothing in it that I couldn't show Mother and Aunt Susan. So after I had finished it,

I passed it over to them, while I hurried into my street things.

"Can't be much of a love letter for she wouldn't let us see it," I heard Aunt Susan say.

"He is a very sensible young man," Mother replied.

"That may all be, but when I was a girl I used to treasure my letters from Sam—my husband—put them under my pillow nights, wear them in the bosom of my dress in the daytime. The other girls I knew were just as silly."

"Girls—especially girls who are out in the world as Zeus is—are not to be very sentimental," Mother said with a sigh. She very seldom spoke of me as working. I was "out in the world." I knew the sigh was because of what she felt to be my lost girlhood, the life of hardship I had led. For herself she was resigned, but she never ceased longing for the old times for my sake.

"I guess most mothers are like that."

Tomorrow—Mrs. Stewart's Attitude Toward Work.

Miller's Worm Powders work so effectively that no traces of worms can be found. The pests are macerated in the stomach and being perceptible. They make an emetic and clean sweep of the intestines, and nothing in the shape of worms can find lodgement there when these powders are in operation. Nothing could be more thorough and desirable than their action.

HOW DO WOMEN SUFFER

WHEN THERE IS SUCH A REMEDY FOR THEIR ILLS AS LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND?

Mishawaka, Ind.—"I had such a severe female weakness that I could not do my work and I could not get anything to relieve me. A physician treated me, but it did no good. I had been in this condition for three months when I began taking ham's Vegetable Compound. I certainly praise your medicine. Mrs. M. (tablet form) and it cured me. I keep house and am in Street, Mishawaka, Ind.

Women who suffer from such ailments should not continue to drag around and do their work under such conditions, but profit by the experience of Mrs. Oldfather and thousands of others who have tried this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and found relief from such suffering. If complications exist write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their 40 years' experience in advising women on this subject is at your service.

Grandma Used Sage Tea to Darken Hair

SHE MIXED SULPHUR WITH IT TO RESTORE COLOR, GLOSS YOUTHFULNESS

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur resins at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it goes it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

Commencing Monday, September 27th, we will take delivery of live hogs at the following points. Farmers having hogs to offer will do well to see our representatives at their respective stations.
