A. McKim & Co., Newspaper advertising agents of Montreal have published a revised list of Canadian Newspapers, as a supplement to their Canadian Newspaper Directory, which appears annually. Although the last issue of the latter was published only a year ago, so many changes have taken place in the circulation, ownership etc. of papers all over the Dominion, that this supplement became necessary. This revised list is supposed to contain the particulars concerning every newspaper published in Canada and as it is published by a firm thoroughly reliable in every respect, the work should find a place on the desk of every advertiser. Half-tone illustrations show A. McKim & Co's offices in Montreal, with their large staff at work. The booklet is tastefully printed, and reflects considerable credit on the enterprise of its publishers. It will be mailed anywhere on receipt of 25 cents.

The body of the unfortunate young woman who was drowned Thursday evening in the Charles river at Riverside was positively identified Friday afternoon as that of Miss Lizzie Cahill, of Wellesley Hills, says the Boston Herald. That the body was identified beyond question was due to Chief F. A. Tarbox and Inspector F. C. Fletcher of the Newton Police, who were at work on the case all day yesterday. Early in the afternoon several girl friends of the deceased viewed the body at Cate's undertaking rooms and stated that it was that of Miss Cahill. Some doubt, however, was thrown on their identification by several other persons who saw the body. Late in the afternoon the police learned that a Miss Cahill, who had formerly worked at Aburndale, had secured a place through a friend of hers as a domestic at the boarding house of Mrs. O. S. Valentine, of Washington street, Wellesley Hills. Chief Tarbox at once drove to Wellesley and requested Mrs. Valentine to return to Newton, which she did. On seeing the body she at once recognized it as that of Miss Cahill, of Charlottetown, P. E. Island. The young woman had been in her employment about three weeks. Thursday she left the house, stating that she was going to attend the firemen's muster at Waltham, and that was the last they had seen of her. When she did not return home that evening Mrs. Valentine did not think anything particular about the matter, supposing that Miss Cahill had stopped with friends in Waltham over night. It was not until they had seen the account of the drowning accident in the Herald that they became worried about her.

Undesirable Immigrants.

Commenting on a recent telegram from its Ottawa correspondent that "Canada wants more destitute immigrants" the London Times of Aug. 6th says: "In the Official Gazette of the Dominion appears a proclamation meriting the attention of well-meaning persons who see in the colonies a permanent dumping ground for paupers and wastrels. No destitute immigrants will be permitted to land in any port of Canada unless the captain of the vessel conveying them places in the hands of the Dominion Immigration Authorities a sufficient sum for their temporary maintenance, and for enabling them to reach their destination. Probably this is only the preface to still stricter measures. Canadians will have no more of a commodity with which some philanthropists would flood them, they have acquired the power to exclude it, and they are resolved to do so. It is well known that most of our colonists likely to be affected by the immigration of Orientals have adopted stringent measures to shut them out, the reason for such legislation being that it is undesirable to permit a sudden influx of a population alien in manners, morals and religion to that of the body of the people, with the consequent deterioration, it might be, of the standard of comfort, and the normal rate of wages in the long run, and deterioration of the breed. As long ago as 1853 Victoria began to set its face against the free introduction of 'unwelcome' immigrants, and especially since the conference on the subject, in Sydney in 1883, legislation has grown in stringency. "It is pretty plain," continues the Times, "that we are nearing a time when the admission of these classes into our colonies will be practically impossible. The two men who were released after serving their time for their share in the Phoenix Park murder were much surprised the other day that they were refused permission to land at New York. Some philanthropists may be surprised at the action of the Canadian Government in excluding paupers. We must be prepared for more drastic measures with the same object in view. Here there is grumbling at the landing of Polish or Russian Jews, who, it is said, bring down the wages or remuneration in certain trades in the East-end. In more than one of our colonies opinion has advanced far beyond the demands with which we are familiar. There is a growing feeling that permission to enter and settle in a country ought to be guarded even more carefully than naturalization, that every immigrant ought to bring a clean bill, morally and physically, and that he has no right to throw the burden of his infirmities on another community than that in which he was born. Sometimes jealousy of the working classes against possible competitors has inspired the legislation, but it rests on a rational basis. Ten to one the man who has been unable to keep himself in England will be equally incapable in Canada. He is found out wherever he goes."

UNUSED TO THE CLIMATE.

A Frenchman Finds Canadian Weather Had a Bad Effect on His Health.
ST. EUSTACHE, Que., August 20.—August Dubois landed here from France, a perfect stranger to the weather conditions prevailing in this country. The food also so differed from that to which he had been accustomed, and his heart being weak, the change had a serious effect upon it. He went to a medical man who did him no good. He went to others with a similar result in each case. "I had to go to Montreal," he says "to work for the Grand Trunk, and in that city met a man who was suffering the same thing as myself, but had started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. He told me they were doing him good. He was kind enough to give me a few of them. I took them. I felt myself much better. I procured a box and in fifteen days felt like a different man."
