

Until you have heard Amberol Records you have not heard the Edison Phonograph at its best

Amberol Records open an entirely new field of music for Edison Phonograph owners. They offer music which by reason of its length cannot be secured on any other record. They offer not only a wider range of music, but a higher grade and a better rendition than has before been possible.

The tone of Amberol Records is matchless. They have a clearer, richer tone and more delicate interpretation than that of any other Edison Records, which means that they are superior to all other records.

There are Edison dealers everywhere. Go to the nearest and hear the Edison Phonograph play both Edison Standard and Edison Amberol Records. Get complete catalogs from your dealer or from us.

ELIJAH'S VOCTORY OVER THE PROPHETS OF BAAL.

1 Kings 18: 21-39.

GOLDEN TEXT.

"Choose ye this day whom ye will serve."—Josh. 24: 15.

POINTED SUGGESTIONS.

By Rev. D. W. Snider.

Things have gone in Israel very much as Jezebel and her vacillating consort could wish. Save for Obadiah, all the priests of Jehovah had been slain. He had protected the lives of a few and they were hidden. The worship of Baal was thought to be universal. Only God knew what remnant of followers He had. The turning point always rests with the knowledge of God. He must never be left out of the reckoning.

And Elijah was His prophet. Ahab thought everything would be all right if it were not for Elijah. The preacher often gets in the road of the full enjoyment of the king. Councils and legislatures and cabinets are often bothered by the existence of the preacher. Perhaps they ought to be more frequently troubled and feel the trouble greater.

Ahab, who under the influence of his wife, had led Israel from an idolatrous worship of Jehovah to a worship which was altogether idolatrous and to the abandonment of Jehovah—Ahab met Elijah—no, much as he professed to want to find him, it was the other way about, Elijah met Ahab. He gave the king a chance. He kept his word with Obadiah. Elijah-like preachers always do.

They had a wordy tilt. But words do not often settle things without an appeal to facts. Preachers who assail governments want to know what resources there are in the facts they have at hand. Upon the surface Elijah had not much to back him, but surface judgments will only do for a manhood which is cheapened and made unworthy by indecision. It goes with the crowd.

Now look upon the grandest picture in moral sublimity that the history of the world has ever furnished for the canvas of the painter or the soul-stirring lines of the poet, or the exalted theme of the preacher. The time, the place, the persons, the scene, the appeal, the prayers, the taunt, the desperation, the deliberation, the calm mastery, the victory, the verdict, the tragedy! What scene can parallel the challenge of Elijah to the priests of Baal on Mount Carmel?

What now for the nine hundred arrogant priests, gorged with royal strong drink? Behold, the stern and rugged and rude-robed prophet WITH God is in the majority! And the crowd swings back with him, of course.

ALBERT SOAPS, LIMITED, MANUFACTURERS, MONTREAL.

Notice the nature of Elijah's prayer. Compare it with the vain repetitions and clamorous calls and ghastric gesticulations of the priests, the like of which is not altogether unknown in the pagan world today. Remember that Elijah's God is ours, and equal to a crisis just as great as that which was met overlooking the sinuous coast of the Mediterranean at Carmel.

Perhaps it is time to put God to the test again before an unbelieving world. Are not Baal-like evils sufficiently in evidence? Is not the worship of mammon thronged by the multitudes while the altars of Jehovah are forsaken?

Surely the lesson of Carmel ought to be ample for all time. "How long halt ye between two opinions?" "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve."

Can the world satisfy conscience? Can it comfort the pillow of the dying? Can it promise or provide eternal life?

Remember, other things are not lame, hesitating, undecided, if you are. Time does not limp. Death does not hesitate. Judgment does not halt.

THE GOOD HOMELY FOLK LIKE ADAM

occasion for the exercise of tyranny. A good master makes good servants; a good master is a good servant himself. There are factories and estates from which it would be difficult to drive the employees. When the slaves were freed in the South thousands remained faithful to the old masters who had tenderly watched over them. Many men live as though they had no duties. They dream of gigantic tasks to be performed while they neglect the work that lies at hand. It would be well for such men to take to heart the words: "To do my duty in that estate of life unto which it shall please God to call me." There is no position in life so humble that the voice of duty cannot reach, none so lofty that should not heed it.

When a king rules as though the eye of the Divine were upon him his people cannot but be happy. The hedger and ditcher should likewise have an ideal before him in his work. What was it made the sculptors of ancient Greece so great? A sense of duty towards their gods and their art. Perfection was their aim and every line and curve was chiseled with the feeling that the eye of an Apollo or an Athene was on them. What made the art of Michel Angelo and Raphael so enduring? Their overwhelming sense of duty to God and man. They worked not for meed but from a stern sense of the greatness of their mission.

Shakespeare, Milton, Bunyan, Browne, Emerson, all achieved greatness by seeing their duty and promptly doing it. The time-servers in literature and art have had but an ephemeral existence.

The voice of duty is "the pole-star of a wandering humanity." It solves the most difficult problems of life. The only truly independent and free man is the one who heeds it. Friends, property, life itself, often tyrannize over the soul. At duty's voice a man can sacrifice all earthly possessions, and like the martyrs of old rejoice in the act. Modern society, with its freedom, has been erected on the graves of men and women who have heeded the voice of duty, often to their temporal loss, always to their eternal glory.

My patented pressure valve is giving perfect satisfaction to every user. It is easier installed gives better results and is more economical than any other system.
Read what Mr. Prowse says:—
Answering your inquiry regarding the performance of the Hot Water pressure system lately installed by you in the Arena Rink, may say that it is giving every satisfaction, replacing five valves, and as nearly as we can calculate using no more coal than was used by two of them, besides giving us very much less trouble and much less risk of firing the building.
