—The mere fact that moths cannot read is no reason why they should detest newspapers, but they do nevertheless. It isn't exactly the newspaper or its editorial policy that moths dislike. It's the ink used in printing the type that makes the moths stay away. That is why, in the absence of mothproof bags and cedar chests, some housewives pack their furs and woollens away wrapped in newspapers at the end of the winter season and find that is a satisfactory way of preserving them against the ravages of moths. There is nothing better than old newspapers for use under the carpets for the same reason.

Old newspapers have many other uses as well. Wet in water they serve to clean out the stove splendidly. Crushed newspapers are excellent to clean lamp chimneys. They can even be used for an iron holder for an emergency.

Newspapers dipped in lamp oil are useful for cleaning windows. Irons not much soiled can be rubbed on old newspapers and thus made fit for use. Dipped in lamp oil they are splendid to rub the outside of the dishpan. They keep it bright and shining. Torn in shreds, slightly dampened and scattered over the carpet, they keep down dust when sweeping. They clean the sink of its grease and sediment. Nothing is better for the greasy paper can be at once burned after use.

Many times folded newspapers will serve as a mat to stand hot and darkened pots or kettles on and save scolding the kitchen table. The kitchen stove is kept bright after the cooking of each meal with old papers, and this saves many polishings.

MODEL BOY.

"I never think of what the Bible is to a man," says Rev. Sam Jones, "but what I think of a little boy. He was the good boy of the town, and all of the boys recognized him as a good, upright youth, and set their trap to get him drunk. They sent the shrewdest of the bad boys to him, and he met him on the street and said, 'Johnny, come into the saloon and have a mint julep.' Johnny said, 'O, no, I can't go in there.' 'Well why?' 'Well, my book says, 'look not upon the wine, when it is red, much less drink it.'"

The bad boy said: "I know the book says that, but come in and take one drink."

He replied: "I cannot do that."

"Why?"

"Because my book says, 'At last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder.'"

"Yes, I know the Bible says that, but come in and take one drink."

"No," he said, "My Bible says, 'when sinners entice thee, consent thou not.'"

The bad boy turned off and left him, and went over to his companions and they said: "Did you see him?"

"Yes."

"Did you get him to drink?"

"No, I could not get him into the saloon."

"Because," replied the bad boy, "that fellow was just as chuck full of the Bible as he could be, and I could not do anything with him."
