ST. DUNSTAN'S TO REOPEN JANUARY 9

New Science Building Ready For Use Next Week, Is Announcement.

Classes at St. Dunstan's University resume after the holidays on Tuesday, January 9, the Right Rev. J. A. Murphy, D. D., rector of the institution announced last night. In addition to students from this province others were in attendance from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and from Maine and Massachusetts in the United States. Total attendance this year was 125, the rector said. The number was reduced by thirty students or prospective students who joined the Canadian Active Service Force following the outbreak of war, the university head announced.

Students when they return from their Christmas and New Year's holidays will find the new science building ready for use. It was learned. The new building, housing up-to-date laboratory facilities, will make a valuable addition to the plant. Construction of the brick and tile structure was started just before commencement last summer.

On January 29 the regular corps of students at the university will be swelled by at least 30 fishermen who will take a four-weeks short course designed to teach them modern last-minute methods in their industry. Round fresh fish will be brought here from Halifax and the men will split, bone and pickle them under the eye of expert instructors. Because of the ice locked state of island fishing grounds importation of fish for instructional purposes is necessary.

In addition to the short course, which covers the scope of the Dominion-Provincial youth training scheme, the university maintains four fieldmen working among fishermen in the province. The men organize study clubs and work for the promotion of the cooperative movement in fishing centres. Fieldmen include, the Rev. George McCormack, J. C. Etacouere, Rustico, W. F. Rose, Mr. Stewart and Charles Richards, Murray Harbor.

CANUCKS GET LAUGH FROM PRESS COMMENT

Some British Writers Have Odd Ideas Of Canadian Division.
By Gillis Purcell
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ALDRERSHOT, England, Jan. 5.—(CP Cable)—Canadian troops in their first division billets were chucking tonight at a batch of clippings from United Kingdom newspapers just received from Canada House in London.

Some of the clippings indicated a few news writers possibly were a bit surprised that the Canadian Active Service Force arrived with modern rifles and not the latest model of bow and arrow.

Witness the Sheffield Telegraph which published this description of the embarkation of the Canadians: "Eagle-nosed red Indians paddled down the gangway in mocassins. They are admirable snipers."

In this particular instance six Nova Scotia Mimams did pound down the gangplank but they were wearing service boots and carrying regular kit, looking no more like they were red skinned than any hardy, weather-beaten Canuck from Lunenburg, N. S., or Gimli, Man.

The Glasgow Evening News got somewhat lyrical in passing alliterative style and popped up with a new word for the Canadians, among whom there are probably one tenth of one per cent Indians; and they are all fine soldiers at that. The News coined the term: "Magnot Mohicans."

In view of the flights of British imagination, it is not surprising that Germany's "Lord Haw Hai" the most famed of propaganda broadcasters, should pop up with the following: "Redskins in the Canadian contingent—England says her only task is to defend European coast. She has enlisted Red Indians in this defence."

"It is well known that London is not very discerning when choosing cannon fodder. Redskins are said to have been among the Canadian contingent."

Naval Captain's Comment
The impression of such newspaper comments on some Britishers was reflected in the following comment by a naval Captain to a fellow navy officer, overheard as the Canadians filed from a ship on the dock: "Unmistakable Red Indian characteristics in many of those individuals, don't you think?"

Generally such cases have been greeted with hearty Canadian laughter but the deapest laugh was produced by the following telegram sent to the Buckingham Mail: "At the suggestion of the Canadian Government, a special Canadian fighter squadron has been formed in Britain for the defence of Britain from Canadians serving in the Royal Air Force."

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5.—Charles A. Fisher, 65, banker and former president of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, died today. He left the steel company in 1928 and became president of the Pitt National Bank in 1933.

Sea View And Vicinity

Miss Vera Brander has returned home after attending the winter course on domestic science in Charlottetown.

Mr. and Mrs. Celais Gallant, Summerside, spent the week-end with friends in Sea View.

A most pleasant evening was spent previous to the school closing when the pupils gave a most interesting Christmas entertainment in the hall which was artistically decorated with Christmas decorations and evergreens. On the platform was a beautiful Christmas tree laden with all kinds of presents.

Mr. Arthur Stewart capably presided and a splendid program was carried out of recitations, readings and choruses by the different pupils in a masterly and graceful way. The program was spoken of well training by their teacher, Mr. James W. Murphy. At the close of the program Santa Claus put in an appearance to the great excitement and after making his way to the platform amid great applause distributed the gifts to all the pupils along with a generous treat of candy and fruit. Each child in the hall was remembered by Santa. There was also a sale when all had gathered in the hall and the singing of the National Anthem brought this pleasant gathering to a close.

One of the most interesting pauses for Canadians on leave today was inspecting the balloon barrage. A couple of score of the troops got a close-up view of a silvery bag, of which dozens are shot to the sky immediately an air raid siren sounds.

Japs Feel Pinch Of War In China

Associated Press Staff Writer
Tokyo, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The Japanese government is confident that it is achieving its aim in China, but many Japanese are wondering whether it is worthwhile.

Japan has conquered more than a third of China's population and area, including her richest provinces and most modern industrial centres, and Japanese leaders are confident of ultimate complete victory. The plan to establish "a new order in East Asia."

The Japanese people, however, find their lot a hardship for the present and look into the future with some foreboding.

Ordinarily stolid and uncomplaining, the people will tell, off the record, of their sacrifices for the success of the army has won in China. There is hardly a neighborhood, a factory or an office which has not contributed its dead to the battlefields. There is hardly an individual who has not felt the financial load. Today in Japan a 15 per cent tax makes a 20-cent cup of coffee cost 23 cents. If the bill in a restaurant reaches three yen, the customer pays more than four yen, including taxes.

Shortages are such that some products cannot be bought for any price. The gasoline ration for a taxi is two gallons a day. Stocks of medical supplies, aspirin and insulin particularly, are down. Fuel is low. Railway cars are not heated this winter. Office buildings had no heat until after Dec. 1 and then went on a ration that was half their consumption last year. Gas inspectors recently visited every home in Tokyo, sealing one burner on each kitchen range. Cotton, wool, leather, metals and canned goods almost have disappeared from the market. There is a cigarette famine about every two months.

Any lifting of the burden in the eyes of both the people and their leaders, depends on an early end to the war in China. They hope to establish Wang Ching-wei, former premier and Nationalist leader, as the head of a Japanese-sponsored government in the occupied areas of China and then to make peace with his regime. After months of discussion, however, Wang's government still is only a plan.

Cooperative Fur Selling Announced

WINNIPEG, Jan. 4.—Formation of a co-operative fur-selling agency for Western Canada under the Dominion Agricultural Products Cooperative Marketing Act was announced today following conferences here between J. D. J. Forbes, fur adviser to the Canadian Government in London, and fur producers and processors.

To Strengthen Industry
Chief aims of the fur-selling agency will be the strengthening of the fur-farming industry during wartime and the introduction of a system of government supervision of grading of ranch-bred silver fox and mink pelts.

Mr. Forbes explained the Dominion Government would guarantee producers who used the agency an initial payment of 5 per cent of a schedule of prices agreed to by the agency. It is hoped the co-operative move will protect producers by holding pelts for longer periods in event of a poor market.

The basic idea is to get fur-ranchers into the habit of having their pelts graded and appraised by them to see the necessity for "grading upwards," he said. "Participatory" the agency is entirely voluntary.

attended the auction sale which was held at the home residence of Mrs. Arthur Craig, Malpeque. Although the day was rainy there was a large crowd present. Mr. Hugh Morrison acted as auctioneer and quickly disposed of all the articles offered for sale. A good sum was realized.

The Junior W. A. held their Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. Amos Adams on Saturday evening, Dec. 23rd. There was a large attendance of members. In the absence of the president the good attendance of members. In the absence of the president, Mr. James Murphy to read an address which was well suited to the occasion after which Mr. Waldon Duggan presented the guest of honor, Mr. Arthur Craig, Malpeque, on behalf of all present. Mr. Hunter graciously thanked the kind friends for their thoughtfulness and their expression of good will at this time, all joined heartily in singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." The remainder of the evening was spent in playing crokinole and other games after which a delicious lunch was served by the ladies and a most pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford MacLaren spent the holidays in Elm-dale the guest of Mr. and Mrs. MacArthur.

Mrs. Doris Bernard, Baltic, spent a few days pleasantly with friends in Sea View.

Mrs. William McLeod has returned to her home in Spring Valley after spending some time in Sea View the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Keir McKay.

A most pleasant evening was spent in Sea View Hall on Monday evening, sponsored by the members of the Sea View W. I. The evening was spent in progressive auction. Prizes were awarded to those who made the highest score. Fred Donald and Ivan Duggan won the prize while Mrs. Lorne Campbell and Doris Blakney received the ladies prize. Lunch was served by the ladies and a nice time of social intercourse followed. A splendid sum was realized to be used for patriotic purposes.

Mrs. John Pickering entertained members of the Institute members of Tuesday afternoon while they were all busy engaged in sewing for the Red Cross. The gathering was not as large as it would have been had the weather been favourable. A nice tea was served by the hostess. The work will be distributed among the ladies of the community to be finished.

Attention Farmers Near Charlottetown

POTATOES. We are very much pleased to report a sharp advance in the price of Table Stock Potatoes. On account of Seed being absolutely at a standstill we cannot recommend that this advance is permanent. To growers who are living on farms near Charlottetown bordering on the improved roads where the plows are travelling arrangements can be made where our trucks can call on days that the temperature permits and haul in your potatoes.

My guess is that Cobler Seed will not move until around the tenth of February to any extent. There might be a small demand for a little bit of Mountain Seed and we wish to notify our friends and customers that we are interested in purchasing at prevailing market price their offerings during the Winter.

TURNIPS. Remember the old song "Yes We Have Some Bananas" Well we have regular orders for turnips. We can arrange to truck same, similar to the potatoes or we are interested in buying cars East of Charlottetown or on the Murray Harbor Branch in bulk.

Remember that we buy turnips daily, and if it is possible, to reach you by truck kindly contact with the office.

I take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation to the many growers near Charlottetown who have made it possible for me to establish a very nice Produce Business. I hope that our transactions have been pleasant and profitable and that same will prevail over a period of many years to come.

I am, Respectfully yours, FRANK B. CLARKE
