MAY SEYMOUR FOOT LOOSE
by BEATRICE BURTON CNEA.

THE STORY SO FAR:
MAY SEYMOUR, whose husband killed himself because of her love affair with another man, returns to her home town after a year's absence. She sells her property and with her tiny fortune in cash, sets out to find and marry a man with money.
At Atlantic City she meets HERBERT WATERBURY and DAN SPRAGUE through a divorcee, CARLOTTA FROKING. Both men pay suit to May greatly to the distress of Carlotta who has long been in love with Dan. She and May become great friends, however, and Carlotta asks May to spend the winter with her in her California home.
May finds Dan much more attractive than Waterbury is. She decides that Waterbury is the rich husband she is looking for. So she sets her cap for him. He finally proposes and May accepts him. When he offers to invest her money for her she turns it over to him... and immediately disappears, and the money with him.
May sells her furs and diamonds to buy a railroad ticket to California where Carlotta lives. On the way she stops off in her home town to see her friends, DICK GREGORY and GLORIA, his wife. There she meets a wealthy widower, ULYSSES FORGAN, who falls in love with her at first sight and proposes. But May refuses him for the reason that she likes him too well to marry him without love.
On the train bound for Carlotta's home in Los Altos, she meets Dan Sprague. And while Dan carries on a flirtation with GOLDIE GAY, a movie actress. May enters into conversation with LEMUEL FISHBACK, a motion picture magnate who offers May a small part in a new film.
The next morning May leaves Carlotta's house, and sets out for the "location" in the hills where the picture is being filmed.

THE STORY

"The Rose of Spain" was being filmed in the very shadow of the Santa Cruz mountains, on a tiny hillock a mile out from Los Altos. As May's taxicab jolted along toward the little clump of shacks that had been hurriedly built there, her eyes searched for the Buddha-like figure of Lemuel Fishback. Before the cab had stopped she saw him sitting on a camp-chair, fairly overfrowning from it in all his lax fatness. Beside him, lolling on the ground, with a cigarette in his mouth, was the world's highest-salaried movie actress, Serena Smith, garbed in the romantic costume of old Spain.
May recognized her the minute she saw her... recognized the famous nose, the large light eyes, and the smile that had beamed from dozens of films in the last few years.
She saw the actress glance from Fishback to her and back again to Fishback, as she came near them, over the rough ground.
"How do you do, Mr. Fishback," May said to him cordially, holding out her hand.
But Fishback did not see her hand, apparently. He looked nervously at Serena Smith before he greeted May with a brief "How'dya do?" It was obvious that he was afraid to be too cordial before Serena Smith.
With great difficulty he got to his feet, and wrinkled his brow perplexedly.
"Let's see... you're the girl I want for my duchess," he said, rubbing his fat nose with his fat forefinger. "Aren't you?"
May admitted that she was.
"What do you mean 'for your duchess'?" Serena Smith suddenly asked in a thin, metallic voice.
"Mickey's done all the casting for this picture. He gave Lois Leverich the part of the duchess."
Fishback turned and stared at her for a moment, then put his hands up to his mouth and bellowed "Mickey!"
The figure of a tall, fair man, in khaki appeared almost at once in the doorway of one of the little houses a few yards away. With his eyes on the ground he came slowly toward them, kicking a stone out of his path with great ferocity as he came.
This was Mickey Moran, the famous director, a man with the soul of an artist and the manners of a ward heeler.
"What you want?" he asked surlily of Fishback, and raising bluish eyes. Seen thus, he was extremely good looking. May observed.
Under his fiery gaze, Lemuel Fishback seemed to wither.

THE USE OF CHAINS

There is no doubt that chains facilitate driving on greasy roads. It is necessary however to install them in the correct way in order to obtain the maximum of wear and road service. Chains too, will cause considerable tire damage if put on too tightly, also, a loose chain will strike the fender causing damage to the fender and the likelihood of breaking the chain.
In the first place the chains must be of correct size. Maximum service cannot possibly be obtained if chains for a 3 1/2 inch tire are lengthened and forced on a 4 or 4 1/2 inch tire.
The same applies to a 4 1/2 inch chain being loosely applied on a 3 1/2 inch tire. A 3 1/2 inch chain will fit this size wheel, also a 3 1/2 inch cord tire. Secure chains of the right size.
Jack up the wheel when installing and have the chain setting firmly upon the tire, then hook up the inside clasp but do not draw the chain up tightly, then hook up outside links, and when completed the chain should be fairly tight around the tire.
Do not use chains on dry hard roads as it will wear them out very quickly.

A DOG THAT SINGS

Miss Elizabeth Retberg, prima donna, who has been singing at Covent Garden, London, has inspired even her dog to sing.
He is Rex, a bulldog on his maternal side, and a mystery on the other, and he has a real soul for music and a constant desire to express it vocally.
Rex really does sing. It is not a case of howling. Mrs. Retberg assured a newspaper representative.
He is tremendously fond of music, and at home always sits by the piano when I am practicing.
"When I have finished I say to him 'Now, Rex, give us an aria' and he stands up, fills out his chest and starts singing as earnestly as possible. He has two singing voices, tenor and baritone we call them.
"I suppose he is really trying to imitate me but he does seem to get a lot of fun out of it, and is always willing to give a selection."

"See, Mickey, what you've done!" he said with a pathetic attempt at bravery. "Given the part of the duchess to that Lois Leverich already and see what it brought you... a duchess to the life!"
He took May's arm and swung her around so that Moran could have a closer look at her. She felt his eyes taking her in, point by point; her face, her neck, the long slender lines to her figure. She waited breathlessly for his verdict.
"Oh, I think Lois Leverich will do," he said at last indifferently, turned on the heel of his riding boot, and walked slowly away.
May felt wave after wave of hot color sweep over her face. In a hush that seemed to sear her skin, she felt that she had been taken to a farm sale! That was humiliating enough.
But to be refused! To be turned away!... Oh, it was too much! She felt sick and faint with shame, and her knees seemed to be melting into water. There was a ringing in her ears.
Through the sound of it she heard Fishback's thick voice muttering an apology.
"So he talks to everyone!" he was saying helplessly, his tones shrill with distress. "He has the manners of a pig! But what can I do... such pictures as he makes! There is no one like Mickey Moran! I can't get along without him, can I?"
He appealed to Serena Smith, who had been watching the little drama with bored eyes.
"Oh, bah! There are twenty directors every bit as good as Mickey," she snapped at him. "Last time he made a picture for you, you lost a fortune on it!"
"I know, I know," Fishback said. "But think of 'Sand Dunes'! Three years old, and still going strong!"
May did not wait to hear the end of the argument. She slipped away and started on foot down the dusty road that led to Los Altos.
The way back to Carlotta's bungalow was a long one, but May was grateful for every foot of it. It gave her time to pull herself together, to think up a plausible story to tell Carlotta. To admit to her that she had been "turned down" without even a trial would be too humiliating!
Let's see... she'd have to tell her that Fishback had tried to make love to her, or some such yarn as that. Carlotta would undoubtedly not only believe it, but be thrilled by it.
She found the bungalow locked, and a note from Carlotta fastened to the wire netting of the screen door.
"My dear," it read, "Dan just phoned to ask me to have lunch at the hotel with him. The key to the door is in the mail box, and there's some chicken salad, and food coffee in the mail box for the key. There were several letters in it, and she pulled them out. One of them was addressed to her in handwriting that she knew! At the very sight of it, May's heart gave a queer little lurch, and she dreamily remembered the time when he had called her "May" and told her how much he wanted her.
"I want to tell you how very sorry I was not to see you again before you left town," it went on. "And I can't begin to tell you what a gap your going has left in my life. When a man is as old as I am...
"Why, he's not old!... Not what I call old." May remarked to herself.
She thought of Ulysses' face, the strong, unlined face of a splendid man in his prime.

CROP REPORT

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the Head Office of the Bank of Montreal from its Branches. The Branch Managers have completed and inimate knowledge of each local situation and are in close touch with Crop conditions in all sections of the districts mentioned.

GENERAL

In the Prairie Provinces rapid progress is being made toward a standing crop in scattered districts. In Ontario harvesting of a grain crop above the average is about completed, while in Quebec grain cutting is general. In the Maritime Provinces a week of favorable weather has benefited all crops, and in British Columbia rain has delayed threshing but benefited growing crops. Details follow:—

PRAIRIE PROVINCES

EDMONTON DISTRICT—Cutting 75% completed. Slight frosts central portion, but no damage. Little threshing done yet. CALGARY DISTRICT—Cutting will be finished shortly. Threshing started and should be general this week. LETHBRIDGE DISTRICT—Cutting practically completed. Threshing general. Yields vary greatly, from 5 bushels in the eastern portion to 25 bushels in the western section, grading Number 2 to Number 4 on the average. Sugar beets progressing rapidly and heavy yield anticipated. NORTHERN SASKATCHEWAN—Rain in early part of week delayed harvesting, but weather conditions now favourable and cutting nearly completed. Threshing should be general in week or ten days. Damage from rust in some districts will reduce yields of late generally satisfactory. SOUTHERN SASKATCHEWAN—Wheat practically all cut and threshing commenced and will be general next week. Considerable loss has been sustained from rust. No damage from frost. MANITOBA DISTRICT—Cutting is almost finished and with continuation of fine weather threshing will be general in few days. Indications are that the yield will exceed the ten year average, with sample fairly good although late crops will be more affected both as to yield and grade by rust. Coarse grains vary greatly.

The Operation I Avoided—

MRS. IDA M. COFFMAN
SIBLIL, ILL.
If there is one thing more than another a woman dreads, it is a surgical operation, and to be told that one is necessary is very disheartening. Hospitals are grand institutions, and undoubtedly many operations are necessary. However, we have received hundreds of letters from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after an operation had been deemed advisable. Every woman who suffers as Mrs. Coffman did naturally wishes to avoid an operation if possible, and the remarkable statements which she makes in her letter will be read with interest by women everywhere.

Mrs. Coffman's Letter Follows:
Sibill, Illinois.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side which was noticeable at all times, but sometimes it was almost unbearable and I could not even lie in bed. I had been sick for seven years, but not even till the last eight months, and had become so run-down that I could do nothing but take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house and when my two little girls reach womanhood I shall advise them to take it."—Mrs. Ida M. Coffman, E. R. No. 2, Sibill, Illinois.

Alberta Woman Avoids an Operation
Provost, Alberta.—"I was in a bad condition and would suffer awful pains at times and could not do anything. The doctor said I should have an operation. I read testimonials of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the papers and a friend recommended me to take it. After taking three bottles I became much better and now I have a bonny baby girl four months old. I do my housework and help a little with the chores. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and am willing for you to use this testimonial letter."—Mrs. A. A. Adams, Box 54, Provost, Alberta.

eral in few days. Indications are that the yield will exceed the ten year average, with sample fairly good although late crops will be more affected both as to yield and grade by rust. Coarse grains vary greatly.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

Harvesting is continuing in good weather with promise of excellent crops undiminished. Pastures need rain.
Threshing is general and the yield of all grains is above average. In south western Ontario the tobacco crop is exceptionally good and beans are up to average. In all sections rain is badly needed for root crops, pastures and wheat lands.

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO

Threshing is general and the yield of all grains is above average. In south western Ontario the tobacco crop is exceptionally good and beans are up to average. In all sections rain is badly needed for root crops, pastures and wheat lands.
MARITIME PROVINCES
NEW BRUNSWICK—Haying completed and the crop generally of good quality and above average. Potatoes in some sections have suffered by rains and quantity will be below average. The Government estimates the yield at 7,250,000 bushels against 13,000,000 last year. NOVA SCOTIA—A large hay crop of good quality harvested. Recent favourable weather has greatly benefited apples. PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND—Crop conditions generally good.

PROVINCE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Grains generally show a yield of from 90 to 100% of the average, although the straw is short, while in Nicola Valley wheat and oats show 120%. Roots are from 30% to 90%. Mangels a poor crop. Tomatoes 135% in fine shape. Hops good average. No change in estimate of Okanagan apples. Cool weather has checked too rapid maturing and fruit is colouring well. Wealthy movement is at peak, picking of McIntosh and fall varieties will be general next week.

THE PERPETUAL VISION.

What lightens labor, sanctifies toil and makes a man good and strong wise and patient, just and benevolent, both lowly and great as well as worthy of intelligence and freedom is the perpetual vision before him of a better world beaming through life's shadows.
