Thomas Jardine and his daughter, Olive, have returned to Miramichi, after a most delightful visit at the home of Wm A. Jardine, Crown Pt. Mr Jardine is very favorably impressed with this Province as a farming country and declares that even the beautiful farms on the Miramichi cannot compete with those of Crown Point and the vicinity. Miss Jardine who is a teacher, has visited some of the school grounds and admits that they have made greater progress in their gardening than in the common school of N. B. Both speak very highly of the kindness of relatives and friends during their visit. They especially enjoyed the boating at Crown Point and are loud in their praises of the scenery in the many beautiful spots they have visited.

Some little excitement was created last night about eleven o'clock by the members of the crew of a schooner lying at Peake's Wharf. One of the members missed his watch in some unaccountable way and he at once accused somebody of stealing it. His suspicions were directed to one party and he called in the police to straighten things out and aid in securing the return of the supposedly mispporopriated watch. The officer who responded to the call found that things were in a rather unsettled state on the vessel but soon after his arrival the missing property turned up, one of the crew claiming to have found it somewhere on the vessel. Quite a few of the crew gave evidence of having made use of some kind of intoxicant and this was perhaps the indirect cause of the trouble.

Henry Young, Earnscliffe, is suffering from a number of injuries sustained in a recent attempt to stop a runaway team of horses attached to a mowing machine. His injuries which are light under the circumstances consist of a broken arm, several cuts on his face and the side of his head and a number of minor bruises. The cuts required several stitches to close Mr. Young was preparing to cut a field of hay and on arriving at the field some distance from his house, he found he had forgotten oil. He left his team standing and walked back for the can. On his returning the team started unexpectedly and in the attempt to stop them he ran in front of them and caught the pole to which they were harnessed and pulled on the lines. This however, proved ineffectual and he saw he was being dragged at a rapid rate towards a barbed wire fence. To avoid being badly cut he dropped to the ground and was immediately rendered unconscious. The ground showed that he had been dragged some distance by the machine. On regaining consciousness he walked home and was driven to a doctor's where his injuries were attended to. The horses broke through one wire fence and were later stopped by another stronger one in the next field. Mr. Young's escape from death is considered a miraculous one.

A large barn and shed near the house was saved with great difficulty, the neighbors turning out in good force. The loss will be about $1000 with insurance of $400.

A very pleasant and social gathering took place at the residence of John Proctor, Hunter River, when a goodly number of invited guests, about twenty couples, gathered on the beautiful eve of the 27th. to pass away the time indulging in all kinds of amusements, such as games, dances, waltzes and phonograph selections of which all were thoroughly rendered by the young ladies and gents of the surrounding vicinity. The wonderful scores made at Bisley this year are said to be due in a great measure to the introduction of the peep sight used on the rear part of the rifle. The method of sighting is to see tip of the foresight in the centre of the peep with the bull's eye on the top of the former. The inexperienced shot finds it as easy to adopt this method of sighting as the veteran. It is understood that a quantity of bridges for the Ross rifle are at ordinance stores here and can be obtained on repayment. The Sutherland sight or any sight with a peep can easily be attached to the bridge. It is understood that several of the local marksmen will use the peep in the coming P. R. A. competitions. The adoption of the peep does away with the necessity of an orthoptic.

A clipping from an Olympia paper announces the sad death of Malcom J. Weatherbie, which took place in St.. Peter's hospital on June 27, after lying in an unconsciuos condition since his accident on Friday, June 24. Mr. Weatherbie, a well known pioneer wood-dealer and business man of that city, driving along the country road accompanied by his little son Fay, when the horse he was driving became frightened by a dog and jumping to one side threw the occupants from the sulky. Fay fell clear of the rig in which they were riding, but Mr. Weatherbie was caught by his feet and dragged for a quarter of a mile. When the horse was stopped Mr. Weatherbie was picked up with his scalp and one ear torn loose from his head and the flesh on his shoulders ground down to the bone. He was at once carried to the hospital where Drs. Riley and Ingham worked over the unconscious man for several hours but all to no avail. On Monday evening death ended his sufferings. He was a member of the Foresters of America and the Fraternal Brotherhood. The funeral took place Wednesday, June 29th and was largely attended, Rev. Rev George Morris, of the Methodist congregation, Campbellton, preached in Centenary church yesterday morning, in Portland church last evening, and addressed a mass meeting in Carmarthen street church Sunday school room in the afternoon making strong appeals for help to enable his people to rebuild their church and parsonage.

Rev Mr Morris, who is a native of P. E. Island, described the conditions which had resulted from the conflagration. The Methodist congregation, he said, was not a large nor a wealthy one. While they appealed for help it should be understood that, as far as they were able, they were striving to help themselves. Only two of them escaped being burned out and yet they had agreed to try to pay their minister's salary this year.

It has been said that the most pressing necessity of the situation was to build homes for the people before they thought of building churches. The people of Campbellton were, however, as anxious to build their churches as they were to build their other homes. The Methodists had lost a church valued at $7,000, a parsonage valued at $2,000, and the furniture of the parsonage worth $600. On this insurance to the amount of $2,300 was carried, and it had been estimated that $10,000 was required to build their property again.

Last year the congregation had finished paying off the last of their debt and had at the same time increased their pastor's salary from $750 to $900. They had also raised, during the same period, $1,200 for denominational purposes.

Strothard, while Miss Jessie Strong will play the wedding march. The bride will be superbly gowned in white silk coline, set off by hand made roses of silk taffeta, and beautiful veil and boquet of bridal roses. The bride's father will give her away and she will be attended by Miss Lou Wright, charmingly gowned in pink silk voile over white taffeta and will carry a handsome boquet of carnations. Harry Hinton will perform the duties of groomsman. After the ceremony the wedding party will enjoy breakfast at the bride's home after which the happy couple, accompanied by Miss Wright to Boston and Mr. Hinton to Moncton, will leave on a wedding tour to the American cities. The bride will travel in a grey cloth tailored suit with chic silk blouse trimmed with Irish bebe lace and large black hat. Beautiful presents speak for the esteem of the popular young couple. The Guardian with a host of friends, showers on them best wishes for a long and happy married life.

Rev. F. J. Coffin, Trinidad, B. W. I., was a passenger to this city last evening on the Northumberland. Rev. Mr. Coffin, who is a native of Savage Harbor and now a professor in a college in Trinidad, will spend a few week's holidays with his numerous friends here.

—Early Sunday morning the meat shops of Roy and Harry Silliphant, Summerside, were broken into and the cash register rifled. Fortunately the thieves only secured a few coppers besides a few other articles which were laying around the shops Yesterday morning some person or persons entered the observation car at the Railway wharf and cut open a satchel which was in the car. Nothing, however, of any value was taken. This is only a few of a series of petty robberies which have been going on in Summerside in the past few weeks, one of which was the breaking into of one of the sheds on one of the wharves and the stealing of a quantity of liquor. The question is where were the police when these petty thefts were going on, especially those of Sunday morning, both of the places entered at that time being situated on the main street, one of them almost opposite the police station. Should not the police give some explanation of this work.

Sunday last, July 31st was a high day among the Methodists of Souris and their friends, it being the occasion of the dedication of their church. Some six months ago a destructive fire greatly damaged the building, since that time the congregation has through the kindness of the Baptist friends been worshiping in their church now used.

With commendable zeal, however, the Methodists, under the leadership of their late pastor, Rev W. E. Johnson, early undertook the work of repair so successfully consumated last Sunday. The Rev Wm Harrison chairman of the Charlottetown District preached eloquent and appropriate sermons both morning and evening, being assisted by the pastor Rev F. A. Wightman in all the services. In the afternoon a special S. S. Service was held, addressed by Mr Harrison, Mr Wightman, Mr Nichols and C. C. Carlton.

In the morning the impressive dedication service was used and in the evening, a brief though interesting historical sketch was made by the pastor. Chas Fisher of Montreal presided at the organ all day. The organ is practically new, a two manuel instrument, with pipe organ foot action and a very fine instrument. Mr Fisher's handling of it greatly pleased the large congregations.

The church has been enlarged by the addition of an alcove for the choir at the rear of the pulpit. The walls and ceilings are covered by stamped steel of handsome design and delicate tints. New pews of ash and birch add greatly to the comfort and appearance. The floor and windows are also new, the latter being of pebbled glass of delicate design. The pulpit and choir platforms are covered with a new carpet of handsome pattern, the gift of Mrs Frank Heartz, Charlottetown, while the isles are covered with new rubberoid matting, in fact the church is practically new both outside and in and is one of the most handsome of the small churches in the province.

When the pastor made the financial statement it was found that the cost of repairs had made a total of $1057.00. On Sunday morning there was a balance of $300.00 necessary to free the building from debt. Mr Wightman made a strong appeal for the entire amount before the close of the day. It is most gratifying to report that at the close of the evening service every dollar was either paid or promised and the church freed from all debt. This was only made possible however, through the magnificent offer of Frank Heartz of Charlottetown who came good for two thirds the amount.

The building committee consisted of H. H. Acorn, J. B. Matthew and J. Mitchell and deserve great praise for their work. The Methodists of Souris are to be congratulated on so successful a consummation of their efforts. They are in a better position than ever before to carry on successful work.

Of a recent shipment this firm was forced to sell a number of cases at a discount owing to shortage They add the shipments are made through the Canadian Express Company and they claim that the charges made are sufficiently high to not only cary the goods but for insurance as well.

John Darke, North Wiltshire, has instituted proceedings against Simon Brown, Hunter River, and Rev. W. I. Green, Brookfield, for the recovery of damages placed at one thousand dollars incurred by the destruction of some cider in Darke's possession. This was said to possess intoxicating qualities. The circumstances surrounding the case are briefly as follows: Acting on the complaint of several of the residents of that district Rev. Mr. Green and Mr. Brown who is a prosecutor, called at Darke's house about four or five months ago and, having in their possession a knowledge of facts which it was claimed would convict Mr or Mrs. Darke of an offence against the prohibition act, they persuaded the owners to consent to the destruction of the intoxicant, which it is understood, consisted of a quantity of cider. It is stated that they were assisted in this performance by Mr. Darke's son-in-law, their servant girl and servant man.
