

Dyspepsia Troubled Him for Many Years

Mr. J. Savoy, Loggieville, N.B., writes: "I have suffered for many years from dyspepsia and could not seem to get any relief."

and when I had half of it taken I felt a lot better, so I continued until I had taken two bottles, and now have no pains and no coated tongue, and feel that I am completely rid of my trouble."

SONIA

By VIDA HURST

After lunch they wandered through the shops for half an hour, then Sidney walked with Sonia to the office. At the door they met Franklin, who beamed upon Sonia.

"Didn't have a chance to see you this morning," he began. Sonia flared warningly at Sidney, who had recognized him instantly. She held out her hand. "This is Franklin Crane, isn't it? I met you at my cousin Genevieve's, two years ago. But you don't remember, do you?"

"No, I don't," she said, looking from her left eye to her right. "But the moment passed eventually, and leaving Sonia weak. In the afternoon Franklin came to her desk.

"Now I understand who you are," he said. "It was your friend Sidney. She did not deny it. 'Did you tell her anything about me?'"

"Of course not after you knew. But before she told you." "No, don't worry, I don't confide in my girl friends."

He pressed her hand. "Don't be angry, darling. I only wondered." The husky note of passion in his voice never failed to thrill her.

"I'm not angry," she returned. "And I love you, so run along before Violet swallows her chewing gum."

His laughing gaze swept the round-eyed Violet, who turned furiously back to her adding machine. "I saw him, though," Violet confessed as she vanished down the stairs. "Gee, Sonia, if he looked like that at me, I'd die."

Sonia was annoyed, but collected. "It's a good thing he doesn't then, old dear."

Islander Wins Mayor's Seat

The following clipping from the Boston Post of recent date will be of interest to Islanders. Mayor-elect Gillis whose sudden rise to fame has been the subject of comment from most of the big dailies is a son of the late Andrew Gillis, Grand River, P. E. Island, a nephew of Mr. Peter J. Gillis, J. P., Arlington. He has visited his uncle on different occasions and the many friends which he then made will be interested in his subsequent career.

Clipping from Boston Post: NEWBURYPORT, Dec. 6.—Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis, 31-year-old rough and tumble man about town, whose political tactics and campaign promises startled and checked the conservative citizens of this staid old city, was today elected Mayor, defeating Mayor Oscar H. Nelson, who sought re-election. Tabulation of the ballots tonight showed that he had been returned a victor by a margin of 485 votes, polling 2852 votes against 2357 received by his opponent.

"Soaked" the Mayor
Gillis, known throughout the city as Newburyport's "bad boy" first attracted the attention of the voters here two years ago when he admitted in the local court that he had "soaked" Michael Cashman, at that time the mayor of the city, "right on the button." The battle, he told the judge presiding at the trial, was staged in City Hall. For this he received forty days in the county jail.

The trouble started when "Bossy," as he is commonly called here, purchased the historic Simpson estate at the junction of the Turnpike and the Shore road and petitioned for a license to turn it into a gasoline filling station. The City Council rejected the petition, so "Bossy" tore down the stone wall, placed the slabs on the lawn and adorned them with wreaths bearing the labels "For the Dead Council."

Next he plastered the mansion with colorful circus posters and when the city marshal had them removed, he swore eternal opposition to the Mayor. He organized a fire department and other divisions of the official clan. It was then he decided to run for the office of Mayor and "show them how to run the city."

Conservative citizens at first laughed at the youth who made the announcement that he intended to run for the city's highest office in order to prove that there was much wrong with the administration of the city. His antics of last summer, during which he displayed a sign in front of his home, gravestones and genuine old-fashioned chamber crockery on the old estate he bought, precluded any possibility of his election, citizens stated.

Led in Primary
Today's election returns came as a surprise and shock to this element far greater than the one they experienced Nov. 15th, when "Bossy" won the Iowa, Royal Balcomb primaries, leading a field of four candidates by a wide margin. Even after the primaries, there were those here who doubted the seriousness of the young man's candidacy, many predicting that before election day rolled around "Bossy" would be out of the race for mayor.

The task of winning sufficient voters to elect him to office was a difficult one for Gillis, owing to the conditions prevailing here when the rough-and-tumble man-about-town announced his candidacy. Ordinarily the mayorality is a joke. There was little to criticize in the administration of Mayor Nelson. No one questioned his integrity and none of the citizens here ever accused the Mayor of not being on the job. He reduced the tax rate from $33.60 to $32.00, even in the face of extraordinary expenditure, and won the reputation among the voters of being a fine Mayor.

All this "Bossy" set about to tear down, with what, he did not know, and to the great surprise of the citizenry of this quiet city, today succeeded.

"Bossy," in opening his campaign for Mayor, admitted to everyone that he had never before held public office or ever before had aspired to any position for and by the people. He admitted knowing nothing of city affairs, but added that he didn't have to know very much for this city. Citizens laughed at him, but turned out a grade and voted for him. He was a "grudge" candidate he told his audience, while seeking votes, and never changed the application.

MR. ARCHIBALD CURRIE

Mr. Archibald Currie, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Souris passed to his eternal rest at his home on Nov. 23rd, 1927, in the 81st year of his age.

Mr. Currie, although not in his usual health for some months, was still active and taking a keen interest in affairs of Church and community, until a few days before his death, which came peacefully after a slight stroke of paralysis.

He was born at West River, Prince Edward Island, the son of the late Duncan and Margaret (McMillan) Currie, who had come from Colonsay, Scotland, bringing with them the best traditions of their native land, incorporating them into their home and into the bringing-up of their family, so that when Archibald was created P. W. G. he was a youth of industry, thrift and integrity, which virtues predominated throughout his long and useful life.

After teaching for seven years in one of our country schools, he took up residence in Charlottetown where for some years he carried on business, marrying Miss Carrie Wright of England, who predeceased him in 1913.

In 1879 he was welcomed to the town of Souris where for almost half a century he has lived, with his family, enjoying the confidence and respect of its citizens and community, as he carried on business with them or served them as a Customs Officer from 1908 till his retirement in 1925.

Before his removal to Souris he was a member of Zion Church, Charlottetown, and an active worker in a Men's Bible Class there. The religious training received in his home and in this Bible Class in Zion prepared him for taking an important part in the life of St. James' Presbyterian Church in Souris where for many years he efficiently served in the capacity of Elder (for 40 years), Sunday School Superintendent, and Bible Class teacher.

Quiet and unassuming in his manner, yet possessing those splendid qualities of mind and heart that made intercourse with him always helpful. He seemed always bigger than his business. Although of the "Old School" and having strong opinions of his own, he was ever ready to join in any forward movement where the interests of the community and the furtherance of the cause of righteousness was concerned. He entered heartily into the Church Union movement and helped in no small way to make it a success in the town of his adoption. He was ever an ardent believer in and liberal supporter of the missionary enterprises of the Church and a loyal supporter of the ministers of the congregation.

He leaves to cherish his memory one daughter, Mrs. Ernest S. White) who has lovingly ministered to his needs since the death of her mother in 1913, and her elder sister Edith in 1911, and two sons, Wm. Duncan of Roxbury, Mass., and Sydney Wright of Sanzuda, Alta., also one sister, Mrs. Annie Campbell, Charlottetown, and two brothers, John of Charlottetown and Hugh of Peake's Station.

The funeral was held at his residence, Souris, to Souris West Cemetery, on Friday, Nov. 25th, services being conducted by his pastor, Rev. A. D. McDonald, B. A. The Active and Pall bearers were—J. B. Matthew, Dr. P. S. McDonald, Patrick St. John, Judge Fraser, Arthur McQuaid, and H. H. Acorn. Honorary pall bearers, Mr. J. A. Sterns and Mr. J. B. Matthew, Senator John McLean.
