

And It's a Mighty Useful Barrel, Madam

In the spring, you know, once the young man's fancy has lightly turned and he thinks a solitaire would be most becoming on her third left hand finger—

He bestirs himself—counts the "hard-earned"—hies him to the gem shop—insists on a golden quality setting.

For, says Charles: Hang expense Let the setting match in worth the stone lest both remain on my hands, not hers.

Just so, Madam, because FIVE ROSES flour is so very good, the FIVE ROSES barrel is likewise the best made, admirably.

Because the flour demands a perfect package.

And we make it ourselves. Very few millers make their own barrels—very few can.

Now, we have our own lumber camps out in the Kewatin district expert rangers well-paid to know the best Western Poplar when they see it to select the trees having both perfect grain and growth.

And the choice logs float across the Lake of the Woods to the sawmills by the busy little cutter called—"FIVE ROSES."

In big shops and dry-kin the wood is cut and seasoned, and in our own gold factory expert workers can daily turn out 1200 of the best barrels fit to hold FIVE ROSES flour.

Not only barrel specialists you know, but also flour barrel specialists.

knowing the big mills requirements, devoted exclusively to the production of that unique package—the FIVE ROSES barrel.

Which explains why it is the most durable, most sanitary, strongest, proof against huge sitting, dust, wasted flour, free from knot-holes or ventilators.

Reinforced with wooden, likewise sturdy wire hoops.

A mighty handy article. Mistress Hickeys few is this same FIVE ROSES barrel a useful receptacle when empty, adapted to a thousand varied purposes. A long and useful career is before it, and when it has fulfilled all other barrels and old age creeps in, the broken-down remains will supply the fuel for many a generous batch of loaves such as any FIVE ROSES flour can give you.

Don't YOU really want good flour packed in just such a barrel as this? Then INSIST on FIVE ROSES—always.

IRRIGATION ADDED MANY MILLIONS TO EGYPT'S WEALTH.

Here is the greatest benefit that British enterprise has conferred upon Egypt yet, says Hamilton W. Fyfe, in writing in The Daily Mail of the Assuan Dam. Long ago when the Egyptian question was hotly discussed "in the Chancelleries of Europe" Nubar Pasha said impatiently: "The Egyptian question? It is a question of irrigation." Many Egyptians knew how true this was, but they could not give their country the water she needed. The task was left to the practical sense and determination of British administrators, and it is worth remembering that they were opposed at almost every step.

In a land where it scarcely ever rains the government has to take the part which is played in other countries by the weather. Native Egyptian governments had tried to fill this role and failed. A scheme for raising the level of water in the Delta was rejected in the seventies by the National Assembly on the ground that the richer proprietors who had put up pumping engines would be injured by it; their pumps would be needed no longer! Even when the great Barrage was built fifteen miles below Cairo, it was so ineptly planned that the engineers never dared shut the sluices. They were afraid the whole erection would be swept away. Water therefore continued scarce. In many districts it could only be obtained by bribery, in others lazy officials let the canals get out of order. Up river cultivators merely took one crop of the fertile mud left by the yearly inundation.

When Britain decided to lend a hand in Egypt there was a very expensive pumping scheme in contemplation. It would have benefited the Delta, no doubt, but at far too heavy a cost. Sir Colin Scott Moncrieff, who was put in charge of irrigation, said: "Make the Barrage workable." The Egyptians said: "It can't be done." He said: "Publish." The National Assembly refused consent. Lord Cromer signalled. "Go ahead," Sir Colin went ahead, and his success added so much to the common wealth that the revenue was increased, as a direct result, by £2,000,000 a year. No wonder the peasants called it "The Bridge of Blessings." The value of their land was doubled. They could raise upon it three crops of cotton instead of one. Formerly the canals were only filled once a year—the time of the Nile flood. Now there was water enough all the year round.

AFTER SUFFERING YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fox Creek, N.B.—"I have always had pains in the loins and a weakness there, and often after my meals my food would distress me and cause soreness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me much good, I am stronger, digestion is better, and I can walk with ambition. I have encouraged many mothers of families to take it, as it is the best remedy in the world. You can publish this in the papers."—Mrs. WILLIAM BOURQUE, Fox Creek, N.B., Canada.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which have beyond doubt this Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is true.

A NEW WAY TO RECLAIM FALLEN ONES

NEW YORK, April 14.—The Rev Dr L. W. Batten, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, in East Tenth Street announced yesterday that his success in reclaiming drunkards both men and women, was so great that he intended to speak on the subject next Sunday in church. Of the fifty cases I have treated myself only one or two relapsed into their former habits," he said, "and even these were eventually cured. It is a most surprising achievement, through hypnotism, aided by a spiritual and religious awakening of the deadened faculties and the soul itself.

"Of course the identity of those treated is kept secret and their confidences are held sacred. We have treated women as well as men, and the result has been equally successful. "I find that to make a lasting cure we must first give the necessary hypnotic treatment, which destroys the craving for liquor. While the patient is in a hypnotic state I give advice and make the necessary suggestions, which are not forgotten because of the powerful impression wrought on the patient's highest nature—his spiritual nature; in fact, his very soul comes under the influence of our ministrations when he is in a receptive condition.

"During the two years that I have been carrying on the Emmanuel work in New York I have been very much interested in these alcoholic cases. It is true that applications of that kind have been few compared with the number of nervous sufferers, but there have been sufficient to enable me to test the effect of psychopathic treatment. The results have been so gratifying that I am now desirous of giving greater publicity to this part of our work. At our regular healing mission service on Sunday evenings I intend to speak about the cure of alcoholism, giving the results of my studies and treatment.

"I find that women are as successful as men in maintaining their good resolutions to drink no more. In fact, desire ceases after the treatment. A new life opens for them; their conscientious abhorrence of liquor, as it existed in their innocence, returns a gain their strength of character is restored, and with Heaven's blessing upon them they go forth full of hope, strong to resist temptation and ready to fight the battles of life anew."
