HE GRASPED THE INCANDESCENT LAMP THEN FELL TO THE FLOOR A DEAD MAN

The Sad Death Yesterday Afternoon of Frank Trainor, One of the Employees of J. H. Myrick's Fish Market, Grafton Street.

PROBABLY OWING TO THE ELECTRICITY CAUSED BY THE CROSSING OF THE WIRES

His Death is Almost Instantaneous—The Warehouse of Auld Bros. is Ignited by the Live Wires and a Big Fire Narrowly Averted—The Whole Building is Charged with Electricity—Several Persons coming in Contact with the Current are Knocked Down—A Jury Impanelled to hold the Inquest.

Shortly after five o'clock yesterday afternoon citizens were shocked to learn that Francis Trainor, for many years an employe of Myrick's Fish Market, had been killed almost instantly. The deceased after passing to a room at the rear of the store reached to turn on the electric light. A second later he dropped to the floor and in less than a minute was dead. Such are the facts in brief of a fatality that has drawn out for a bereaved family the sympathy of the entire community.

That the death was caused by coming in contact with a live wire is the general theory of all who are acquainted with the circumstances connected with the sad occurrence.

The building where the accident took place is divided into two parts, in one compartment groceries are sold and the other is the fish market proper. About fifteen minutes after five o'clock Ernest Trainor, son of the deceased, came to the latter store with an oil can for kerosene. Handing the can to his father, who was the only one present at the time, he stood at the desk about ten feet removed from the door of the rear room, which was in darkness, the shutters on the windows being closed.

As it was not quite dusk the lights had not been turned on, with the exception of one in the front of the store.

The deceased passed into the rear room for the oil and a moment later Ernest and Frank McKenna who at the time was working in the cellar, heard a fall on the floor. Rushing to the spot they found Mr. Trainor lying prostrate; alongside was the electric lamp and wire which had been pulled from the rosette on the ceiling by the unfortunate man in falling. He was unconscious and in a few seconds expired. Dr. R. McNeill was immediately summoned but though he arrived almost instantly medical assistance was of no avail and he could do nothing.

From five till six o'clock last night Grafton street from Queen to Pownall was the scene of great electrical activity. During the wind and rain of the day the presumption is that the primary wire leading from the station to the transformer on the post and the secondary wire from the house, of the incandescent circuit having as its centre the transformer in front of the Fish Market became connected by another wire falling across, thus making the house voltage which is ordinarily greatly reduced by the transformer much more powerful, probably one thousand volts or more according to the amount of the leakage. At this time the warehouse of Auld Bros was ignited by the wires in two places and the wet building so fully charged that the employes were unable to put down the windows or walk on some parts of the floor.

Arthur Essery who keeps a livery stable adjoining the Fish Market while turning on the incandescent light of his office was thrown to the floor and did not recover from the effects of the shock for some time. Numerous other persons in the neighborhood received shocks more or less severe from their lights. The trouble was remedied by employes of the Company about six o'clock in the evening.

Dr. Conroy, coroner, was summoned and after viewing the body and learning the facts of the death, called upon Sergeant Bradley to empanel a jury. At eight o'clock the following citizens composing the jury, met at the Fish Market: Edward McKinnon, foreman. James Edmonds. Robert Wood. James Stewart. Thomas Campbell. Malcolm McLeod. W. P. Doull.

The members viewed the body as it lay in the rear office with no marks upon it excepting on the chin and under the left ear probably caused by the fall, and also the scene of the fatality. They determined to call upon Drs. Kelly and Jenkins to perform a thorough autopsy with a view of ascertaining the cause of death. They then adjourned to meet this evening at half-past seven in the Police Court where the evidence of all who had any connection with the sad death will be given.

The deceased, Frank Trainor, was a man about fifty years of age, much respected by all with whom he was acquainted. For the past thirty-two years he has been in the employ of J. H. Myrick & Co. He leaves to mourn a wife, to whom his death is a great sorrow and a family of seven, the youngest of which is only two years of age. The children are John in Attleboro, Mass., who learned last night by telegram of his father's death, Florrie, Alfred of James & Trainor, Ernest, Mamie, Kathleen and Frank.

After the examination by the jury the body was handed over to the family subject to the autopsy which will be made by the doctors this forenoon. The time of the funeral has not yet been arranged pending the arrival of his son from Attleboro.

At Bradbane August 2nd after a long and painful illness borne with true Christian patience there passed there peacefully away to his reward Angus McPherson son of the late William McPherson of Junction Road, aged 67 years. Deceased was a man of sterling character and his memory will long be cherished by his friends and neighbors. He lived a quiet and peaceable life and though his sufferings were great yet he murmured not for though it all, he could feel the gentle touch of a loving Saviour and out of the depths of a loving heart, could trust in the Lord even in suffering. Rest comes sure and soon in his good time the Master gently called the weary one to lay down the cross and take up the crown. The funeral was largely attended, the remains were laid in the Hartavill Cemetery with those of his departed friends. To the brothers and sisters of the deceased we tender our heart felt sympathy.

Long before the Opera House was opened last night hundreds of people were at the doors waiting for admission. The building was crowded, Hon. D. Farquharson in introducing Rev. Mr. Hector referred to the great need for all temperance workers to unite at the present time to stamp out the liquor traffic which is being conducted in the city in the face of law and order. Mr. Hector's subject was "The Devil Dr. used in White." His lecture was a stirring eloquent and fiery denunciation on the Liquor traffic, abounding in humor. The address will doubtless stir many citizens to do more to exterminate the dread demon of drink. At the close a resolution calling on the Government for better enforcement of the Prohibitory Law was unanimously carried. A meeting of all interested in the better enforcement will be held in the Y. M. C. A. hall Friday night at which a committee will be appointed to wait on the Government. The announcement that the Knight would speak at the Opera House tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock on his experiences in England was received with much pleasure and he will doubtless have another full house.
