THE ALBERTON GUARDIAN

The Alberton High School will reopen on Tuesday, Jan. 3rd. The section-men are engaged in laying steel rails on the track between Alberton station and the rail-road wharf. The Church of England will not, as has been the custom for a number of years past, hold any Christmas Tree Festival here. The seven year old son of Jas. Hardy of Mill River, passed peacefully away on Wednesday 21st. after an illness of some months. Bertram Ramsay, Montrose, and Peter Conroy, Alberton have left for Souris where they will be engaged for the season in the shipment of smelts. The stores of Benj. Rogers and J. H. Myrick & Co. are decked in a splendid array of colors for the Christmas season and the decorations are bright, cheerful and attractive. Both these stores have had an unusual large number of customers and Christmas trade was in full swing. On Wednesday night, 21st. at the home of Jas. Irving, an event of interest took place when his son, Wm. Irving was united in marriage to Miss Daisy Bowness, daughter of Benj. Bowness, a prominent farmer of Montrose. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Hamilton. Quite a number attended the wedding festivities and a jolly good time was spent. To the happy couple The Guardian extends congratulations and good wishes of the season. The funeral of the late Duncan Profit, was largely attended. The deceased, who was for a number of years a member of the Masonic Order, was about 60 years of age and was a highly respected farmer of Rosebank. His demise came not unexpectedly for he had suffered continually from a severe disease for a period of two years. His sorrowing widow, three daughters and one son have the sympathy of many friends in their affliction.
