Bathers are still to be observed along the water front, and in places more or less public, who do not use bathing suits as the law requires. The authorities will make an attempt to secure suits for the beach, and the law will be impressed with the necessity and propriety of the bathing suit.

Halifax exchanges report the narrow escape to all purchasers of Mrs. Martha Mellish of that city, a niece of Mrs. Philip Large of Charlottetown, Miss Mellish, in company with a girl friend, was bathing in the North West Arm in a spot where the beach sloped quickly to the channel and the water was very deep. Had it not been for the timely assistance of some men who were a short distance away at the time, a different story might have to be told. As it was it took considerable time and the strenuous efforts of physicians who were telephoned to resuscitate the bathers after their experience.

For tonight Paton & Co have secured for their customers a number of splendid premiums which they will present free to all purchasers of goods. This premium, which is an excellent one, is a beautiful reproduction of a photo of His Late Majesty King Edward VII and the Queen Mother and is done in woven satin neatly affixed on a suitable mount. All patriotic citizens should endeavor to secure this fine premium, which will be given only between the hours of seven and nine p. m., if only for the purpose of further assisting in the perpetuation of the memory of His Late Majesty, Edward the Peacemaker.
