Treasure Trove

(By Dominion News Service) YORK, Eng., July 17.—Mr. Barthelme, who recently purchased Georg House, Scotton, near Knaresborough, was making alterations when he hit upon treasure trove in the shape of a pot of silver pennies. There were 300 of them, dating from the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, most of them coined in the reigns of Edward I, and probably the two Edwards following, and a few of Alexander III of Scotland. According to custom the coroner, the King's officer, and twelve jurymen had to determine, after hearing the witnesses, "who are the finders and who are suspicious thereof." Josiah Coe, was helping Mr. Barthelme with his alterations, and had taken up the stone flags of the kitchen. When he was levelling the floor his spade caught something which turned out to be an earthenware pot, and which was broken. It was embedded in the soil, and coins were found inside. The pot was found in soft sand five inches beneath the surface and the coins were cemented together with the sand and damp which had got in. The money had apparently been hidden away at some time. At one time all such finds were the property of the finder, but now the King.

There was a long series of comments on the subject, going back to Alfred the Great. Under the present rules, finders who surrender their discoveries have such of the articles as are not required for national institutions returned, together with the antiquarian value of such as might be retained, less 20 per cent. Mr. Henry Crowther, curator of the Leeds city Museum, has identified one of the coins as a silver penny of Alexander III of Scotland (1249-1285) and several having having been struck in the reigns of the first three Edwards of England.

A Poor Workman Is Known By His Tools

When you allow your eyes to be furnished with cheap glasses you have a poor workman in your employ. "Cheap," "patent" glasses are worthless at any price. I have invented the latest instrument the "Eye Examination Unit" for "EYE EXAMINATION" to enable me to give you the very best eyesight obtainable. This instrument is the latest on the market and there is only one other in the Maritime Provinces. "Actions speak louder than words." Have your eyes examined with this new instrument.

Potato King Dead

LONDON, July 16.—Better known as the "Potato King," Alderman William Dennis has died near Boston, Lincolnshire, aged 83. His life-story reads more like a fairy tale. From an agricultural labourer earning about $2.50 a week some 65 years ago he became one of the biggest farmers in England. Out of his wages he managed to save $250 and he joined forces with another agricultural labourer who had some small earnings. The two borrowed $1000 from the bank and launched out by purchasing land. Mr. Dennis proved himself to be a genius by entirely revolutionizing agriculture in Lincolnshire and ending by becoming, with his sons, who inherited their father's ability, owner of the biggest farm concern in the country, extending over 20,000 acres. Their huge undertaking, comprising its own manure works and seed testing stations, was sold a couple of years ago for approximately $7,250,000 to a company which continued to be managed by the Dennis family. The firm traded at Convent Garden, Jersey, Southampton and Leicester. At the coronation of King Edward, Alderman Dennis supplied five tons of potatoes for the dinner given by the King to half a million London poor. Mr. J. W. Dennis was appointed potato controller during the war.

LAKEVILLE SCHOOL

The annual examination of Lakeville School was held in the school-room on Friday, June 27th. There was a large number of visitors and a full attendance of pupils present. The pupils were examined in the various subjects by the teachers, Miss Alberta Rose and by others present and by their ready and correct answers showed that they had been carefully trained during the past year. After the classes a short programme consisting of drills, dialogues and recitations was carried out by the pupils. The following prizes were then presented by the teacher. Prize for highest standing in Grade VIII—Margaret Rose. Prize for highest standing in Grade VI—Anastasia Macinnis. Prize for highest standing in Grade V—Mabel Rose. Prize for highest standing in Grade III—Laura Rose. Prize for highest standing in Grade II—Margaret MacDonnell. Prize for highest standing in Grade I—Elmer MacDonnell. Prize for "Better English" Elsie MacDonnell. Prize for Attendance—Duncan MacInnis. Candy was then served and complimentary remarks were made by all present. A vote of thanks was tendered to the teacher for the splendid manner in which the school had been conducted for the past year. The teacher in replying thanked parents and pupils for their co-operation that they had given her during the past term. The singing of God Save the King brought to a very successful examination to a close.

WHERE EDEN IS SITUATED

(By Dominion News Service) BERLIN, July 17.—Franz von Wendrin, a German archaeologist, has made the astonishing discovery that Eden was not situated between the Euphrates and the Tigris, but in Mecklenburg, one hundred miles north of Berlin. He has embodied his conclusions in a book, just published, "The Discovery of Paradise." He contends that had Eden been in Mesopotamia Eve would have offered a date or a banana, not an apple. The fact that both the world's parents wore fig suits even does not deter him, for he asserts that while Germany's climate is too cold for fig-bearing, nevertheless fig trees flourish as shrubs in Mecklenburg.

FISHERMEN DINE PIGEONS

(By Dominion News Service) LONDON, July 17.—Hundreds of homing pigeons, having apparently lost their way in a fog, sought refuge with a fleet of Brixham trawlers which arrived at Penzance lately. Seemingly exhausted, the birds alighted on the spars and rigging of the boats in mid channel, and made friends with the fishermen, who fed them. Some of the birds slept in the cabins at night. They remained on board until the boats entered the harbour. A pigeon was sent off with a paper bearing the date on which the birds were fed by the crew of the Torbay Lass. It alighted on the Brixham trawler, Vigilant, a number of miles away.

Scout Notes

About twenty-five Boy Scouts from Georgetown spent a most enjoyable ten days at their camp at Burns Point, under the direction of Scout Master H. Morrissey. The location for a camp was almost ideal. The camp itself was situated on a high bluff of land overlooking the entrance to Georgetown Harbour and with a beach unexcelled for bathing and swimming facilities, about fifty yards distant. Water and supplies such as eggs, butter, milk could be secured from the near by neighbours, none of whom are more than one half mile distant. The success of the camp was due to the Scout Masters and assistant Scout Masters J. Fitzgerald, C. Hibbett and E. McDonald to the efforts of the boys themselves and to the splendid co-operation of the parents, neighbours and all other interested parties who by their special "treats" certainly made the boys stay at camp a long-to-be remembered one. The camp began on Thursday, July 3rd and broke on Saturday, July 12th. During this time many affairs of interest to the boys were indulged in. Besides the regular physical drill, Swimming Parades, Scouting and games of various kinds, special programmes were placed on the order of various days. On three different occasions, Chorus, "Welcome"; School Recitation, "A Speech of Welcome"; "Not Wanted," Milton Llewellyn and Vilma Reid; Duet, "It Isn't Any Trouble," Lexy Henderson and Ruth Condon; Recitation, "The Wise Owl"; Roy Clow; Dialogue, "Reading the News"; Recitation, "The Apple and the Pine"; Hazel McLaure and Wilent Reid; Chorus, "Happy Children"; School Recitation, "Kissing In the Street"; George Miller; Recitation, "A Tiny Tot"; Speech "Everett Condon"; Song, "We've Been to a Garage," by six girls; Recitation, "Remarks of an Small Boy"; Lawrence Irving; Dialogue, "Cousin Joshua"; Recitation, "A Morfifying Mistake"; Florence Gremes; Recitation, "Billy Gremes The Drovers," by Ruth Condon; Dialogue, "The Sick Old Man"; Recitation, "A Boys Wish," by Adolphus Condon; Recitation, "Dear old Browns Courtship" by Elleen McLaure; Monologue, "Auntie Dole's Visit," Irene Kennedy; Chorus, Vacation Time, School. The teacher received several useful gifts from the pupils. Many speeches of congratulations were made to the teacher and pupils and all present returned in the highest

MURRAY HARBOUR NORTH SCHOOL

The annual examination of Murray Harbour North School was held on Friday afternoon, June 27th. There were about thirty visitors present. The pupils were examined in the various subjects by their teacher Miss Mary McLeod, assisted by Mrs. Irving Millar and answered most satisfactorily. Then the following programme was executed after which the pupils and visitors were treated to candy by the teacher. The prize for attendance was awarded to Irene Kennedy and the prize for deportment to Preston McLaure. The teacher received several useful gifts from the pupils. Many speeches of congratulations were made to the teacher and pupils and all present returned in the highest
