

WESTERN CAPITAL.

The first day of the Twentieth Century was a Happy New Year for the people of Summerside for it saw the first steamer navigate our harbor in the month of January. The record made by the Northumberland last winter was easily broken, but had the Stanley been on this route last year there would doubtless have been a record made which would never be beaten. The last trip of the Northumberland last winter was made between this port and Point du Chene on Dec. 30th and during the balance of the season no one doubts but the Stanley could have kept open uninterrupted communication between this port and Cape Tormentine. This season however more severe weather is being experienced, yet we have entered upon January with good hopes of many more days of continuous communication with the mainland. The Stanley went over to the Cape as usual yesterday, having on board quite a number of excursionists, many of whom went to see the Straits and view Cape Tormentine pier, others went merely for the novelty of witnessing the record breaking trip.

The hockeyists held their first practice in the rink Monday evening.

CRYSTAL RINK opened for the season last night with a large attendance. The ice is in capital condition and a good season's skating is anticipated.

The "horribles" appeared yesterday in old time fashion. The Lime Kiln Club who had charge of the arrangements made a very good showing considering the short time in which they had to make preparations, having only begun the day previous. The chief local "hits" were of quite an interesting character and well carried out. The "wire-pulling" for the Stanley between the Boards of Trade of Charlottetown and Summerside was illustrated very amusingly, the telegrams and communications between the Boards and Sir Louis Davies being characteristic of what has been occupying the time of these people during the past few days, while each Board of Trade was holding its session and Sir Louis was shown "in a tight place." Comic speeches were made, and other laughable incidents entertained a great many of people who watched the performance on the principal streets of the town.
