TRINITY UNITED CHURCH
Rev. Hugh Millar was absent from his pulpit this Sunday, attending a Missionary Conference in Toronto, and the message at both services was brought by Rev. L. M. Murray.

In the morning Rev. Mr. Murray spoke from Jeremiah 17:27. In his address he pointed out the tendency of the modern materialistic age to trust in man rather than in God with the result that the spirit of prayer is lost and morals are weakened. The need of the age is greater trust in God. The evening service centered in the theme "A Great Decision". The minister pointed out the need for us to seek our convictions by humbly seeking Jesus's way of life and of making our decision to live in Christ and for Christ. When, by faith, we make this choice we find something that challenges and brings out the best in our natures.

At the morning service the choir sang the Anthem: "Hear Them, in Love" by Wooler. Miss Doris Tait rendered the solo part in her usual pleasing way. The evening Anthem was "O Come Every One That Trusteth"—Read in which Mr. Harvey MacPherson was the soloist. Mr. A. R. Kendall was at the console after his recent illness.

Those Who Try To Escape Thinking
By Rom Landau

Besides the power there is also the terror of thought. Had my early education been less illusory I might always have known that truisms. Although I had a natural respect for thought, it took me years before I could overcome the fear, almost terror, inherent in every genuine attempt at thought.

Almost everybody experiences that fear without admitting it to himself. We acknowledge it by trying to escape thinking. Wireless, movies, gramophone, the daily newspaper and magazine would not be so popular if we did not suffer from the horror of thought. Formerly when you were at home by yourself, you could not help thinking every now and then. Now, all manner of illusions are at hand to prevent thought. The more fantastic the substitute the less conducive to thought—the more welcome it becomes.

The main reason for our fear of thought is its difficulty. We are afraid, too, that our illusions may be destroyed. For to replace requires one of the most difficult decisions in human life, the establishment of personal opinions, and the taking of responsibility upon ourselves. Thought is the beginning of true creation, and all creation is painful—whether it be the birth of a child, of a symphony or of an idea.

By effort alone we overcome the horror of thought. Even though thought tries to escape from the circle of concentration, fluttering like a wild bird in a cage. All we feel relieved to let go, returning to thoughtless drifting. Yet the joy we derive from making our thought creative does not merely seem a joy but is one; it is not momentary but remains with us.

Without a certain training all effort may be of little value. I discovered that the moments before sleep and immediately after awakening in the morning were particularly propitious to thinking. Thoughts that came at those times were often of a more original nature and greater depth than during the rest of the day. I began to cultivate those moments. I would either make an effort to concentrate, bringing scraps of unexpected thoughts to some definite end, or I made a note of them so that I might develop them during the day.

The next best times for thinking I found to be during walks. I have always suspected that the mechanical action of walking takes away our attention from the body and allow us to devote to ourselves entirely to thought.

We ought to try never to return from a walk without developing some thought. At first our thoughts may seem to tumble over one another. No single thought seems to have enough strength to live on for any length of time. Gradually, however, we succeed in bringing a chosen thought to its conclusion, or more frequently a new thought emerges. This sets the key for the rest of the walk. If the thought is simple leave it as it first came to you. To be conscious of its unexpected richness makes it real and, thus, lasting.

GEESSE VANGUARD ARRIVES
"Vanguard" the annual northward migration of Canada geese had already reached this Province, game officials announced over the week end. Approximately 100 birds were reported in the St. Peter's Island-Charley Bay area, within a radius of 12 miles of here as early as March 18th. Recent severe frosts had frozen marshes and fields which were showing no signs of spring. A brief period of mild weather early in the month and the geese were having difficulty obtaining food. It was said, in recent years geese had come in from the north and while native ruffed grouse and Hungarian partridge were said to have survived the winter season remarkably well. Unless some unexpected little further snow or ice Island gunners were believed assured of plenty sport next autumn.

"YOU CAN'T EXPECT ORDINARY SOAPS TO PROTECT YOU FROM 'B.O.' AS LIFEBOUY DOES"

E. C. SHERMAN, Buffalo Salesman, relates sad experience with ordinary soap

MR. SHERMAN IS RIGHT... He has learned from experience that no ordinary soap stops "B.O." as Lifebuoy does. He made the mistake of thinking any kind of soap kept him fresh for his daily contacts... But now he knows that a daily Lifebuoy shower is a real business asset.

Just try your bathing with Lifebuoy and see if you don't agree with him. The chances are you'll never go back to ordinary soap. For no ordinary soap stops "B.O." as Lifebuoy does... No ordinary soap gives you the same pepped-up, extra-clean feeling Lifebuoy does. And you are extra clean, you know. For Lifebuoy contains an exclusive purifying ingredient not in any other popular bath or toilet soap.

Lifebuoy is grand for the complexion, too. It is thorough and it is mild—by test Lifebuoy is over 20% milder than many leading "beauty" and "baby" soaps. Get the Lifebuoy habit—for bath, complexion, and hands!

More women, men and children bathe with Lifebuoy than with any other soap

THE BAPTIST CHURCH
At the morning service the Rev. Harvey L. Denton, B.D., delivered another of the Lenten sermons in the series "Before Calvary—And After", his theme for the morning being "Before Calvary—Wrath over Wrong". In Matthew 21:13 are the words of Jesus: "It is written My house shall be called the house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of thieves." He drove out those who were unworthily using the house of prayer, one against a multitude, perhaps aided by the conscience of the offenders. Perhaps by the presence of a hitherto unexpressed public opinion, certainly by the holy wrath of the Christ.

The Prince of Peace demonstrated the wrath of God against a plainly seen sin. Where right and wrong are diametrically opposed, a holy allegiance to the one, a holy wrath against the other is our duty. It may be that the dishonest traders in the temple had offered prayer there. But in their activities they were opening the way for the cheap and unworthy to drive out the sincere devotion and worship.

Eight Persons Drowned In Spring Flood
DAWSON OREK, B. C., March 26—Trapped in a sudden flood of the ice-laden Pine and Murray Rivers, eight persons drowned, nearly a dozen suffered exposure and shock and further threat of damage remained tonight in the tiny hamlet of East Pine, 50 miles west of here and 600 miles northwest of Edmonton. Food and medical supplies have been sent to the district.

Heavy rains in the mountains, washing down ice and debris, sent death swirling upon the hamlet about dawn Saturday. Until today few details of the tragedy could be learned.

The flood swept away a home carrying to their deaths Mr. and Mrs. Warren, three of their children—Jean, 12; Pearl, 10; Ada, six—and three of their grandchildren—Don Lamont, three; Raymond, two and Ernest, one.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Lamont, parents of the three Warren grandchildren, escaped but, caught and bruised in the torrent, were unable to rescue their only child—Mrs. Lamont is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren.

Two other Warren children, Edith, 16, and Bert, 20, escaped. Edith was found four hours after the Warren home was swept away. She was clinging in night attire to branches of a tree she climbed. Bert swam and dragged himself to safety along a telephone wire.

ST. JAMES CHURCH
At St. James Presbyterian Church yesterday both services were conducted by the minister the Rev. R. Moorhead Legate, D. D. In the morning he emphasized the primary importance of the Cross in the Christian religion. He took his text from St. John 20:32, "If I be lifted up from the earth shall draw all men unto me. This he said signifying what death he should die." In the evening, taking his text from John 4:13 he reminded his hearers that man has spiritual needs and that they should be recognized so that the vital reserves will not be squandered in seeking happiness in outward circumstances when only communion with Christ will suffice. The special music consisted of the anthems "There Is A Green Hill Far Away", Somerset, and "The Lord Is My Shepherd", sung by the choir.

2 large apples
2 eggs
1-2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup milk

Method: Line a pie pan with a good rich pastry. Then cover the bottom with the apples which have been peeled, cored and finely chopped. Beat the egg yolks until they are thick, then add the sugar and beat again. Add the butter, mixing well and then the milk gradually. Pour this carefully over the apples and arrange strips of pastry, lattice fashion, over the top. Bake in a hot, 425 deg. F. oven for 10 minutes, then reduce the heat to 350 deg. F. and continue to bake for about 25 minutes longer, until the filling is set.

Beat the egg whites until they are light, then add gradually 4 tablespoons sugar and beat to a meringue. Add 1-4 cup or so of finely chopped nuts, and drop by spoonfuls over the top of the pie. Brown in a slow oven... and it's fit for a king!
