Guardian phone rings are No. 133 news 132-2 Subscriptions; 132-3 Advertising. Patrons will save their own time and that of the Guardian staff by asking for the above numbers only.

Many will be pleased to learn that Wm. Patrick of Hampton, who had a severe attack of paralysis a few weeks ago, is improving rapidly and is expected to regain his usual strength in a short time.

On Thursday 28th will be held in St. Paul's schoolroom, under the auspices of the Royal Circle of the King's Daughters, a violet tea with candy table also cake and fancy table. Admission 5 cents children under twelve years of age free. Afternoon tea 15 cents.

The marriage took place on Nov 13, 1907, at the home of J.F. and Mrs L.W. of Hyde Park, Mass., of Miss Emma C. Smith, daughter of the late James Smith, of Kensington, to E. V. Vrsdenburgh, of Boston. Rev. G. W. Lamson, D. D. of the First Baptist Church officiated. Mr and Mrs Vrsdenburgh will reside at 140 Concord St. Boston. The bride enters upon her new life attended by the best wishes of her many Island friends.

A correspondent tells the Guardian that last week he saw a farmer cutting a field of grain on the ice with a mowing machine. It appears that the whole field like many others had been completely flooded by recent rains and thick ice formed by the severe frost of last week. The grain although scarcely ripe was in every other respect in good condition. This is only one of the different conditions which grain has been harvested in this Province this season.

Frank H. Wilson, wholesale and commission dealer in lobsters and fresh fish at 176 Atlantic Avenue, Boston, is desirous of securing shipments from Prince Edward Island as will be seen by his ad. In order to secure the highest prices, it is to the advantage of the shipper to secure from the firm the particulars as to the best way to ship and Mr. Wilson, who is an expert in this line of goods, will be delighted to correspond with provincial shippers and buy their fish for which returns will be made each day.

What might have been a disastrous fire took place at Crapaud on November 14th when Mark Trowsdale's son Edward aged five years took six armfuls of kindling and filled the stove full then put the balance around the stove and set fire to it all. When Mr. Trowsdale came in the whole part of the room near the stove was on fire. It was soon extinguished, but if he had not come in when he did it might have been dangerous, as he is surrounded by churches and dwelling houses and carries no insurance himself.

The death took place at Orwell on Thursday, Nov. 14th of Mildred Ruth daughter of Malcolm R. McLeod, at the age of two years and four months. For a fortnight previous to her death she suffered severely from acute meningitis to which she succumbed. She was an exceptionally bright and attractive child and the sympathy of the community goes out to the sorrowing parents in their loss and bereavement. The funeral which took place on Saturday was largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. A. J. MacNell of Murray River.

The marriage took place Tuesday morning, Nov. 19th, in the St. Patrick's church Fort Augustus of Miss Josephine McDonald to Patrick Kelly. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. J. McDonald, while Miss Belle McDonald acted as bridesmaid. The groomsmen were John Joe Mooney. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to Auburn then returned to the bride's home where dinner was daintily served. After a pleasant time with their friends they then drove to their future home amidst the best wishes of a large circle of friends. A large number of presents were received.

Monday's St. John Globe says:--This evening the Methodist churches of the city will make their first move in connection with the winter immigration campaign which was inaugurated here last winter. Rev. Thomas Marshall, of P. E. Island, who was last year in charge of the work, will meet the clergymen and laymen of the city churches this evening in the Exmouth street church and plans for the coming winter port season will be made. Last year each of the steamers arriving here with immigrants was met by the commissioners Revs. Thos. Marshall and H. D. Marr, and Bibles and other religious literature were distributed in large quantities. Many immigrants were materially helped, and every encouragement was given for the continuance of the work. As Rev. Mr. Marshall is not now in the city, a successor will be appointed to undertake his work for the coming winter.

The attention of Guardian readers is called to Mills Bros. adv. which appears in this issue. Already over one half of the large stock of high grade pianos bought from the late firm, have been disposed of. Anyone who wishes to secure a good instrument at a low figure should attend this sale.

Owing to the enormous amount of time and expense necessary in book keeping and making out small accounts as well as mailing and collecting same, The Guardian has decided that in future all ordinary amounts under one dollar will be accepted on a cash in advance basis and ten per cent discount given, except to those who have a regular advertising account who will still have the privilege of monthly credit.

The shippers of smelts and eels from this Province are asked to send their consignments to Joseph A. Rich & Co., at 184 Atlantic Ave., Boston, as the firm will pay the highest prices and make daily returns. Their ad will appear in the Guardian soon, and in the meantime all information will be cheerfully given and stenils sent on application. As prices are now good in the Boston markets shippers should export their goods early.

The many friends of our old friend Rev. J. J. Teasdale says the Wesleyan will be glad to learn that his health has been so far restored as to enable him still to do some good work in the Master's vineyard. Residing in London, Ont., he was lately called to preach anniversary sermons at St. Mary's. This is what they say about him: "Sunday and Monday, October 27th and 28th, were anniversary days. Though the weather was unfavorable for the Sabbath services, yet large congregations were in attendance, morning, afternoon and evening. The light congregation taxed our large church to the utmost. Rev. J. J. Teasdale, of London, a man honored and beloved, especially by the Methodists of the Maritime Provinces, captivated the hearts of all. He is equally at home whether preaching to children or adults. His sermons have left a deep impression." Long may he flourish, and soon may he come to see his friends in the East.--Rev. Mr. Teasdale has many friends in this Province.

NOTICE!

On account of the advanced prices of produce, wages and living expenses, we have found it necessary to slightly advance our prices. In the past, farmers who came to the city for a day and who get their dinner with us, have been given free stall and attendance for their horse. On and after Dec. 1st, 1907 we have decided to charge 10 cents for stall and attendance and 25 cents for dinner. Raymond Sells, Morell House. A. F. Murphy, North American House.
