(LATER):

On the orders of the day:

Hon. Mr. Hanson (York-Sunbury): Mr. Speaker, on a question of privilege, on May 16 I put a series of questions to the ministry relating to certain prosecutions which have been carried on by the excise branch of the Department of National Revenue in the province of Prince Edward Island—twelve identical questions relating, however, to three different prosecutions. Questions 1, 2, 3 and 4 have been answered today, but I am denied the answers to questions 5 to 12 inclusive on the alleged ground that "it is not considered to be in the public interest to answer these questions at the present time for the reason that the case is still before the courts."

What are the questions?

5. What counsel fees have been paid to date and to whom?
6. What witness fees have been paid to date?
7. What other costs have been paid in this case?
8. What further fees or costs have been incurred but not yet paid?
9. What will be the total cost to the federal treasury of these proceedings?
10. Has the attorney general of the province of Prince Edward Island been requested to prosecute in this case? If so, has he acted?
11. Has there been more than one trial of this case, and if so, how many?
12. Why were the proceedings taken by way of indictment, instead of by summary conviction under the appropriate part of the criminal code?

I suggest that I am denied the privileges of a member of parliament. I am entitled to have that information notwithstanding that the case may be under appeal.

HANSARD MAY 26:

On the orders of the day:

Hon. R. B. HANSON: Mr. Speaker, yesterday, on a question of privilege, I adverted to the fact that, with respect to questions 9, 10 and 11, which I had on the order paper on May 16, the Minister of National Revenue (Mr. Gibson), answered only four questions in a series of twelve, leaving eight unanswered, with the notation that it is not considered to be in the public interest to answer these questions at the present time for the reason that the case is still before the courts. That, by some stretch of the imagination, might be applicable to questions 8 and 9, but I do submit that I am entitled to answers to questions 5, 6, 7, 10, 11 and 12. I want to know what counsel fees have been paid to date in relation to these cases; what witness fees have been paid to date; what other costs have been paid. Then I do want to know whether the attorney general was requested to prosecute these cases and whether he acted, and has there been more than one trial of these cases and, if so, how many. Then finally and vitally, why were the proceedings taken by way of indictment instead of by summary conviction under the appropriate part of the criminal code. I am entitled to answers to these questions.

Hon. C. W. G. GIBSON (Minister of National Revenue): When the hon. member was speaking on this matter yesterday I did not notice that he said:

I am entitled to have that information notwithstanding that the case may be under appeal."

I would point out that these cases are not under appeal. The cases came on for trial before a jury some time ago; I understand that the jury disagreed, and the cases are coming on for trial again next month. It is considered not to be in the public interest that the answers asked for should be made public at this time nor before a jury trial. While there is no objection to the hon. member himself having that information, I do not think it should be made public property at this time.

Mr. HANSON (York-Sunbury): I respectfully dissent from the whole attitude of the minister. What possible effect could the cost of these trials to the public have on an approaching jury trial?

Large Attendance At Corpus Christi Procession Yesterday

The annual Corpus Christi procession was held yesterday and it is estimated that upwards of 5,000 people participated in it. The impressive and colourful procession moved off shortly after 11 o'clock from St. Dunstan's Basilica and was joined by the parishioners of the Holy Redeemer parish at Richmond Street.

The various parish societies, each with their banners, added color to the vast procession. The League of the Cross Band was in attendance, and members of the armed forces formed a guard of honour to the Blessed Sacrament.

On this occasion His Excellency Bishop Boyle celebrated his first Pontifical Mass. He was assisted by the Very Rev. R. V. MacKenzie as high priest, Rev. J. A. Sullivan and Rev. George MacDonald as deacons of honour; Rev. R. G. Ellsworth as deacon of the Mass, Rev. J.P. O'Hanley as sub deacon. Rev. Louis A. Dougan was master of ceremonies.

The procession was to Notre Dame Academy, where from an altar erected on the veranda Bishop Boyle gave the Benediction.

CROP REPORT

WINNIPEG, Man., June 9—The early season picture of moisture deficiency has entirely changed and from only a few areas come reports that moisture is not sufficient to carry grain until heading out commences. Cool, cloudy weather with heavy rains blanketed practically all of the grain growing areas of Western Canada. Precipitation varied from under one inch to as much as 3.5 inches. Some low land is flooded and will require to be reseeded with coarse grains.

Outworms are working in widely scattered areas but the heavy rainfall has minimized their activities. Early sown wheat is now fully 8 inches in height and stooling profusely. Crops are showing uniform growth and good colour. Moderate warm weather is now needed to promote growth.

A heavy yielding hay crop is now assured and fodder from this source will be abundant, according to the weekly crop report of the department of agriculture of the Canadian National Railways.

New "Hospital On Wheels" Now In Service

"It is definitely the last word in hospital cars and I know the troops will appreciate it", stated Colonel, The Honorable J. L. Ralston, C.M.G., D.S.O., K.C., Minister of National Defence, when he and a group of high ranking army officers completed their inspection in Ottawa of the fourth hospital car built by the Canadian National Railways. The air-conditioned "hospital on wheels" was later released to the R.C.A.M.C. for service.

In July, 1940, Canadian National Railways delivered the first hospital car of this war, and each succeeding car included improvements and new features so that the fourth type prompted Colonel Ralston to say: "Certainly not a single thing has been missed in facilities, convenience and comfort and I think it is a great credit to the Canadian National."

The new car has accommodation for twenty-eight patients and is air-conditioned. A soft color scheme was used for the interior, the walls being in sea green and the ceiling in white. For the exterior, standard Canadian National passenger car green is used with black underframe and roof. Col. E. L. Stone, of Ottawa, Medical Adviser in the Directorate of Movements, designed the interior layout in co-operation with medical officers and car experts of the National System.

The photographs show—top—P. M. Buttler, Chief Representative, C.N.R., Ottawa, on behalf of R. C. Vaughan, Chairman and President, handing the keys for the hospital car to Colonel Ralston. Others are, left to right—G. McCready, general foreman, Montreal car shops, C.N.R., where the car was built; Col. G. C. Currie, Deputy Minister of National Defence (Army); Col. E. L. Stone; Mr. Buttler; Brigadier H. J. B. Keating, Deputy Quartermaster General; Colonel Ralston; and Dr. K. E. Dowd, Chief Medical Officer, C.N.R., Montreal. (Lower left)— Colonel Ralston is seen attaching the extension cord for the call bell system for one of the beds in the air-conditioned "ward." (Lower right)—As the "hospital on wheels" came out of the Montreal shops it was inspected by railway officials, among whom were, left to right, Mr. Vaughan; N. B. Walton, C.B.E., Executive Vice-President; G. E. McCoy, assistant chief of car equipment; and Lt.-Col. S. Perron, Assistant District Medical Officer, Montreal. Mr. McCoy is explaining the design of continuous construction of beds, which have the drop side safety guards for upper berths.
