IN MEMORIAM

MR. CHARLES ROBERTSON

By the death of Charles Robertson in his 68th year, a good place is left vacant in the settlement of Brudenell, where he was born and where he lived on his good farm alongside the Montague River two years ago, when, owing to a sudden breakdown in health, and his only son enlisting for service overseas, he was compelled to give up his work. He then came to Montague and was residing in the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Green where he had every comfort. Little did he think when retiring to rest, on the night of Feb. 8th that it was to be his last earthly rest, but such it proved to be for before dawn he had entered into his eternal rest. In the still watch of the night the call came, the silver cord was loosed, and his spirit passed out into that Great Beyond from which no traveller ever returns.

Mr. Robertson was a successful farmer, always looking to the needs of his stock, and providing well for the comforts of his family. Honest and upright in all things, he held the respect of the community where he had lived, and was a loyal member of the Montague Christian Church. Although he was a person of retiring disposition, he always enjoyed social contact with his acquaintances and held a warm and lasting friendship with his personal friends.

The funeral was from the Montague Christian Church, and the service conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Richardson assisted by the Rev. Mr. Waterworth.

After paying a fitting tribute to the stirring will and Christian life of the deceased, and reading a portion of scripture, Mr. Richardson then preached the following sermon based on those lines: "Moses my servant is dead; now therefore, arise, go over this Jordan thou and all this people; and I will with thee, and I will be with thee; never shall I leave thee, nor forsake thee." The hymns sung were: "The Lord's My Shepherd," and "Abide With Me." By special request, Mrs. Wm. Garside sang a lovely solo.

Mr. Robertson had always taken a great interest in the keeping of the Brudenell cemetery in a good and pleasant condition and gave a lot of his labor towards that end. A large funeral followed his remains to the cemetery where burial took place alongside his wife who passed on 16 years ago, and a son in early boyhood.

Interment was by Rev. Mr. Richardson, W. D. Johnston, Wm. Stewart.

He is survived by one son, Athol, in England; two daughters, Isabel and Hazel, holding positions in Ontario, were able to get home to attend the funeral, but left on return shortly after, taking with them all sincere sympathy of their many friends.

Novel War Picture

LONDON, March 5—(CP Cable)—A Canadian colonel was the subject of a novel war picture in London newspapers today.

With a trench-coated companion he was shown approaching a farmhouse at the front, minus his pants. He sat soaked in the Mas River floods, but as the Daily Mirror said in its caption, "that did not dry up his enthusiasm." He came on a ruined farmhouse and off came his trousers. While they dry he carries on in his underwear.

The British and American army daily, titled the picture "On the Wet Front."

The security and other reasons, the colonel must remain unidentified. Perhaps he always will.

Says Railways Canada's Lifeline During Wartime

MONTREAL, Que., Mar. 3—"Our railways are more than industrial enterprises. They are the very life line of the nation." This according to N. B. Walton, C.B.E. executive vice president Canadian National Railways, is one of the lessons Canadians can and should draw from the domestic history of the war. "If ever again Canadians stand idly by and permit their railways to experience unwise economic straits, they are doing themselves a disservice," he said.

Speaking at a meeting in Montreal last night, Mr. Walton said that by any measurement, the Canadian Railways had done a job in the war that no other railway or combination of railways had surpassed and that few had equalled. And they had undertaken their

Disagree Jazz Is "Dying Duck"

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, March 4—(CP)—In a nice paternal way, Paul Whiteman disagrees with Artie Shaw's statement that jazz as an art form is a "dying duck."

"I'm a little bit of a trouble maker," said the King of Jazz, a little pessimistic "but I think he's a little optimistic."

The clarinet-toting stormy petrel of the music world had called contemporary band leaders "incompetents who have found a market for mediocrity in the wartime appetite for popular music."

"Well, I wouldn't call Harry James, Jimmy Dorsey and Tommy Dorsey incompetents," said Whiteman, naming a few contemporary artists. Even if the quality has fallen off somewhat during the war, he added, great hope for the future is offered by accomplished army and navy orchestras.

"I know that whatever I may have achieved in music is due to the experience I got in the army," he declared. Whiteman organized army bands at Mare Island during the last war. "Musicians in this war have been doing marvelous work, and they will raise the standard of popular music when they get out of the army and navy."

Here's a note to jam session addicts: Whiteman says jam sessions and swing concerts will go on to kill them to promote jazz as an art.

NORTH MELTON SEWING AND KNITTING CLUB

Mrs. Alton Reed and Mrs. Lester Johnston entertained the Sewing and Knitting Club for their recent meetings.

On February 16th, Mrs. Reed's home was very tastefully arranged and decorated for a social Valentine meeting and auction sale and on March 1st the club met with Mrs. Johnston.

The meetings opened by singing "O Canada" followed by "The Lord's Prayer," the minutes of previous meetings were read and adopted and an average of seventeen members and five visitors were present.

Four sweaters and five pairs of gloves were passed in and some yarn distributed. Two quilts are being prepared for quilts.

Bills amounting to $65 for supplies were paid.

A very successful auction sale took place under the capable auctioneering of Mrs. Alton Reed. Bidding was brisk and the sum of $30.44 was realized. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the hostess and to all those who though not members of the club had so kindly helped to make the auction sale a success.

It was moved and seconded the $30.44 be paid from the funds to the Red Cross C. J. Palma which is now in progress.
