Blizzard Disrupts Bell Centenary Plans

BADDECK, N. S., March 3—(CP)—A blizzard sweeping in from the Atlantic covered Alexander Graham Bell's grave with four feet of snow today and cancelled a picture presentation-only ceremony scheduled in connection with the centenary of the famous inventor in this picturesque little Cape Breton town where he died. The blizzard also disrupted telegraph communication but this was carried on the 200-mile Baddeck-Halifax leg of its distribution to newspapers by Bell's most outstanding invention—the telephone. It had been planned that the 200 children who attend Baddeck

Academy would gather in the assembly hall for a presentation of a photograph of Dr. and Mrs. Bell who had spent many years at their nearby estate of Bellin Breagh. But the blizzard temporarily closed down the school and the presentation will be made at a later date. Meanwhile F. W. (Casey) Baldwin, one of the Empire's pioneers in aviation and an associate of Dr. Bell in his early aerial experiments, said the enforced quiet of the celebration of the centenary here would be "much to Mr. Bell's liking." Mr. Baldwin is the present occupant of the Bell home and he recalled that Dr. Bell never did like ceremonies.

HUGE SPAN
Calcutta has one of the world's largest cantilever span bridges—the new Howrah Bridge—with the span measuring 1,500 feet.

SAVED HIS DOG

Larry Campbell, 9, of Los Angeles, had $4 saved up toward a $40 operation needed by his dog "Spike," badly injured by a hit-run driver. He asked one of his city's newspapers for a job selling papers to augment the sum, but instead officials of the paper contributed the $41 and here is Larry and "Spike" in a joyous "after-operation" reunion.

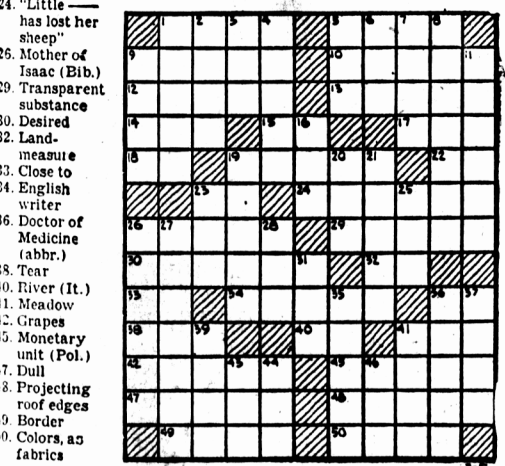

Women have always been respected in France. The professions are all open to them and many have obtained important positions with the trade unions. Girls often receive a more thorough education than American girls and take their studies more seriously because their future work often depends on difficult Civil Service examinations.
