Ability To See Comfortably

The object of a modern eye service is to enable patients to see comfortably. That means seeing without strain on the eyes. And also the avoidance of many bodily results of eye strain. That thought deserves the consideration of all who are not certain of the condition of their eyes.

Its Ethiopia, Not Abyssinia

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Aug. —(CP)—When it became evident to the world that Benito Mussolini intended invading Haile Selassie's country in northeast Africa, more than one critic said the newspapers called this country Ethiopia just because it was a better "headline" word than Abyssinia. But the critics were wrong.

Although Ethiopia and Abyssinia have been used synonymously for centuries, Ethiopia is the correct name. The county and people prefer and use Ethiopia which is from the Greek, meaning land of the burnt-face people. As such it was used by the earliest classical Greek writters to refer to all lands inhabited by negroes.

Abyssinia is derived from the Arabic word "Habesha," which means confusion. As the Arabs use it with reference to Ethiopia, it means mongrel.

In Biblical times Ethiopia was known as the Land of Kush. The people were among the earliest of Christians. When early scholars translated the Bible from the Greek into Ethiopia, the name Ethiopia was definitely given the people and the Hebrew word Kush was translated Ethiopia.

Apples Bursting As Result of Heat

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 1—Yellow transparents, the soft "harvest" apples which are appearing in quantity just now, have shown a peculiar tendency to burst around the centre line this year. The effect is attributed to the excessive heat and humidity.

The apples burst even after they are placed on display in stores. Fruit men say that yellow transparents often suffer skin breakage during growth but that this year's apples are the first they can recall which broke the skin after picking.

Devouring Unripe Grain To Keep From Starving

CHUNGSIANG, Hupeh, July 31—(A.P.)—Flood survivors, swarming like locusts on the uplands behind this stricken city, devoured unripe grain today to save themselves from starvation.

Relief from Hankow was 300 miles away and coming slowly.

The emaciated, ragged survivors, sometimes in bands 1,000 strong, worked away gradually from Chungsiang, where the dead seem to lie everywhere, the bodies of men, women and children mingled with those of animals.

The Han River, which brought unprecedented disaster to valley dwellers when it rose 20 feet in a few hours during the night of July 7 was still flooding the territory.

It was apparent that rice would never mature.

Deprived of food or hope of food, until relief arrives, the starving hordes in the uplands stopped to eat wherever they could find food. They did not plunder or steal. They announced to inhabitants of villages they entered: "We come to eat."

Meanwhile, from the Manchouko-Korea border and northward, another multitude of flood sufferers was counting its dead by hundreds. Rengo, the Japanese News Agency, estimated more than 1,000 perished in the floods and Monday's typhoon. But the worst was over, the waters had dropped two feet at Chiaotou, approximately 100 miles from Mukden.

The Mukden-Antung line reported that a passenger train had overturned while entering the railway yards, but details were not available.

Biggest Find

Which do you think is the biggest fruit? You might say the coconut, and you wouldn't be far wrong—but it is a special kind of coconut that claims this distinction. It is the Coco de mer (See Coconut, or Double Coconut, as it is sometimes called.)

This huge fruit grows on palm trees in the Seychelles, in the Indian Ocean, and weight about forty pounds. It takes four years to grow to its full size, and another six years to become ripe. Inside a thick, fibrous coat there are from one to three large nuts.

Curiously enought, these nuts were known to European travellers before any of them had seen the trees on which they grow, in the sea before the Seychelles were discovered i nthe eighteenth century.

Police Seek Ex-Suitor In Brutal Slaying

(A.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

CHICAGO, July 31 — Police of three states tonight joined in a search for a disappointed suitor suspected of the mutilation slaying of Dr. Walter J. Bauer, 38 year old bridegroom of three weeks.

Dr. Bauer, a chemistry technician osteopath, died early today in the Jackson Park Hospital. In a dying statement he told the police he had been kidnapped at Ann Arbor, Mich., where he was taking a post graduate course at the University of Michigan, and forced to drive his abductor to Chicago in his own car.

It was in this automobile where, in a desolate section of the south side, the kidnapper bound him hand and foot with oil stained rags and then performed a crude emasculating operation.

Three Junior Track Records Smashed

SYDNEY, N. S., July 31—Three junior records toppled here today as the Maritime track and field championships got under way before 30,000 people celebrating Sydney's 150th anniversary.

Blond Alva Thompson of Pictou set the first new mark of the meet when he pole-vaulted 11 feet 4 1-2 inches to better his own record by 1-4 inch.

Leslie Topshee of Sydney, interscholastic champion, broke Thompson's Maritime junior running high jump record by two inches with a mark of 5 feet 9 inches. Thompson placed second in this event.

The other record was credited to Miss E. MacKay, Sydney, who did 4 feet 3 1-2 inches in the women's junior running high jump. The former mark was 4 feet 1 inch.

Stars came through without any great stir in the senior events, which will be continued tomorrow. Aileen Meagher, Halifax, co-holder of the Canadian women's 200-metre record, won her favorite race easily from Theresa Jemmott, youthful Halifax runner making her debut in major competition.

The Irish colleen had a real battle in the 60-metre dash, however, beating Evelyn Jemmott by less than a yard after being left behind in her marks by the fast-breaking ace of the Halifax Ladies' Athletic Club.

Sensational Frank Nicks, Halifax, and Toph Hennebury, North Sydney won the preliminary heats of the senior century and furlong.

In an old graveyard in Maine there is a tombstone which bears the following inscription:

Here lies the body of Enoch Holden, who died unexpectedly and without warning by being kicked to death by a cow. Well done, good and faithful servant!

Much Interest In Jasper Park Golf Tourney

JASPER PARK LODGE, Alta., July 27—Never before in the history of Jasper golf has there been more interest than there is this year in the tenth annual Totem Pole tournament to be played here September 1st to 7th. Practically every city represented last year will be in again, with a great many registrations already made at the secretary's office. The tournament will start off with the man's handicap against par the first day. On Monday the qualifying rounds for both ladies and men will be played and flight play will follow. By the use of a special system an extra day of competitive play has been arranged.

Concurrently with the qualifying round the highly competitive international team matches are played and this competition has always proved one of the features of the tournament. Friday morning the ladies finals are all played and the mixed greensome, a very popular feature, is played in the afternoon. On Saturday the Totem flight finals are played with the Pole championship and the men's Totem Pole match scheduled for 36 holes. Saturday afternoon the ladies handicap match against par is played and later, in front of the lodge, in a most picturesque setting with Lac Beauvert as a background, the prizes will be presented by Hon. W. L. Walsh, Lieutenant Governor of Alberta.

The golf course is in excellent condition and offers a perfect test of good golf. A feature of golf week is the varied program which proves as popular for the high handicap player as it does with those who can flirt with par.

Bush May Return To Major Leagues

(A.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

MINNEAPOLIS, July 31—Owen (Donnie) Bush, fiery aggressive pilot of the Minneapolis baseball club, may return to the major leagues where he gained fame as a player and respect as a manager.

He has become no. 1 man among possible candidates to pilot Cleveland Indians in the American League, when, and if, Walter Johnson, present manager, is removed. Johnson's status is expected to be determined definitely at a board of directors meeting this weekend.

Billy Evans, general manager and vice president of the Indians, came here yesterday, ostensibly to watch the American Association all star game and look over talent. Afterward he conferred with Bush about the Cleveland job. Bush would not comment.

The majors are not new to Donnie. He broke into organized baseball as a kid of 18. And his 20th year of life found him in the majors with Detroit.

Wait a minute, thought. You'd better know yourself before you ask.

Georgius, the is the Latin form of George. Then follows the Roman V—for five. Dei Gra: stands fo Dei Gratia, meaning By the Grace of God (that is, the King is King by divine right). Next comes Britt: Omn: Rex—King of all the Britains. Fid: Def: is shot for Fidei Defensor (Defender of the Faith), and Ind: Imp: means Emperor of India.

No Kittens for Quints

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 1—Five tiny black kittens today were fondled by five Dionnes—but not the Dionne quintuplets.

The older sisters and brothers of the famous babies were given the kittens when Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe decided no animals will be allowed at the quintuplets' hospital home. The kittens were the gift of an unnamed donor.

The babies, 14 months and one day old, went through their usual routine today, putting on their "show" for visitors when they were placed on the verandah. Three of the five recorded weight gains since Friday.

Weights today and change since Friday:

	lbs.	oz.	Change in oz.
Yvonne	19	14	1 gain
Cecile	19	8¾	3¾ gain
Annette	19	7½	1 loss
Emilie	18	3	¼ loss
Marie	16	8½	1½ gain

Totals: 93 lbs. 9¾ oz.—5 oz. net gain.

The five kittens received by the Dionne family and given as playthings to the brothers and sisters of the Dionne quintuplets were born in one litter in this district on the first anniversary of the famous sisters. Jet black and perfectly formed, the kittens attracted the attention of Dr. Tancrede Fiset, of Quebec, who arranged their shipment to Callander in the hope they might become playmates of Yvonne, Cecile, Annette, Emilie and Marie.

COULD BEAT BRADDOCK

TORONTO, August 31—(CP)—Tommy Loughran, the old Philadelphia boxing master, believes he could win the heavyweight title tomorrow—or any day—if they would give him a chance against Jimmy Braddock. He wouldn't promise to beat Max Baer or Joe Louis, but Braddock he thinks would be easy for a good boxer.

Sally Eilers In "Alias Mary Dow" At Capitol

Tender love scenes, brilliant dialogue, subtle comedy, rapid fire action and superb acting combine to make Sally Eiler's newest starring universal film, "Alias Mary Dow," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre, one of the brightest dramas of the year.

They say comparisons are odious. But any role Miss Eilers plays must be compared to the one in "Bad Girl" which won for her the 1932 Academy award. In "Alias Mary Dow" she surpasses her work in "Bad Girl." She is more versatile, more finished. She has never been better than as the little waitress who gives up her identity to save the life of a woman she does not know.

Supporting Miss Eilers in the film, are Ray Mill and Henry O'Neill, Clarence Muse, Katharine Alexander; lovable Baby Jane clever three-and-one half-year old starlet; Lola Lane and Chick Chandler. The fine screen play and witty dialogue were written by Gladys Unger Rose Franken and Arthur Caesar.

The reveal the startling climax of the film would be to destroy your full enjoyment of it.

Kurt Neumann's direction leaves nothing to be desired. It is fast, sure and deft. Joe Valentine's photography is beautiful as always.

Symphony Draws Large Crowds to Toronto Stadium

By H. H. GORDON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Aug. 1—(CP)—The Promenade Symphony Concert — Toronto's weekly music carnival—has emerged from the experimental stage and expanded into a full-fledged popular attraction.

When Reginald Stewart, internationally known pianist and conductor, and a group of Toronto musicians in a venture of faith a little more than a year ago decided to introduce the world of symphony to the public at prices to suit the poorest pocket, the scheme was hailed with delight in musical circles. To many, however, the plan seemed too ambitious. [illegible] pessimists have been put to rout. Music-lovers of Toronto and vicinity, and thousands not so musical, have responded to the gesture in a manner that is phenomenal, to say the least.

The concerts have become an institution. Once every week a hockey stadium at the very portals of the decorous University of Toronto buzzes with thousands of people who hum the themes of some of the world's greatest compositions. As many as 7,500 persons have crowded into the auditorium and the average attendance is about 5,000.

In actual fact a new world has opened to the man on the street. One performance has turned detractors into enthusiasts. They sit entranced as the 100 musicians go through the movements of a work by Tschaikowsky or Dvorak or present as an encore the lilting ripples of a Strauss waltz.

Informality is at once the keynote. There is a bonhomie that extends from the occupants of the more favored seats down to the thousands of bleacherites packed at the far ends of the huge rink. A leading member of the judiciary, following the example of thousands more, doffs his coat in the midsummer heat as his young neighbor calmly puffs her cigarette between drinks of soda pop. Oblivious to this procedure a visitor behind betrays her nationality with guttural "Bravos" as the orchestra goes through a particularly intricate movement.

Hot weather does not affect the attendance at the "Proms." Six thousand fans crowded into the stadium at a recent performance when the mercury hovered near the 90 mark. White clad women and coatless men used programs for fans creating a remarkable wave-like effect in the dim light.

At the interval the doors are thrown open and there is a general rush to the spacious lawns surrounding the building while soft drink purveyors do their best to cope with thousands of thirsty customers.

The enthusiasm that prevails at the concerts is a notable feature. As Mr. Stewart takes his place for the opening number he invariably receives rounds of applause. After the hubbub subsides the performance starts. Possibly a Wagnerian overture is the first presentation, maybe a Schubert symphony. But it matters little; the huge audience follows with rapt attention as the young conductor carries the orchestra through a delightfully soft passage, then it rustles with anticipation as a crescendo precedes a crashing finale.

Visiting artists, some of international fame, are loud in their praise of this effort to popularize classical music. While eulogizing all remarked on the appreciation conductor and orchestra they have shown by the crowds, drawn as they are from so many strata of society.
