A TRILLING STORY

Of a Noble Man's Vow at New Wonderland To-night Also the Musical Cafe.

As weather conditions are uncertain and the boats depending on them, at time of writing it is impossible to state whether the Musical act is sure to be at New Wonderland tonight. But reference to the local column, which will tell the latest news will give the desired information. The new reel for tonight is:—

Vaquero's Vow, a strong, appealing story of a good man's love for a woman who does not return it. She is in love with a worthless man who thinks of nothing but enjoying himself and drinking. Vaquero tells her his love but is refused, and he registers a vow that should the man she loves prove unworthy he will protect and guard her always. The sequel of the story is worth coming to see at New Wonderland tonight. The remaining pictures are:—

The French Airship Republique.

The Olympic Marathon Race, 1908.

This is the final appearance here of the famous Indian in this race, so do not miss it. Mr. Allison sings "Yesterday" one of the most beautiful of illustrated ballads, and his magnificent voice was never heard to better advantage than in this grand song last night. Remember the Musical Cafe will be there if connections were made yesterday, and further news will be found about it in the news column. Five cents admission only to a show worth treble the money.

ACTRESS BRIDE MIXED ON DATE OF WEDDING

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.— Admirers of Fraulein Greta Haas, leading woman of the German Theatre, were astonished recently to hear that she had been married for a month to Paul Dupont, a French actor, now with the Lubin Company.

Still greater was the surprise when it became known that the marriage license issued to de Dupont bore the date of January 15, and that the bride would make no effort to clear up the seeming discrepancy.

"Why, I've been married since last December," she said, when seen at her home, 730 Norris street, yesterday afternoon. "I feel like an old married woman now."

But when asked how the license came to be issued last Friday, she refrained to say a word.

According to all theory of the drama, Miss Haas should have been the bride of Emmanuel Miller, the Swiss vice-consul in this city. It was he who came to her rescue so bravely four months ago, when the German Gazette published an article which he deemed disrespectful to the actress and a reflection on her character.

The night after it appeared Mr. Miller met Max Heinrici, editor of the offending publication, outside the German Theatre. Rushing up to him he planted his fist in Mr. Heinrici's face, destroying his eye-glasses and seriously damaging the editor's nose. For this the vice consul spent several hours in a police station, but was solaced by the sympathetic presence of Miss Haas, who remained with him until her champion could be bailed out.

On the stage, of course, Miss Haas should have married Mr. Miller, but it was only a short time after this that she met de Dumont. Then followed an ardent courtship, and then the wedding in—well, either December or January.

Mrs. de Dupont has been with the German Theatre for two seasons. She has appeared in the title role of Oscar Wilde's "Salome," doing the dancing as well as the acting part.

EYE OPERATION WITH STRONG MAGNET

ANN ARBOR, Mich., January 26.— D. B. Dayhuff, of Cadillac, is at the Homepathic hospital, where he had just undergone a remarkable and delicate operation

Two weeks ago one of Dayhuff's fellow workmen was pounding a steel nail held in a vice when a splinter entered Dayhuff's eyeball. Cadillac physicians told him it would be necessary to remove the eyeball.

Finally he came to the hospital here under the care of Dr. D. W. Meyers, who decided to use a magnet of great power to remove the steel. As there was nothing here of sufficient power, an electro magnet was ordered powerful enough to lift a 400-pound bar of iron. With this magnet Dr. Meyers worked an hour before his efforts were rewarded by the little splinter flying from the eyeball to the magnet.

First the steel was drawn from the back part of the lens into the forward chamber, then a small puncture was made, and through the opening, after much manipulation, the surgeon was able to coax the piece of steel to the magnet.

It is thought the sight will not be impaired.

COAL FAMINE IN WESTERN CANADA

OTTAWA, January 26. — The week's condensed reports of Western conditions received from the agents of the Department of the Interior show that:

"The first three weeks of the new year have been very cold all over the Western provinces and are pronounced the coldest of the season. As a natural consequence the fuel question has assumed an importance exceeding in interest the question of freight transportation. The change was so quick and to such extreme low temperatures at some points that consumer and producer were caught unprepared.

"At Macleod it is reported that owing to the severe weather and the extra demand for fuel coal is scarce and not a pound to be had.

"At Calgary there is also a shortage and prices have gone up.

"As a natural result the prices are running short also and mine owners are short handed as self-protection against the working of the Workman's Compensation Act of the Provincial Government recently brought into operation.

"The same condition has brought about a like result in Edmonton, where the shortage has caused a failure to fill orders for outside points.

"At Strathcona the coal supply is quite firm, but the dealers claim the advance in prices is not due to their desire to take advantage of the increased demand but to protect themselves against loss through the operation of the Provincial Compensation Act above-mentioned.

"At Lethbridge all miners are working double shifts and although the most pressing orders have been received from Montana for coal all such orders have been refused by the operators because of their desire to fill the demand from the Canadian West.

"Contrary to information given out all winter by the coal dealers at Calgary, the severe cold weather has brought to light in an uncomfortable manner the fact that a shortage exists and dealers have raised prices accordingly.

"No complaints are received from the Province of Manitoba."

VIRGINIA'S GIANT ATHLETE IS A SEVEN FOOTER

Husky Young Southerner Rejected on Football Team Because He Was Too Light for His Height.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 26. — To be the tallest athlete in the world does not necessarily mean to be the greatest athlete in the world. While in the branches of sport, such as running, baseball and tennis, height is of great moment, yet in football, rowing and other sports it is more or less of a hindrance, especially when the height is over 6 feet 6 inches.

William Harold Lipscomb, of Manassas, Va., is seven feet, lacking one inch, and is the tallest candidate for athletic honors in the world today, but in football at the University of Virginia, where he was a candidate for the team, he was found too light for his height.

He is a remarkably built man, of large bone and sinew, and of great muscles, which are as yet undeveloped, he being under 22 years of age. Football, while it requires men of certain height in the lines, does not need men who by their height would be working rather at a disadvantage than an advantage.

History has shown that, barring Hare of Pennsylvania Chadwick, McBride, and Coy, of Yale, Hildebrand and Wheeler, of Princeton, there are few men who have gained great reputations as football players who have not been considered small men. Adee and Daly, of Harvard, Desaulles and Hinckley, of Yale, the invincible Poes of Princeton, go to the head of the list, which is large, of pigmies who have been heroes on the gridiron.

Lipscomb, of Virginia, is exceedingly quick on his feet for a man of his height, and seems especially fitted to be a great baseball pitcher or tennis player. The advantage of his enormous reach in tennis is most telling when serving a ball, as the angle from where he strikes the ball to the net would be greatly increased over a swift and accurate serve would be easy, compared with that of his smaller opponent. Again, in reaching for balls across the court, and for playing at the net he would be most efficient. As it is he expects to play tennis this spring, and it would not be surprising to find in a short while at the head of the list of tennis players in the southern states.

OUGHT TO BE A FINE PITCHER.

He seems also especially fitted to be a baseball pitcher. Like the great "Dutch" Carter, of Yale, he would be able to throw a ball with enormous velocity on account of the greater arc which he would be able to make with his arm in delivering a ball. He did not make the place as a regular on the University of Virginia football team this season because of his great height, it being suggested that his legs got in their own way, which is, in a measure true; then, in running with the ball in football, a man of such height is more easily thrown than a short, stocky runner. While, of course, this does not enter so much into the play of the men who are in the "line," yet there are times when they do have to carry the ball.

The country is greatly interested in this tallest athlete in the world, William Lipscomb, and watching with interest the development of this youth, whose athletic powers promise to be remarkable.

Most Canadians Have Catarrh

Our Changeable Climate is Responsible.

Where the atmosphere is damp, with sudden changes in temperature, almost everybody has Catarrh, in some form or other. The ordinary cold in the head inflames and weakens the membranes lining the nose and throat, and starts a discharge. The next cold is more easily caught, and soon the patient is never quite free of it.

As Catarrh develops the discharge increases—drops into the throat, especially at night—and takes on an offensive odor. Besides being exceedingly disagreeable, there is great danger of the disease extending to the lungs, stomach, or bowels.

Though it is very difficult to cure, Father Morrisey devised a combined internal and external treatment that has cured thousands. The Tablets tone up and invigorate the system, and assist Nature in throwing off the disease, while the salve, applied up the nostrils, clears out the discharge and heals the membranes.
