LOST MILLION IN WALL STREET MARKET CRASH

Concert Pianist Loses Entire Fortune Left By Friend of Her Father.

(Special to The Guardian)
CRAHA, Neb., Nov. 9.—Miss Margaret Shotwell of Omaha, concert pianist, now in New York, lost $1,000,000 in the Wall Street Market crash, wiping out her entire fortune, according to her mother, Mrs. Margaret Shotwell. "Margaret had just telephoned me about the loss," said Mrs. Shotwell today. "She phoned me a few days ago that she had lost money, but not in such amounts as I find she has lost. She has, heretofore, played the piano because she liked it, now she has to play to make a living." Miss Shotwell who is 22 years old, is the daughter of the late Judge Franklin Shotwell of the Nebraska Supreme Court. A friend of Judge Shotwell, a bachelor, who often went to his home to hear the little girl at that time 12 years old play the piano, died and left everything he had to her.

V. C's Banquet Recalls Origin of Valour Awards

By W. W. Murray, Canadian Press Staff Writer.
LONDON, Nov. 9.—The banquet today in London, organized by the British Empire Service League in honor of recipients of the Victoria Cross and at which the Prince of Wales will be present, recalls the antiquity of the practice of bestowing medals upon soldiers to betoken royal recognition of courageous deeds. It is a product of the days when Cavalier fought Roundhead. True it is that certain devices had been struck by Queen Elizabeth half a century previously and presented to high officers in the Royal Navy in commemoration of the victory over the Spanish Armada, but it was left to King Charles the First to institute decorations for personal bravery in the army. History discloses the

ANNUAL VISIT

(Special to The Guardian)
LONDON, Nov. 9.—More ceremony than usual featured the arrival tonight of Queen Victoria of Spain, bringing her two daughters, Infanta Beatriz, aged 20, and Infanta Maria Cristina, aged 18, on her annual visit to her mother, Princess Beatrice, at Kensington Palace. Spanish Ambassador Merry Del Val accompanied the Royal Family from Dover to London, where they were met at the Victoria Station by Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales and Princess Beatrice. Mayfair has been discussing the visit of the Spanish Queen for weeks, attaching more than ordinary importance to it, in view of rumors that the engagement of one of her daughters may be announced when they return to Spain. The two queens exchanged affectionate greetings tonight while the Prince of Wales talked with the Infanta Beatrice who is reported to be engaged to the Duke of Norfolk.

ARMISTICE DAY MESSAGE ISSUED BY SIR ARTHUR

(Special to The Guardian)
MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 9.—Sir Arthur W. Currie, commander of the Canadian Corps in France, today issued the following Armistice Day message:—"The Armistice became effective at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month of the year, eleven years ago. This is the first occasion on which the anniversary falls on the same day of the week, Monday. It is a day of coincidences, full of happy auguries, I believe. "Just as the Armistice brought to a close the most awful war in which mankind has ever participated, so Armistice Day this year brings to a close a period during which the nations were slowly and painfully finding their way back "In an Armistice message last year I said: The nations are thinking at last, as they never thought before in terms of peace. That is even more true today. The allied armies no longer occupy German territory. The Kellogg-Briand Pact is regarded as a real basis of international relations; and not as a mere gesture of goodwill. The Anglo-Saxon nations of the world have drawn closer together, and acute causes of friction between them have been removed; a disarmament conference will soon meet and the vision of a world for ever at peace an ideal for which Canadians shed their blood in generous profusion, is nearer a reality today than ever before. If this be true, we have the solace and the comfort that the cruel war brought to a close eleven years ago was not fought in vain." Sir Arthur, who was included in the list of speakers sending greetings over the air to old comrades of the Great War, will be unable to speak in any of the Armistice services. His illness, of long standing, has confined the commander of the Canadian Corps to his bed.

CANADIAN ENLISTMENTS

ENLISTMENTS IN THE CANADIAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, FOR SERVICE IN THE WORLD WAR

The return of the great day of remembrance that marks the anniversary of the end of the World War, brings with it many recollections of those who left our shores to take part in the great conflict. The figures given here with regard to the enlistments in the C. E. F. were supplied by the Minister of Defence at Ottawa, and are therefore authentic. The most striking feature is the great number of enlistments on the part of the British immigrant. The statement is as follows: "The total number who enlisted with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces for service during the Late War was 619,636. The country of birth, given by the members of the C. E. F. under oath, of this total is recorded as follows:—

Country of Birth	Canada
British Columbia	7,091
Alberta	3,330
Saskatchewan	4,763
