

Taschereau Government Narrowly Escapes Defeat In Sensational Contest

Queen Again

Princess Helen, the divorced wife of King Carol of Romania, will be a queen once more—but in a different land. King George II of Greece has let his intimates know that he has no intention of remarriage, but proposes to promote to queenly rank his sister, the same Princess Helen (ABOVE). Princess Helen was long deprived of her rights by Mme. Magda Lupescu, Carol's "girl friend," and refused a reconciliation with her husband when he returned from exile to Roumania five years ago. King George's first wife, Elizabeth, who divorced him last summer, is a sister of King Carol.

gains being as widely separated.
Conservative Gains
Conservatives gained, Beauharnois, Compton, Laval, Maisonneuve, St. James, Richmond and Missisquoi in the territory close to Montreal, and also Lake St. John in the northeast.
The enormous swing against the Government almost duplicated the series of results in other provinces where the Governments were all defeated. In Quebec, however, the swing was away from the Liberal Party rather than towards it as occurred in the other eight provinces with the exception of Alberta.

Two changes in early concessions resulted late in the night. Abitibi, which had been placed in the Conservative column, went back to the Liberals with Hector Authier, Deputy Speaker again successful while Two Mountains, conceded to Paul Sauve, swung in the Liberal fold with Jean Robichon successful.

LEADERS COMMENT ON RESULT

people have spoken," said Premier L. A. Taschereau tonight regarding the Quebec election results which returned him to power with a slim majority of six seats.
"Our Government returns to power with a weak majority, but these few votes permit a little satisfaction if we look about us. In recent months the Bennett Government, that of Nova Scotia, of Prince Edward Island, of New Brunswick and of Alberta have all fallen, one after the other. Ours is maintained. I thank the population for this mark of confidence. We intend to make on the results and the factors which diminished our majority.
"My colleagues and I are going right back to work and try to forget this battle, to give the people the best that is in us in the task of surmounting the crisis still apparent. In that purpose we count on the co-operation of everybody.
"Our party suffered losses. I regret them sincerely. We have lost several colleagues but hope their absence will be of short duration and that we will see them beside us again.
"I congratulate with all my heart our elected candidates. The population of the Province of Quebec can depend on the Government, the ministers and all the members to deal with the different problems facing us."

CELEBRATES DECADE OF SERVICE

Greetings Received From All Parts of Empire Read At Legion Anniversary Banquet.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, Nov. 25.—Greetings and congratulations from every part of the British Empire featured the monster banquet held tonight to celebrate the 10th birthday of the Canadian Legion. Nearly 1,500 ex-service men, their wives and friends, attended and for several hours listened to messages and addresses of praise for the part which the organization has played in the social life of the country.
Brigadier General Alex. Ross, O. M. G., D. S. O., Dominion President of the Legion, was in the chair.
"Warmest congratulations," were sent by the Prince of Wales, Grand Patron of the British Empire Service League of which the Canadian Legion is a member.
His Royal Highness wishes to congratulate you and the Legion on the excellent work which has been accomplished, and he hopes that all those who served in the Canadian forces will join up and help to carry on the good work. He sends his best wishes to all his Canadian comrades.
An element of sadness entered into the celebration when a communication, received a few days ago from the late Admiral of the Fleet Earl Jellicoe, was read. Earl Jellicoe's funeral took place today. He had been Grand President of the B. E. S. L. in succession to the late Earl Haig.
Tonight Lady Haig cabled her felicitations. "My husband much appreciated the answer to his call for unity amongst the ex-service men and women in Canada," said Lady Haig. "The reports he received showed him more than ever the wonderful spirit of his comrades and their friends in Canada."
From the widow of Viscount Byng of Vimy, who led the Canadian corps and was former Governor General of Canada, General Ross read another message:
"You all know how closely my dear husband had the welfare of ex-service men at heart," wrote Lady Haig, "and how warmly he would have joined with you and me in this occasion. So, may I send a message of good wishes for good luck in the coming years to the Canadian Legion. A big piece of my heart always will remain in Canada, and with the men who served under, and loved, my husband, as he loved them."
"It is indeed a happy and outstanding anniversary," wrote Sir Robert Borden, war-time premier, "From a national conference of Canadian ex-service men sprang into being 10 years ago the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League. Diverse organizations formed for a worthy purpose had arisen. The touchstone of successful endeavor was unity; and that unity has been accomplished in the splendid organization of which you are the proud and honored members."
Hon. Ernest Lapointe, acting Premier, was unable to be present, but he wrote the part:
"The reasonableness and sincerity of the Canadian Legion in the presentation of its views have invariably brought forth a sympathetic and generous response from the Parliament of Canada and from the public generally. That this happy situation will continue in the future I have not the slightest doubt."
Lady Currie, widow of the late Canadian Corps Commander who was Grand President of the organization telegraphed:
"I have always been deeply interested in the Legion," said Lady Currie. "My pride in what it has achieved in the past is only equal by my faith in what it will accomplish in the future. With my sincere good wishes not only for the well-being of the Legion as a whole but also for that of each member."

STATE OF SIEGE DECLARED IN BRAZIL

(A.P. By Guardian's Special Wire) RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 25.—The Brazilian government declared a two-month "state of siege" throughout the nation tonight and sent warships, airplanes and troops to crush a bloody leftist revolt in the north.
Rebels, said by the government to be Communists, seized Natal, important seaport capital of the state of Rio Grande do Norte. They also controlled the city of Macaehybe, in the same state, and another outbreak was reported in Curitiba, capital of the southern state of Parana.
Non-commissioned officers of the army were said to be leaders of the insurrection, adopting their tactics from the successful Cuban revolt of 1933.
Fears were expressed for the safety of the huge Graf Zeppelin due after a flight from Africa, at Recife in the northeastern area, where the fighting is hottest. It ordinarily moors at Jequia, on the outskirts of the city, near Orinda, where federal forces and rebels were battling.

Local Chapter I. O. D. E. Hold Monthly Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Royal Edward Chapter I. O. D. E. was held yesterday afternoon. The Regent, Mrs. J. A. Matheson, who presided, read a letter from the National President, Mrs. A. G. Lumbers in which she asked Primary Chapters to keep in the forefront of their activities the need of the endowment fund committee and the Canadian wing to the St. Susa Sorabji Memorial School at Poona. Some $3,000 of the necessary amount still remains to be collected.
Committees were appointed to carry on the special Christmas work, to arrange for a picture in January and for other phases of the work.
It was reported that Summerside is co-operating with the local Chapter in the programme of education on League of Nations work.
Contributions for Christmas boxes are solicited from members and interested friends. Last year they were sent to approximately 190 children in families of ex-service men.

Officials of the Condor Syndicate here, agents for the ship, ordered the Graf by wireless to land elsewhere if possible, or if she had enough gasoline to proceed to Rio de Janeiro.
President Getulio Vargas, after a cabinet meeting, called the Chamber of Deputies into session and party leaders immediately signed an emergency bill granting his requests for a "state of siege."
This amounts to virtual martial law. Vargas said the plot was not confined alone to the states of Pernambuco and Rio Grande do Norte but also extended to the 18 other states of the nation.
"There is proof of the intention to implant a Communist regime," he asserted.
Rebels were circulated in Rio de Janeiro that Socialists expected the small state of Ceara, lying immediately north of Rio Grande do Norte, to join the northeastern uprising.
Facts in the possession of the government were alleged to have disclosed a widely ramified Socialist movement designed to grip all Brazil within three months. Police Chief Mueller of Rio de Janeiro, the most important agent working in the northern area, where the insurrection is reported at least a month ago that the maturing plans had brought again to Brazil Luis Carlos Prestes, leader of the 1924 Sao Paulo rebellion, to head this revolt.
A Communist manifesto, pledging nationalization of banks, expropriation of foreign vested interests and a declaration of war "to all foreign imperialism," was circulated secretly in Rio de Janeiro. An eight-hour day for workers, minimum wages and vacations with pay were other planks.
There were reports of bloodshed but crippled communication lines prevented details from reaching here.
The "republicans" "Rio Grand do Sul" and "Bahia" prepared to leave at once for the north coast. Two squadrons of airplanes and detachments of loyal soldiers also were ordered to the area.
BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 25.—Precautions of South American governments against extremists are likely to be intensified as a result of the revolt in northern Brazil, it was said tonight in authoritative quarters.
The Communist party is not recognized in most South American republics and only one, Uruguay, has diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia.
Government officials in Rio de Janeiro claimed Communists were sponsoring the northern rebellion.

SACRED RELICS INVISIBLE TO MORTAL EYES

By Andrus Berding.
Associated Press Foreign Staff (By Guardian's Special Wire) AKSUM, Ethiopia, Nov. 25.—I have never into Ethiopia's holy of holies, the sacred room in Aksum's Cathedral where the true Ark of the Covenant and the 10 Commandment tablets supposedly are enshrined, only to learn that no mortal eyes can see them.
"For I saw absolutely nothing—nothing, that is, I have a high hanging pendant which, I was told, harbors the holy bees, deadly guardians of the invisible ark and its legendary tablets.
"Only a saintly man can see them," said the High Priest, Tacle, who permitted me to gaze into the shrine only after I had used all the wiles and persuasion in my power to obtain his consent.
I checked my inability to see the sacred relics with a young Englishman. But he saw nothing, either.
Hence I concluded that the ark and the tablets—reputedly brought to this Ethiopian mecca by the Queen of Sheba—never have been seen by any living person.
The High Priest told their history.
"The Queen of Sheba, our first ruler, and the mother of the Emperor Menelik, first brought them from King Solomon to Aksum," he began.
"The Queen, attracted by Solomon's glory, came from Abyssinia to see him. She fell in love with him and she conceived of a boy who became King Menelik I.
"When the time came for her to return to Abyssinia, Solomon wished to make her a present. He had copies made of the Ark of the Covenant and the 10 Commandment tablets and gave them to her. But the Queen secretly exchanged the copies for the originals at night and departed for her native country.
"Solomon tried to overtake her, but didn't succeed."
It was then that we asked if we could go inside. The high priest was adamant in his refusal. We begged to be allowed to peer into the sacred room. After a long discussion, the high priest relented.
I approached the shrine and looked through a three-inch opening. It was a small room, rising without a break to a high roof where a small cupola let in some light. But in the room itself was absolutely nothing.
I looked and looked to assure myself of this. Finally, up under the cupola, my eyes found a small pendant mass.
"It is the hive of the holy bees," the priest said. "If any person, save a saint, should try to enter the holy of holies the bees would sting them to death."
I asked the priest who, in his life time, had seen the Ark of the Covenant, the tablets and the decalogue.
"No one," he answered. "I have not seen them myself."
Centuries ago, he added, the Arabs burned the cathedral. But the ark and the tablets were not destroyed because the fire could not find them.
The tablets, he explained, are of wood, not stone. They are inscribed in the ancient language called "Hebrew" and not in Hebrew; there are five of them, not two.
Therefore it would seem they could not be the tablets which, the Bible says, Jehovah gave to Moses on Mount Sinai.

COMEDY IS GREATLY ENJOYED

"Getting Sandy" Presented To Capacity Audience In Holy Name Hall.

A large and appreciative audience filled the Holy Name Hall last night at the presentation of the three act comedy, "Getting Sandy," under the auspices of the Holy Name Society of St. Dunstan's Basilica and directed by Mr. J. Austin Trainor, under whose direction so many successful productions have been staged in Charlottetown.
The play, containing an abundance of wholesome comedy and climaxed with a happy ending kept the audience convulsed with laughter.
All the members of the cast, whether in a leading role or minor role, took their parts with skill and interpreted the characters in a most realistic way.
Between acts specialties were also of an outstanding nature and were enthusiastically enjoyed. They included vocal solos by Miss Joan McCarey and Mr. A. R. McTavish and a dance number by Mr. William Trainor. Miss Frances McCarey was the accompanist. At Blanchard's Orchestra rendered excellent music.
The following was the cast of characters:
Sandy McNab, an invalid—Philip McQuaid.
Martha Watkins, his avaricious sister—Bernadette Gaudet.
Mrs. Watkins, Martha's husband—Joseph Cheverie.
Deacon Clark a sanctimonious Notary—Patrick McTague.
Elvira, his wife—Agnes Pigot.
Nan Stillman, Sandy's niece—Eileen Hughes.
Debby Green, Sandy's sweet heart—Lucy Campbell.
Wed Tiffany, Nan's fiancée—Charles O'Neill.
St. Taylor, the Village Expressman—James Loernagan.
John Stokes, a clergyman—Frank McIntyre.
Clark—Reg. Mahar.
Ambulance Attendants—Fred Purser, James Browne.
The story centres round Martha Watkins and her husband, Peter, who go to live with Sandy McNab under the guise of caring for him but in reality to be able to claim his possessions when that time should arrive. They were literally killing him with patent medicine and lack of sunshine, which they administered in two letters a day, which stirred up complications. One letter announced the coming of Sandy's niece and the other the return of his former sweetheart. It is a delightfully interesting plot that skillfully mingles love, laughter and pathos.
The play took first prize in a national play competition in the United States.
The program will be repeated tonight at 8:15.
With the present developments in Europe and Africa, and the fact that this is Mark Twain's centennial, it is fitting to recall his "Prayer," written some thirty years ago.
"O Lord our God, help us to teach our soldiers to bloody shreds with our shells; help us to cover their smiling fields with the pale forms of their patriot dead; help us to drown the thunder of the guns with the wailing of their huddled millions; help us to lay waste their humble homes with a hurricane of fire; help us to write the hearts of their unoffending widows with unavailing grief; help us to turn them out rootless and unfringed through wastes of their desolated land in rags and hungers; and thirst, sport of the sun's flames and summer and the icy winds of winter, broken in spirit, worn with travail, imploring Thee for the refuge of the grave and denied it—for our sakes, who adore Thee, Lord, blast their hopes, blight their lives, protract their bitter pilgrimage, make heavy their steps, water their eyes with their tears, stain the white snow with the blood of their wounds. "I have told the whole truth in that prayer," its author once said, "and as only dead men can tell the truth in this world, it can be published after my death." This was done. And perhaps there has never been printed a more ironically prophetic exposure of war's stupidity than this brief piece.

TRIBESMEN

match Wores, leading a detachment of Bas Seyoum's warriors, had triumphed in two engagements within three days.
In the most recent skirmish, the government stated three Italian battalions, attacked north of MacAle, had lost their commander and several soldiers while the rest of the troops were dispersed.
Semi-official dispatches stated the Ethiopians in the south had regained the fortified town of Gorraheh, taken by the Fascists early in their advance from Italian Somaliland. The Italians were said to have suffered heavily.
The government announced its troops had forced the Italians to retreat south of Gorraheh, as the Ethiopians increased their efforts to repel the invaders following the visit of the Emperor to the southern front last week.
Dedjazmatch Mohammed Yahal, Commander in Assis Province, who had been called a deserter by the Italians, informed the government "the situation in my province is satisfactory."
The marriage of Dedjazmatch Apte Marlam, Governor of Lekeppi Province, to the daughter of Haile Selassie, Princess Tashai, was predicted by court officials. They said the King favors the wedding as a move in solidifying the Empire. The Governor controls a district which has many elephants and much gold.
MAKALE, Nov. 25.—(C.P.—Havas)—General Roste Mariotti's column of Askari and Danakil natives tonight pushed southwest to attack an Ethiopian force under Ras Kassa which officers here said was demoralized so badly it was ready to surrender without a fight.
Gen. Mariotti expects to meet the enemy force, which air scouts say totals 20,000 troops, near Antalo, 15 miles south of here.
The high command here asserted the tribesmen's morale was shattered by last Monday's air attack which according to Italian sources, took a toll of at least 2,000 Ethiopian dead and wounded.
Ras Seyoum, Emperor Haile Selassie's commander-in-chief on the northern front, informed of the flagging spirits of Ras Kassa's men, is now hurrying southward to bolster their courage.

SWEDE TURNIPS

(Experimental Farms Note)
Maritime climatic conditions are particularly favourable for the production of swede turnips. The cool summer nights and an abundance of moisture available during the autumn growing months, produce large yields of swede turnips of excellent quality.
The trade for table stock swedes has increased rapidly and over a million bushels were shipped from Prince Edward Island alone in 1934. As a cash crop swedes have given a good return for the labour expended.
The varieties recommended are: Dittmars, Mettes Bangholm, Millpond and Hassard's Improved. These are not resistant to clubroot (Plasmodiophora brassicae). Varieties that have proven resistant to this disease are: Althensburger Alftotte and Bangholm Selected. Seed may be obtained from the Dominion Experimental Stations in the Maritime Provinces.
Swede turnips do best on a well drained sandy loam soil. It should be prepared the previous autumn by ploughing down a liberal application of barnyard manure. For early table stock, the spring work should be started just as soon as the land can be worked into good tilth. Seed with manure in drills 30 inches apart, and thin with a horsehoe and the thinners when the plants have four leaves, to from six to eight inches apart in the row. Cultivate frequently throughout the season and after very heavy rain, until the plants cover the ground.
When manure is not available, a 3-9-3 mixed fertilizer has been used at rates up to 1600 pounds per acre with good results, depending on the fertility of the soil. Heavy applications of manure have reduced the diameter of brown heart under certain conditions and 10 pounds of borax per acre, applied at seeding time, has given the best control where brown heart is very prevalent.
When cutworms are prevalent the best control has been obtained by applying the poisoned bran treatment before the turnip plants appear above ground.
The table stock trade at present requires a turnip smooth and free from blemishes and insect injury. Two or more pullings are usually necessary to secure uniform roots to meet this requirement.—J. A. Clark, Dominion Experimental Station, Charlottetown, P.E.I.

KILL FOX IN GARDEN

BRIDGEWATER, England.—Foxes have no respect for private property and, for that matter, neither have hounds. The killing of a fox in an alfalfa garden raised quite a rumpus recently and a long argument over the merits and demerits of fox-hunting ensued. It ended when the town council wrote to the Master of the West Somerset Foxhounds expressing the hope the incident would not be repeated.
