McLellan-Brittain Nuptials

Main Street Baptist Church, Saint John was the scene of a wedding of interest on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock when the pastor, Rev. Dr. A. C. Vincent united in marriage Miss Lillian Frances McLellan, daughter of Mrs. David McLellan, Main Street, and William Alfred Dick Brittain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Brittain, 1902 Van Horne Avenue, Montreal, Que.

The church was beautifully decorated with autumn foliage and bronze chrysanthemums against a background of ferns. The pews reserved for invited guests were marked with white satin bows and snapdragons.

John Inch presided at the organ and as the wedding party entered the church played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin. During the signing of the register Mrs. Rex R. Cormier sang "At Dawning" by Cadman, and the recessional was Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

The bride was attended by Miss Marjorie Gibson Cowan as maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Frances Kierulff, Miss Helen Willett, Mr. Brittain's groomsmen were Mac Walker of Lachute, Que. and the ushers were Bradford Matthews and George A. Whittaker.

Given in marriage by her brother David J. O. McLellan, the bride wore a Molyneux model gown of shell pink spider web tulle made on stereotyping presses. The V-neck-line had two rows of tiny covered buttons for trimming, and was finished with a smart collar in the back. The sleeves had a ruffled shoulder treatment and the skirt extended in the back into a slight train. Her long pink tulle veil edged with pearls fell gracefully from a halo of net to the floor. The train in the back, and she carried a beautiful bouquet of roses.

The maid of honor wore a gown of blue velvet made of long lines with a row of mutton sleeves. Her doll hat was of matching velvet edged with marmeta and trimmed with an ostrich plume. She carried a ring of white chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids were wearing dresses of marmeta velvet with long full skirts. The bodices had heart-shaped necklines, and ruffled sleeves. They wore hats of matching velvet trimmed with violet ostrich plumes, and carried blue chrysanthemums.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 95 Main Street, Mrs. McLellan, mother of the bride, was wearing a wine-colored velvet dress with matching hat and gloves. Her hair was styled in a bun and she wore a matching velvet trimmed with violet ostrich plumes, and carried blue chrysanthemums.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Brittain left on a motor trip to Boston, New York and Montreal.

For travelling the bride wore a cruller brown crepe dress with hat and accessories to match. Her two coats were of brown supported wool with a mink collar and sleeves.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Walker and son of Mrs. Walker of Leaside, and Dr. Ronald Taylor of Toronto.

Immediately after the ceremony the bell installed in Main Street in memory of several of the bride's relatives pealed forth merrily in honor of the happy occasion. The bride has been the honor guest at several social functions prior to her marriage. An army of lovely gifts testified to the popularity of the couple.—St. John Telegraph Journal.—Mr. Brittain has a host of friends in this city and his parents are annual summer visitors.

In Memoriam

MRS. CLARA GALLANT

The people of Mayfield and vicinity were deeply grieved on learning of the death of Mrs. Clara Gallant, aged 29, which occurred at the home of her father, Cyril Gallant, Mayfield, on Tuesday, October 25th.

Although not fully recovered from a recent severe illness, she had regained sufficient health to attend to her family of small children and most of all her household duties.

On Saturday evening she planned on her feeling as well as usual. She gradually grew worse, and the end came very suddenly on Monday, October 26th. She was a woman of exemplary character, and of an unassuming disposition. Her husband, Clarence Gallant of North Rustico, pre-deceased her almost three years ago. She leaves to mourn four small children ranging in ages from two to seven, her father and mother, four sisters, namely: Mrs. Raymond (Nellie) Gaudet, Mrs. Hubert (Agnes) Arsenault, both of Fernwood; Ida and Alice at home; also four brothers, George, Joseph, Ivan and Austin at home.

She was visited during her illness by her parish priest, Rev. Father Dalton.

The funeral services took place at St. Ann's Church, Hope River, on October 26th. The services in the church and at the grave were conducted by the parish priest, Rev. Father Dalton.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Hubert Arsenault, Raymond Gaudet, Frank Arsenault, Edward Dolron, Andy Gallant and Robert Arsenault. May her soul rest in peace.

Card of Thanks

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Gallant wish to thank their neighbours who so kindly assisted them in their sad bereavement. L-1153-11-2-11.

GIVE BABY A BONE TO CHEW, SAYS DENTIST

If Johnny or Helen want to chew on a steak or lamb chop bone after dinner, don't be too hasty in discouraging the habit, advises Dr. Asa J. LaGrow of Oak Park, Ill. He says that the bone-chewing will help nature build a sound set of teeth in a child and at the same time overcome to a great extent the possibility of a receding or protruding jaw.

The dentist expounded his view in an article written for the Journal of the American Dental Association. He pointed out that "modern dietary is of a kind which leaves teeth, jaws and muscles of mastication imperfectly exercised. He advocated the use of muscle exercises to help straighten crooked teeth and to help overcome improper jaw alignment.

It was explained that the "muscle exercise" stimulates normal jaw bone cell building, which in turn strengthens parts of the oral structures which are unbalanced because of their weakness.

Dr. LaGrow cited evidence that the lower jaw of a new-born baby usually lies back of the upper jaw in relation to the profile of the face. Nature tells the infant to strengthen the muscles of the lower jaw by nursing. Instinct of the baby to gnaw strengthens the lower jaw and the jaw normally lengthens as the child grows. The failure of the baby to exert this instinctive exercise may leave the lower jaw in a posterior position, according to Dr. LaGrow.

The many friends of Eugenie Cotell, Georgetown will be glad to know that he will soon be around again after his unfortunate accident. Eugenie, one of the most popular students of the Georgetown school, and a violinist of much promise, had the misfortune to dislocate his ankle during a softball game played on school fair day.

The R. C. M. P. cutter Una was in port for a few days this week. While here the crew members put on a most enjoyable dance to which all the younger folk of Georgetown were kindly invited. The following night a return masquerade dance was held at Kory Hall which proved a most enjoyable affair.

The provincial engineer visited Georgetown on Wednesday and as a result all teams working on the highway out of Georgetown were laid off. The writer understood this part of the work is being discontinued until spring. However work on the Kent Street is scheduled to get underway on Friday.

"Woman Against Woman" At The Capitol

The age-old triangle of a man and two women still finds novel and up-to-the-minute treatment in "Woman Against Woman," screening at the Capitol Theatre. In this instance the man, Herbert Marshall, is a husband, and the women, Virginia Bruce and Mary Astor, are his second and first wives, respectively, with the first determined that his marriage to the second shall not be success. In the hands of this trio the story takes on telling conviction, with Marshall turning in a performance that rivals that of his father role in "Mad About Music."

Miss Bruce is more charming than ever and continues the steady dramatic advance she evidenced in "The First Hundred Years," and Miss Astor gives a skillful interpretation of a most unsympathetic role.

A picturization of Margaret Culkin Banning's national magazine story, "Enemy Territory," the film presents a group of equally sparkling featured characters, among them Janet Beecher as Marshall's mother, Marjorie Rambeau as a senator's wife responsible for Marshall's first meeting with Virginia Bruce, Juana Quigley as the child who complicates the problems of the leading trio, and also Zeffie Tilly, Sarah Padden, Betty Ross Clark, Dorothy Christy, Morgan Wallace and Joseph Crehan.

The latest vogue is colored rice, but it really is not a food fashion. The colored rice, in pastel shades, is being turned out for soups and puddings, but to match frocks of bridesmaids.
